Plan to Ship U. S. Arms to West Europe Under Study

Congress Expects Truman to Request Limited Shipments To Five Nations

By the United Press

President Truman will send Congress a plan for limited shipments of American arms to the five-nation "western union" within the next three weeks, informed congressional sources said yesterday.

The plan already has been presented informally to Senate President Vandenberg by Undersecretary of State Lovett in two private conferences at Vandenberg's hotel suite.

Patterned after wartime lend-lease, American military backing thus would be provided for the five nations which last month signed a mutual defense and economic pact at Brussels—Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Military Committee Planned

The executive committee of this "western union" met for the first time in London Saturday. It is expected to establish a permanent military committee immediately, probably including representatives of the five general staffs.

Action of that type is being awaited in both congressional and Administratoin circles as the prelude to assurances of American military backing.

The lend-lease plan stems from a pledge made Congress by Mr. Truman on the day the Brussels pact was signed—March 17. At that time the Chief Executive said:

"I am sure that the determination of the free countries of Europe to protect themselves will be matched by an equal determination on our part to help them to do so."

Limited Shipments Seen

Government sources believe only limited shipments would be requested because of America's own defense needs and a top limit of about 1,600,000 on the armed strength which can be mustered by the five nations.

The military plan would be separate from the European Recovery Program, but congressional sources said it would try to accomplish on the military front what ERP seeks to do on the economic front. That adds up to the stabilization of western Europe and the strengthening of free governments.

Reception of a new lend-lease in Congress is uncertain but several Senators, including Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. (R., Mass.) favored United States military aid if the five European nations establish a joint American staff, standardize their arms, and assign one another specific tasks in event of an emergency.

Communists Run Far Behind in German Voting

Frankfurt, Germany, April 25 (AP).—Communists trailed far behind other major parties as returns poure din early today from local electoins held yesterday in the United States zone of Germany.

With more than half the ballots counted, Communists were running in fourth place with 65,000 votes.

The moderate Social Democrats were far ahead, with 324,500 vites. Behind them were the Christian Democrats, with 293,000, and the Rightist Liberal Democrats with 142,000.

The results have indicted little change in the day's political line-up since the elections in January, 1946.

The Social Democrats won in industrial Hesse and the Christian Democrats in the Bavarian farmlands. Communists weer in fourth place in 1946.

Police said the elections were quiet.

Forum Question On Talk With 'Joe' Puts 'Ike' on Spot

Wichita, Kans., April 25 (AP).—A friendly Kansas audience put Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on the spot today at an open forum.

One question was whether it would be possible for a man trusted by "both parties—some statesman, a leader—a general—to go see Joe Stalin," Soviet Russia's premier.

"Don't you think those two men could work out a solution?" Eisenhower was asked.

"It is impossible for any man to speak (for the United States) with the authority that Mr. Stalin speaks for Russia—and if he could, it wouldn't be America," Eisenhower replied.

E. J. Smith told him that "what they (the American people) want is that you represent us."

Train Wreck Overturns Coach Three Times

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

TWO KILLED—About 40 persons were injured and two killed when the locomotive and three cars of the Sunchaser, fast Miami to Chicago passenger train, plunged down a steep 100-foot embankment after derailing on a curve at Adamsville, Ala., near Birmingham. The first car, a combination baggage-passenger coach, catapulted over the engine and made three loops in air before smashing to foot of the gorge. Story on Page 10

Martin Urges Start Toward Air Supremacy

70-Group Air Force Best Guarantee for Peace, He Asserts

By the United Press

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., said yesterday that air supremacy is this country's best guarantee of peace and for that reason it must have a 70-group Air Force.

"The quicker we start toward that goal the better off we'll be and the safer the country will feel," he said.

The Massachusetts Republican made his statement on the eve of the opening of hearings by the Senate Appropriations Committee on a bill to give the Air Force 822 million dollars for new planes.

Forrestal Favors Compromise

The money would permit the Air Force to contract for 1056 planes in 1950 and 1951, including 854 jet-propelled bombers and fighters. This would give them a running start toward 70-group strength.

Defense Secretary James Forrestal will be the committee's first witness. He probably will restate his opposition to the new funds despite the 343-to-3 margin by which they won House approval.

Forrestal has proposed a compromise program. He would boost the Air Forces from 55 to 66 groups by taking enough planes out of storage to equip 10 new groups of B-29 bombers and 1 fighter group.

But air-minded Congressmen don't want to take planes from storage until plane plants are at

Talked Too Much

Finns Foil Red Plot to Seize Power

Helsinki, April 25 (AP).—The newspaper Suomen Sosialidemokraatti said today moderate Communists and the government had foiled a left wing Communist plot to seize control of the country this spring.

The newspaper of the Social Democratic Party, said the plotters were inspired by the success of the recent Communist coup in Czechoslovakia. Their plans failed, it added, because they talked too much.

Finnish Communists are divided into two groups. A moderate group, the paper said, is composed of members "who have reached a social position where they can indulge in such privileges and pleasures as bourgeoise society can offer in spite of its rottenness."

It called the leftist branch "the barricade men" who wish to improve their own positions through revolution.

The revolution was to have begun this spring, but the barricade men could not keep the secret, the newspaper said. Communist workers began to threaten uncooperative fellow workers that "something will happen soon."

Egypt Would Swap Rice for Wheat

Cairo, April 25 (AP).—Egypt will offer the United States and Britain an exchange of its rice surplus for wheatwheat.

Mahmoud Zaki Bey, commerce undersecretary, will negotiate agreements in Washington and London, it was announced tonight.

Over 60 Million Predicted

All-Time High Employment Expected in U. S. This Summer

By the Associated Press

Jobs in America are expected to reach the highest total in history this summer, outnumbering last year's record sixty millions.

Ewan Clague, Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said yesterday employment in March was running one million higher than in March 1947.

"If, during the coming spring, the economy merely follows the normal seasonal pattern of increases in construction and agriculture and declines in the textiles and apparel industries," Clague said, "it is obvious that early this summer employment will reach a new peak exceeding last year's record of sixty millions."

Clague said in his report that the spending on European recovery and defense measures recently adopted or on the way "have so far had no direct impact upon the demand for labor."

He added, however, that anticipation of the effect of these measures on the economy "has tended to stimulate buying."

Clague said there are about a million more veterans in the labor force now than a year ago.

"There are about 800,000 more women. More labor is still available from these two sources," he said.

Unemployment compensation claims on the whole were shown to be about 5 per cent below last year's level and except for temporary factors the same few States seemed to be hit.

A major part of the increase during the month occurred in the construction industry, which reached its seasonal low in February. Building contractors added nearly 100,000 in March, bringing the total in the industry to 1,660,000. This was 125,000 above March, 1947.

O'Boyle Hits DAR Stand Against DPs

Archbishop Sees Opposition at Variance With Nation's Traditions

Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle, of the Washington Archdiocese, took sharp issue yesterday with the Daughters of the American Revolution for opposing the admission of more immigrants to the United States.

He spoke at the solemn high mass opening the first annual convention of the Washington Archdiocesan Union of Holy Name Societies at Holy Comforter Church, 14th and E Capitol sts.

". . . I regret that this grand group of estimable women should adopt a resolution so at variance with the sacred traditions of our country—to be a friend and a charitable neighbor to the needy, the oppressed, and the afflicted, he said.

Society Supports Stand

Later in the day, 1000 Holy Name men at the convention's business sessions unanimously approved a resolution deploring the DAR's action.

The convention also urged that Congress enact legislation designed to relieve immigration limitations "so as to admit to this country those suffering European displaced persons whose distressing plight is in no measure attributable to themselves but on the contrafy brought about by athesistic leadership functioning with complete abandonment of human Christian principles."

Archbishop O'Boyle, in his message, restated the three arguments which he said were the reported basis of the DAR resolution against increasing immigration quotas to admit displaced persons. Then he attacked them one by one. The DAR resolution was adopted Friday.

Casualty Lists Cited

The Archbishop said the resolution was adopted "on the basis that the United States has already assimilated as many immigrants as possible, that pending legislation before Congress is the handiwork of foreign blocs seeking to break down our immigration laws, and that the displaced persons are imbued with a political philosophy at variance with our constitutional form of government."

Of the argument that America can absorb no more immigrants, Archbishop O'Boyle said, "I would prefer to consider that this charge results from mere lack of knowledge of not only the geographical expanse of our Nation, but the need, as well, for further building and improving our economic foundation."

Answering the charge that bills to broaden immigration quotas are inspired by "foreign blocs," he pointed to the casualty lists of World War II—"filled with the names of the sons of immigrants which very well could have been characterized as 'foreign blocs.'

"These were the sons of immigrants who came to this country and who assisted us in no small measure in gaining our position of preeminence in world affairs."

Displaced Persons Defended

Regarding the charge that displaced persons have political ideas inimicable to our own, Archbishop O'Boyle declared, "It is regrettabe that the leaders of the DAR have not taken the time and energy to learn that these people are among the strongest opponents of communism in Europe today."

Kobe Red Riot Broken Up by U. S. Troops

Thousands of Koreans Run Wild; Seize Governor, Police Chief

Yokohoma, Japan, April 25 (AP).—American Negro troops put down a riot of several thousand Koreans in the big Japanese port of Kobe today.

Top United States intelligence officers said the wild outbreak was Communist-inspired.

They said a minor dispute over teaching the Japanese language to Korean students was only a pretext.

The United States soldiers swiftly arrested 178 of the riot leaders. They freed the prefectural governor and chief of police, who had been held in the governor's office.

The immediate crisis appeared past, but the possibility of new disorders was not discounted.

However, the Eighth Army announced hours afterwards: "we are making arrests and the situation is calm."

Brig. Gen. C. A. Willoughby, intelligence officer for occupation headquarters, said he regarded the Koreans as definitely dangerous.

Exhibit of German Art Closes; Sets Gallery Attendance Mark

The German art exhibits at the National Gallery closed yesterday with total attendance near the million mark since opening day March 17.

It has been the greatest event in the gallery's history, from the standpoint of attendance, since President Roosevelt dedicated the gallery March 17, 1941.

More than 3000 persons were waiting when the doors opened at 2 p. m. yesterday.

All day long they flowed and eddied about the galleries where the 202 German-owned old masters were hung, and spilled into galleries displaying the museum's regulars collections.

Grinning military police, their voices hoarse, kept up refrains of "one-way traffic" and "don't block the hallway, once inside you can go anywhere."

Expressions of regret and bewilderment over the immediate return of the paintings to Germany were many. "If they were here longer, we could see them better . . ."

Gallery officials thought the exhibit had set attendance records greater than those at World's Fair art shows, when 25,000 persons would be a peak day's attendance.

Today the galleries containing the collection found by American troops hidden in a German salt mine will be closed, as the paintings are transferred to a storage gallery for packing.

Col. Donald G. McBride, district engineer of the Washington District, Corps of Engineers, said the contract for packing the pictures had been let to the Security Storage Co. The Washington company has made a specialty of handling art works and in the past has moved the Mellon, Kress, Widener and other public and private collections.

Colonel McBride said a New York expert had been called in. Also on hand will be Dr. Irene K. Kuehnel, a prewar curator of the collection and consultant to the Office of Military Government in Germany.

Packing of the paintings is expected to take 10 days to two weeks.

Meanwhile, companion bills have been introduced in the House and Senate to keep the paintings in the United States a while longer. In another congressional move, the opinions of German leaders in the American zone have been asked on the question of first sending the paintings on tour here.

Irgun Forces Pierce All-Arab City of Jaffa; Thousands in Flight

Haganah Belittles Extremist Assault, Declaring Drive Was Unauthorized

Tel Aviv, Palestine, April 25 (AP).—The underground troops of Irgun Zvai Leumi slashed into Jaffa today in a Passover Sunday onslaught which some reports said carried them a mile into Arab quarters.

The status of the battle was undetermined tonight, however—conflicting reports saying the Jewish drive had been stalled or that it still was progressing.

[The United Press said that police reported thousands of Arabs fled Jaffa as Jaffa Police Superintendent J. M. Flanagan said at least four persons were killed and 32 wounded when Irgunist mortars, hammered the Jaffa business section.

[Flanagan said Irgun forces, reported driven back after seizing the railroad station and the big Manshieh police station, had not been able to hold any part of the Arab city.]

Haganah Belittles Attack

Haganah, the regular Jewish militia, belittled the Irgun attack on the all-Arab city of 95,000 and said it was unauthorized. Haganah said the operation attracted more attention in parading and blocking traffic in Allenby Road than it did in the streets of Jaffa. Haganah took no part in the attack and said it tried futilely to dissuade Irgun leaders from beginning it.

It was reported that about 1000 Jewish fighters took part in the assault, launched from the neighboring all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv.

Some sources said the forces of Irgun Commander Menachim Beigin had encountered British troops, supported by mechanized equipment, and that the Jewish drive stalled. These sources said the British told Haganah to instruct the underground fighters to fall back to the no man's land between Jaffa and Tel Aviv, or that Tel Aviv would be shelled.

Attack Continues, Says Irgun

High Irgun officers said, however, the attack still was continuing early tonight and that all Arab strongpoints in the Manshieh quarter of Jaffa had been captured. Arab defenders fell back into the heart of Jaffa, they said.

These officers added they met British armor once and that it was an accidental meeting.

In Tel Aviv, Irgun men in civilian clothes blocked off the entire southern section of the city, controlling all traffic in and out of the fighting zone. It was reported that Irgun went into the attack with at least one medium tank, several armored cars and automatic weapon carriers. It

Seeks Palestine Debate Voice

Soviet Names Delegate, Ends U. N. Trustee Council Boycott

Lake Success, April 25 (AP).—Soviet Russia ended its boycott of the United Nations Trusteeship Council today, apparently to have a full voice in Council debate on Palestine.

Russia designated Semen M. Tsarapkin, Charge d'Affaires of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, as the Soviet delegate.

Tsarapkin was Russia's delegate on the special Palestine committee that worked out the U. N. scheme to partition the Holy Land last fall and took a leading part in advocating partition.

Russia acted as emergency steps that would make Jerusalem virtually an open city took top priority in the U. N.

Russia refused to take a seat on the trusteeship council when it first met March 26, 1947, and has consistently boycotted every session since that time, declaring the council was not rorrectly established.

As a permanent member of the U. N. Security Council, Russia had a seat on the trusteeship council under the U. N. Charter. The veto power does not extend to the trusteeship council, which now has 12 members.

The trusteeship council last week completed work on a proposed statute for the City of Jerusalem, but decided to take an indefinite recess without finally voting on it.

The United States used the council's trusteeship plan for Jerusalem as a base for a tentative proposal on trusteeship, which is now before the 58-member political committee of the Assembly. Russia has opposed trusteeship for Palestine at every step.

France's Alexandre Parodi has put before the political committee of the Assembly a resolution intended to place Jerusalem under U. N. care promptly. The committee agreed to tackle that resolution first Monday 9:30 a. m. (EST).

GOP Leaning To 11-Month AEC Extension

Action Would Leave Full-Term Decisions To President in '49

By the Associated Press

Signs of Republican support appeared yesterday for an 11-month extension of the terms of Chairman David E. Lilienthal and four other members of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Under such an arrangement, if a Republican President took office next year he could decide on longer-term appointments in mid-1949.

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) already has publicly announced his determined opposition to giving Lilienthal a new five-year term as asked by President Truman. Two other key Republicans, who would not be quoted by name, told a reporter an 11-month extension for all atomic commissioners might prevent a rough political dispute in this election year.

They also said the final decision probably was up to the Senate Republican Policy Committee, of which Taft is chairman.

The original terms of all five members of the commission expire August 1. The Atomic Energy Control Act provides for appointments on a staggered basis ranging from one to five years from that date. The 11-month interim proposal would delay this until July 1, 1949.

Mr. Truman angered several Republican Senators last week by sending up appointments ranging from five years down to one for the present five members.

Senators said Chairman Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee went to the White House to suggest briefer appointments. Hickenlooper has refused to discuss this incident, but he said he would call Senate members of the atomic group together early this week to consider future plans.

3 Candidates Quit Chinese Race in Huff

Steam-Roller Tactics In Vice-Presidential Election Are Charged

Nanking (Monday) April 26 (AP).—All three candidates for China's Vice Presidency quit the race yesterday in an angry quarrel over steam-roller election tactics.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek sternly sent a delegation to tell them they would have to run anyhow, but the leading contender said today he was out

Gen. Li Tsung-jen, who led on the first two inclusive ballots in the National Assembly, said he would not serve even if elected.

Others May Yield

The other two nominees, the incumbent Sun Fo and Gen. Cheng Chien, indicated they were willing to let the assembly make the choice, although Cheng said, "I'm through."

Sun, who has the blessing of Chiang Kai-shek and the right wing of the governing Kuomintang (Nationalist Party) was expected to rescind his withdrawal.

The whole row hinged about efforts to elect Sun.

General Cheng visited Chiang Sunday morning before the assembly met. Some sources said he had been ordered to throw his votes to Sun, who thus would have been assured of election.

When the assembly opened, he did announce his withdrawl. General Li then angrily announced that he was quitting, too. He said the party machine was supporting Sun—despite prior promises not to nominate anyone—and that anonymous handbills accused Li of plotting a coup d' etat against the generalissmo.

Called 'Rebel' He Says

Li said he had cleared his candidacy with Chiang in advance but now learned that Chiang was calling him a "rebel."

Two hours later Sun announced he also was withdrawing. (Had he stayed in to win by default, it would have amounted to his appointment by Chiang, thus making a farce of the election.)

At Meeting Today

U. S. Chamber Action Expected Backing Preparedness Plans

By the Associated Press

Proposals putting the United States Chamber of Commerce behind President Truman's military preparedness program will go before the chamber's thirty-sixth annual meeting, which opens today. They have the blessing of the chamber's policy committee.

"Adequate appropriations at this time," the proposed policy statement says, "will produce a tremendous saving in the foreseeable future in the outlay of our national Treasury and the lives of our people."

The statement is one of several score resolutions awaiting action.

Due for debate at a special policy session Wednesday evening are resolutions indorsing (1) the extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act and (2) continued congressional probing into subversive activities.

The policy group is headed by D. A. Hulcy, president of the Lone Star Gas Co., Dallas.

Today's "preliminary" session opens with a luncheon at 1 p. m. at the Statler Hotel. Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.) and James A. Farley will speak. At 7 p. m, 36 State and area congressional dinners are scheduled

Secretary of Stat Marshall is to deliver the principal address at the first general meeting, 10 a. m. Tuesday. This meeting also will be at the Statler.

Round table discussions will mark special luncheon meetings Wednesday.

Thursday afternoon, Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.), chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Representative Clarence J. Brown (R., Ohio), chairman of the executive committee of the Republican National Committee, will speak. The annual dinner will be held Thursday evening.

School Society Tars, Feathers 16-Year-Old Boy

San Francisco, April 25 (AP).—A 16-year-old boy was treated at a hospital today after being tarred and feathered.

The city superintendent of schools said summary action would be taken if "there was any violation of the State law against secret high school societies."

Police said he admitted he and three other boys were initiated last night into an organization atop Mount Davidson.

The boy was reluctant to discuss the initiation, afraid he would get his buddies "kicked out of school."

He finally admitted he had been beaten with ping pong paddles and then drenched with a mixture of paint, tar and molasses and covered with feathers.

Chile Arrest Hints 'Vast Red Underground'

Santiago, Chile, April 25 (U.P.).—A vast international Communist underground organization has been formed in northern Chile by agents of Russia and Yugoslavia, the government charged today.

The investigation service said that documents found in the possession of arrested Yugoslav Communist Kristo Szigoric contained detailed information.

The papers reportedly included a letter to Yugoslav Gen. Ljubomir Ilic, described as "the leader of secret Communist organizations in the Americas."

Plan to Ship U. S. Arms to West Europe Under Study

Congress Expects Truman to Request Limited Shipments To Five Nations

By the United Press

President Truman will send Congress a plan for limited shipments of American arms to the five-nation "western union" within the next three weeks, informed congressional sources said yesterday.

The plan already has been presented informally to Senate President Vandenberg by Undersecretary of State Lovett in two private conferences at Vandenberg's hotel suite.

Patterned after wartime lend-lease, American military backing thus would be provided for the five nations which last month signed a mutual defense and economic pact at Brussels—Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Military Committee Planned

The executive committee of this "western union" met for the first time in London Saturday. It is expected to establish a permanent military committee immediately, probably including representatives of the five general staffs.

Action of that type is being awaited in both congressional and Administratoin circles as the prelude to assurances of American military backing.

The lend-lease plan stems from a pledge made Congress by Mr. Truman on the day the Brussels pact was signed—March 17. At that time the Chief Executive said: "I am sure that the determination of the free countries of Europe to protect themselves will be matched by an equal determination on our part to help them to do so."

Limited Shipments Seen

Government sources believe only limited shipments would be requested because of America's own defense needs and a top limit of about 1,000,000 on the armed strength which can be mustered by the five nations.

The military plan would be separate from the European Recovery Program, but congressional sources said it would try to accomplish on the military front what ERP seeks to do on the economic front. That adds up to the stabilization of western Europe and the strengthening of free governments.

Reception of a new lend-lease in Congress is uncertain but several Senators, including Henry Cabot Lodge, jr. (R., Mass.) favored United States military aid if the five European nations establish a joint American staff, standardize their arms, and assign one another specific tasks in event of an emergency.

Communists Run Far Behind in German Voting

Frankfurt, Germany, April 25 (AP).—Communists trailed far behind other major parties as returns poure din early today from local electoins held yesterday in the United States zone of Germany.

With more than half the ballots counted, Communists were running in fourth place with 65,000 votes.

The moderate Social Democrats were far ahead, with 324,500 vites. Behind them were the Christian Democrats, with 293,000, and the Rightist Liberal Democrats with 142,000.

The results have indicted little change in the day's political line-up since the elections in January, 1946.

The Social Democrats won in industrial Hesse, and the Christian Democrats in the Bavarian farmlands. Communists weer in fourth place in 1946.

Police said the elections were quiet.

Forum Question On Talk With 'Joe' Puts 'Ike' on Spot

Wichita, Kans., April 25 (AP).—A friendly Kansas audience put Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on the spot today at an open forum.

One question was whether it would be possible for a man trusted by "both parties—some statesman, a leader—a general—to go see Joe Stalin," Soviet Russia's premier.

"Don't you think those two men could work out a solution?" Eisenhower was asked.

"It is impossible for any man to speak (for the United States) with the authority that Mr. Stalin speaks for Russia—and if he could, it wouldn't be America," Eisenhower replied.

E. J. Smith told him that "what they (the American people) want is that you represent us."

Train Wreck Overturns Coach Three Times

TWO KILLED—About 40 persons were injured and two killed when the locomotive and three cars of the Sunchaser, fast Miami to Chicago passenger train, plunged down a steep 100-foot embankment after derailing on a curve at Adamsville, Ala., near Birmingham. The first car, a combination baggage-passenger coach, catapulted over the engine and made three loops in air before smashing to foot of the gorge. Story on Page 10.

Martin Urges Start Toward Air Supremacy

70-Group Air Force Best Guarantee for Peace, He Asserts

By the United Press

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., said yesterday that air supremacy is this country's best guarantee of peace and for that reason it must have a 70-group Air Force.

"The quicker we start toward that goal the better off we'll be and the safer the country will feel," he said.

The Massachusetts Republican made his statement on the eve of the opening of hearings by the Senate Appropriations Committee on a bill to give the Air Force 822 million dollars for new planes.

Forrestal Favors Compromise

The money would permit the Air Force to contract for 1056 planes in 1950 and 1951, including 854 jet-propelled bombers and fighters. This would give them a running start toward 70-group strength.

Defense Secretary James Forrestal will be the committee's first witness. He probably will restate his opposition to the new funds despite the 343-to-3 margin by which they won House approval.

Forrestal has proposed a compromise program. He would boost the Air Forces from 55 to 66 groups by taking enough planes out of storage to equip 10 new groups of B-29 bombers and 1 fighter group.

But air-minded Congressmen don't want to take planes from storage until plane plants are at

Talked Too Much

Finns Foil Red Plot to Seize Power

Helsinki, April 25 (AP).—The newspaper Suomen Sosialidemokraatti said today moderate Communists and the government had foiled a left wing Communist plot to seize control of the country this spring.

The newspaper of the Social Democratic Party, said the plotters were inspired by the success of the recent Communist coup in Czechoslovakia. Their plans failed, it added, because they talked too much.

Finnish Communists are divided into two groups. A moderate group, the paper said, is composed of members "who have reached a social position where they can indulge in such privileges and pleasures as bourgeoise society can offer in spite of its rottenness."

It called the leftist branch "the barricade men" who wish to improve their own positions through revolution.

The revolution was to have begun this spring, but the barricade men could not keep the secret, the newspaper said. Communist workers began to threaten uncooperative fellow workers that "something will happen soon."

Over 60 Million Predicted

All-Time High Employment Expected in U. S. This Summer

By the Associated Press

Jobs in America are expected to reach the highest total in history this summer, outnumbering last year's record sixty millions.

Ewan Clague, Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said yesterday employment in March was running one million higher than in March 1947.

"If, during the coming spring, the economy merely follows the normal seasonal pattern of increases in construction and agriculture and declines in the textiles and apparel industries," Clague said, "it is obvious that early this summer employment will reach a new peak exceeding last year's record of sixty millions."

Clague said in his report that the spending on European recovery and defense measures recently adopted or on the way "have so far had no direct impact upon the demand for labor." He added, however, that anticipation of the effect of these measures on the economy "has tended to stimulate buying."

Clague said there are about a million more veterans in the labor force now than a year ago.

"There are about 800,000 more women. More labor is still available from these two sources," he said.

Unemployment compensation claims on the whole were shown to be about 5 per cent below last year's level and except for temporary factors the same few States seemed to be hit.

A major part of the increase during the month occurred in the construction industry, which reached its seasonal low in February. Building contractors added nearly 100,000 in March, bringing the total in the industry to 1,660,000. This was 125,000 above March, 1947.

Kobe Red Riot Broken Up by U. S. Troops

Thousands of Koreans Run Wild; Seize Governor, Police Chief

Yokohoma, Japan, April 25 (AP).—American Negro troops put down a riot of several thousand Koreans in the big Japanese port of Kobe today.

Top United States intelligence officers said the wild outbreak was Communist-inspired.

They said a minor dispute over teaching the Japanese language to Korean students was only a pretext.

The United States soldiers swiftly arrested 178 of the riot leaders. They freed the prefectural governor and chief of police, who had been held in the governor's office.

The immediate crisis appeared past, but the possibility of new disorders was not discounted.

However, the Eighth Army announced hours afterwards: "we are making arrests and the situation is calm."

Brig. Gen. C. A. Willoughby, intelligence officer for occupation headquarters, said he regarded the Koreans as definitely dangerous.

O'Boyle Hits DAR Stand Against DPs

Archbishop Sees Opposition at Variance With Nation's Traditions

Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle, of the Washington Archdiocese, took sharp issue yesterday with the Daughters of the American Revolution for opposing the admission of more immigrants to the United States.

He spoke at the solemn high mass opening the first annual convention of the Washington Archdiocesan Union of Holy Name Societies at Holy Comforter Church, 14th and E Capitol sts.

". . . I regret that this grand group of estimable women should adopt a resolution so at variance with the sacred traditions of our country—to be a friend and a charitable neighbor to the needy, the oppressed, and the afflicted, he said.

Society Supports Stand

Later in the day, 1000 Holy Name men at the convention's business sessions unanimously approved a resolution deploring the DAR's action.

The convention also urged that Congress enact legislation designed to relieve immigration limitations "so as to admit to this country those suffering European displaced persons whose distressing plight is in no measure attributable to themselves but on the contrary brought about by athesistic leadership functioning with complete abandonment of human Christian principles."

Archbishop O'Boyle, in his message, restated the three arguments which he said were the reported basis of the DAR resolution against increasing immigration quotas to admit displaced persons. Then he attacked them one by one. The DAR resolution was adopted Friday.

Casualty Lists Cited

The Archbishop said the resolution was adopted "on the basis that the United States has already assimilated as many immigrants as possible, that pending legislation before Congress is the handiwork of foreign blocs seeking to break down our immigration laws, and that the displaced persons are imbued with a political philosophy at variance with our constitutional form of government."

Of the argument that America can absorb no more immigrants, Archbishop O'Boyle said, "I would prefer to consider that this charge results from mere lack of knowledge of not only the geographical expanse of our Nation, but the need, as well, for further building and improving our economic foundation."

Answering the charge that bills to broaden immigration quotas are inspired by "foreign blocs," he pointed to the casualty lists of World War II—"filled with the names of the sons of immigrants which very well could have been characterized as 'foreign blocs.'

"These were the sons of immigrants who came to this country and who assisted us in no small measure in gaining our position of preeminence in world affairs."

Displaced Persons Defended

Regarding the charge that displaced persons have political ideas inimicable to our own, Archbishop O'Boyle declared, "It is regrettable that the leaders of the DAR have not taken the time and energy to learn that these people are among the strongest opponents of communism in Europe today."

Visitor Total Near Million

The German art exhibits at the National Gallery closed yesterday with total attendance near the million mark since opening day March 17.

It has been the greatest event in the gallery's history, from the standpoint of attendance, since President Roosevelt dedicated the gallery March 17, 1941.

More than 3000 persons were waiting when the doors opened at 2 p. m. yesterday.

All day long they flowed and eddied about the galleries where the 202 German-owned old masters were hung, and spilled into galleries displaying the museum's regulars collections.

Grinning military police, their voices hoarse, kept up refrains of "one-way traffic" and "don't block the hallway, once inside you can go anywhere."

Expressions of regret and bewilderment over the immediate return of the paintings to Germany were many. "If they were here longer, we could see them better . . ."

Gallery officials thought the exhibit had set attendance records greater than those at World's Fair art shows, when 25,000 persons would be a peak day's attendance.

Today the galleries containing the collection found by American troops hidden in a German salt mine will be closed, as the paintings are transferred to a storage gallery for packing.

Col. Donald G. McBride, district engineer of the Washington District, Corps of Engineers, said the contract for packing the pictures had been let to the Security Storage Co. The Washington company has made a specialty of handling art works and in the past has moved the Mellon, Kress, Widener and other public and private collections.

Colonel McBride said a New York expert had been called in. Also on hand will be Dr. Irene K. Kuehnel, a prewar curator of the collection and consultant to the Office of Military Government in Germany.

Packing of the paintings is expected to take 10 days to two weeks.

Meanwhile, companion bills have been introduced in the House and Senate to keep the paintings in the United States a while longer. In another congressional move, the opinions of German leaders in the American zone have been asked on the question of first sending the paintings on tour here.

Irgun Forces Pierce All-Arab City of Jaffa; Thousands in Flight

Seeks Palestine Debate Voice

Soviet Names Delegate, Ends U. N. Trustee Council Boycott

Lake Success, April 25 (AP).—Soviet Russia ended its boycott of the United Nations Trusteeship Council today, apparently to have a full voice in Council debate on Palestine.

Russia designated Semen M. Tsarapkin, Charge d'Affaires of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, as the Soviet delegate.

Tsarapkin was Russia's delegate on the special Palestine committee that worked out the U. N. scheme to partition the Holy Land last fall and took a leading part in advocating partition.

Russia acted as emergency steps that would make Jerusalem virtually an open city took top priority in the U. N.

Russia refused to take a seat on the trusteeship council when it first met March 26, 1947, and has consistently boycotted every session since that time, declaring the council was not rorrectly established.

As a permanent member of the U. N. Security Council, Russia had a seat on the trusteeship council under the U. N. Charter. The veto power does not extend to the trusteeship council, which now has 12 members.

The trusteeship council last week completed work on a proposed statute for the City of Jerusalem, but decided to take an indefinite recess without finally voting on it.

The United States used the council's trusteeship plan for Jerusalem as a base for a tentative proposal on trusteeship, which is now before the 58-member political committee of the Assembly. Russia has opposed trusteeship for Palestine at every step.

France's Alexandre Parodi has put before the political committee of the Assembly a resolution intended to place Jerusalem under U. N. care promptly. The committee agreed to tackle that resolution first Monday 9:30 a. m. (EST).

Haganah Belittles Extremist Assault, Declaring Drive Was Unauthorized

Tel Aviv, Palestine, April 25 (AP).—The underground troops of Irgun Zvai Leumi slashed into Jaffa today in a Passover Sunday onslaught which some reports said carried them a mile into Arab quarters.

The status of the battle was undetermined tonight, however—conflicting reports saying the Jewish drive had been stalled or that it still was progressing.

[The United Press said that police reported thousands of Arabs fled Jaffa as Jaffa Police Superintendent J. M. Flanagan said at least four persons were killed and 82 wounded when Irgunist mortars, hammered the Jaffa business section.

[Flanagan said Irgun forces, reported driven back after seizing the railroad station and the big Manshieh police station, had not been able to hold any part of the Arab city.]

Haganah Belittles Attack

Haganah, the regular Jewish militia, belittled the Irgun attack on the all-Arab city of 95,000 and said it was unauthorized. Haganah said the operation attracted more attention in parading and blocking traffic in Allenby Road than it did in the streets of Jaffa. Haganah took no part in the attack and said it tried futilely to dissuade Irgun leaders from beginning it.

It was reported that about 1000 Jewish fighters took part in the assault, launched from the neighboring all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv.

Some sources said the forces of Irgun Commander Menachim Beigin had encountered British troops, supported by mechanized equipment, and that the Jewish drive stalled. These sources said the British told Haganah to instruct the underground fighters to fall back to the no man's land between Jaffa and Tel Aviv, or that Tel Aviv would be shelled.

Attack Continues, Says Irgun

High Irgun officers said, however, the attack still was continuing early tonight and that all Arab strongpoints in the Manshieh quarter of Jaffa had been captured. Arab defenders fell back into the heart of Jaffa, they said.

These officers added they met British armor once and that it was an accidental meeting.

In Tel Aviv, Irgun men in civilian clothes blocked off the entire southern section of the city, controlling all traffic in and out of the fighting zone. It was reported that Irgun went into the attack with at least one medium tank, several armored cars and automatic weapon carriers. It

Action Would Leave Full-Term Decisions To President in '49

By the Associated Press

Signs of Republican support appeared yesterday for an 11-month extension of the terms of Chairman David E. Lilienthal and four other members of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Under such an arrangement, if a Republican President took office next year he could decide on longer-term appointments in mid-1949.

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) already has publicly announced his determined opposition to giving Lilienthal a new five-year term as asked by President Truman. Two other key Republicans, who would not be quoted by name, told a reporter an 11-month extension for all atomic commissioners might prevent a rough political dispute in this election year.

They also said the final decision probably was up to the Senate Republican Policy Committee, of which Taft is chairman.

The original terms of all five members of the commission expire August 1. The Atomic Energy Control Act provides for appointments on a staggered basis ranging from one to five years from that date. The 11-month interim proposal would delay this until July 1, 1949.

Mr. Truman angered several Republican Senators last week by sending up appointments ranging from five years down to one for the present five members.

Senators said Chairman Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee went to the White House to suggest briefer appointments. Hickenlooper has refused to discuss this incident, but he said he would call Senate members of the atomic group together early this week to consider future plans.

3 Candidates Quit Chinese Race in Huff

Steam-Roller Tactics In Vice-Presidential Election Are Charged

Nanking (Monday) April 26 (AP).—All three candidates for China's Vice Presidency quit the race yesterday in an angry quarrel over steam-roller election tactics.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek sternly sent a delegation to tell them they would have to run anyhow, but the leading contender said today he was out

Gen. Li Tsung-jen, who led on the first two inclusive ballots in the National Assembly, said he would not serve even if elected.

Others May Yield

The other two nominees, the incumbent Sun Fo and Gen. Cheng Chien, indicated they were willing to let the assembly make the choice, although Cheng said, "I'm through."

Sun, who has the blessing of Chiang Kai-shek and the right wing of the governing Kuomintang (Nationalist Party) was expected to rescind his withdrawal.

The whole row hinged about efforts to elect Sun.

General Cheng visited Chiang Sunday morning before the assembly met. Some sources said he had been ordered to throw his votes to Sun, who thus would have been assured of election.

When the assembly opened, he did announce his withdrawl. General Li then angrily announced that he was quitting, too. He said the party machine was supporting Sun—despite prior promises not to nominate anyone—and that anonymous handbills accused Li of plotting a coup d' etat against the generalissmo.

Called 'Rebel' He Says

Li said he had cleared his candidacy with Chiang in advance but now learned that Chiang was calling him a "rebel."

Two hours later Sun announced he also was withdrawing. (Had he stayed in to win by default, it would have amounted to his appointment by Chiang, thus making a farce of the election.)

U. S. Chamber Action Expected Backing Preparedness Plans

By the Associated Press

Proposals putting the United States Chamber of Commerce behind President Truman's military preparedness program will go before the chamber's thirty-sixth annual meeting, which opens today. They have the blessing of the chamber's policy committee.

"Adequate appropriations at this time," the proposed policy statement says, "will produce a tremendous saving in the foreseeable future in the outlay of our national Treasury and the lives of our people."

The statement is one of several score resolutions awaiting action.

Due for debate at a special policy session Wednesday evening are resolutions indorsing (1) the extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act and (2) continued congressional probing into subversive activities.

The policy group is headed by D. A. Hulcy, president of the Lone Star Gas Co., Dallas.

Today's "preliminary" session opens with a luncheon at 1 p. m. at the Statler Hotel. Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.) and James A. Farley will speak. At 7 p. m, 36 State and area congressional dinners are scheduled

Secretary of Stat Marshall is to deliver the principal address at the first general meeting, 10 a. m. Tuesday. This meeting also will be at the Statler.

Round table discussions will mark special luncheon meetings Wednesday.

Thursday afternoon, Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.), chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Representative Clarence J. Brown (R., Ohio), chairman of the executive committee of the Republican National Committee, will speak. The annual dinner will be held Thursday evening.

School Society Tars, Feathers 16-Year-Old Boy

San Francisco, April 25 (AP).—A 16-year-old boy was treated at a hospital today after being tarred and feathered.

The city superintendent of schools said summary action would be taken if "there was any violation of the State law against secret high school societies."

Police said he admitted he and three other boys were initiated last night into an organization atop Mount Davidson.

The boy was reluctant to discuss the initiation, afraid he would get his buddies "kicked out of school."

He finally admitted he had been beaten with ping pong paddles and then drenched with a mixture of paint, tar and molasses and covered with feathers.

The student is a ward of the juvenile court.

Chile Arrest Hints 'Vast Red Underground'

Santiago, Chile, April 25 (U.P.).—A vast international Communist underground organization has been formed in northern Chile by agents of Russia and Yugoslavia, the government charged today.

The investigation service said that documents found in the possession of arrested Yugoslav Communist Kristo Szigoric contained detailed information.

The papers reportedly included a letter to Yugoslav Gen. Ljubomir Ilic, described as "the leader of secret Communist organizations in the Americas."

Maher Has Special Qualifications For Heading Loyalty Check Committee

If a newspaperman's natural curiosity and a lawyer's training will help, the District couldn't have a better man at the helm of its loyalty check committee than Danny Maher.

DANIEL MAHER

The 41-year-old New Jersey Irishman is both.

In fact, the struggle he had in deciding which profession to use for a career had him jumping from one to the other until he made up his mind 13 years ago.

Daniel B. Maher, stocky, sharp-eyed and genial, virtually tore himself away from the newspaper business, and with a degree from Columbus University he plunged into law in 1935. As a boy in Kearny, N. J., he sold papers; then he was a printer's devil.

He jumped to law at Fordham University, but couldn't turn down a noffer from a New Jersey paper. After six years with The Washington Post, during which time he covered the Capitol, the White House and courts, he reached the final decision—law.

He became assistant United States attorney in June of 1943. When he resigned last year to become special assistant corporation counsel, it was with the plaudits of his boss, United States District Attorney George Morris Fay. Said he: "You have rendered most valuable service. You have served the Government well and to me personally you have been most helpful."

In his new post, Maher handles the Commissioners' "hot potatoes," not the least of which came shortly after his appointment.

Fire Capt. Joseph W. Conroy's charges that Fire Chief Clement Murphy "demoralized" the department put Maher in the role of Murphy's prosecutor. The Fire Chief was exonerated and Maher's recommendation that Conroy be "forgiven" was accepted and a semblance of peace returned to the strife-torn department.

One of Maher's most striking legal victories as a prosecutor was the conviction of Joseph Medley, suave slayer of Divorcee Nancy Boyer. Medley was executed for the murder.

Maher lives at 2925 Pennsylvania ave. se., with Mrs. Maher and their three children, Martha, 9; Danny, 7, and Carol Ann, 3 months.

UMT Needed, Bradley Tells Senate Group

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

America's military planners are "a little bit more afraid something will happen than we were three months ago," Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, believes.

Bradley told the Senate Armed Services Committee last Wednesday in secret session that "we are not so sure . . . now" that there could be "no war right away." He told the committee the 70-group air force it was considering was "in no way an army that we would need to fight a war."

Bradley's testimony and that of Defense Secretary Forrestal and others high in the military establishment was made public yesterday by Chairman Gurney (R., S. Dak.) of the committee. The 80-page transcript contained numerous deletions, many of which by their conduct referred to Soviet Russia.

Trained Reserve Ordered

And at one point appears the undeleted statement of Bradley, in urging a trained reserve made possible by universal military training, that unless there is such a reserve:

"You are going to sit here until you can build it up, train it and equip it, and in the meantime you may have lost all footholds from which you can attack Russia, because we know that we are all speaking about Russia."

The alternative to an adequate reserve, Bradley warned the committee, would be a defensive war on the North American Continent.

The force, preponderantly air, which was under consideration was not the answer to the Nation's need, Bradley declared.

"This force that we are talking about here," he said, "is in no way an army that we would need to fight a war. It is just a one-shot army, in a way, and it would take care of our immediate defense in this country and the bases from which we could be bombed.

"It would not provide anything from which the Air Force could bring its power to bear on any possible enemy. It would not in any way provide all of those forces which we must have within a year or so to bring this war to an affective stage."

He reiterated constantly his conviction that UMT was needed to provide the reserve without which he did not believe the United States could prepare in time for offensive combat. Under present conditions, he said, "we can fight . . . about 10 divisions offensively until such time as industrial mobilization caught up, which would be a year or 18 months . . . This is all that you are going to have for one year, and we have nobody holding trihe outposts until we train (a reserve force).

"That is what worries us."

Backed By Tydings

Bradley found a staunch ally in Senator Tydings (D., Md.) who gave him caustic backing.

"Without men," said Tydings, "all of this stuff to end the war is just so much baloney, and you cannot go out and get men a bit quicker than you can get planes that are usable, and all I see here is a lot of money being spent for equipment and not the companion force to make that equipment vital and active and usable.

"I think that we have got to put more stress on getting trained men, because all of the equipment in God's world is not worth a damn without your having trained men to use it."

Senator Russell (D., Ga.) agreed with Tydings. He said he felt that "if we get in a war (here the committee deleted two obvious words) in the next six or seven years it is going to be an accident. It may come and it is perfectly possible. There are many hot points of contact that we have over the globe."

At another point Tydings returned to his insistence that concentration on aircraft would be ineffective.

"In other words," he said after a statement which was deleted, "we have got the bombers and we have not got the means to move the bombers where we can utilize them.

"Now, to me, that seems like a waste of money. If ke are going to have the bombers, I want to use them.

"There is so use of having a tractor in the apple orchards that is sitting back in the garage when we need to spray the beetles off the blossoms."

Secretary Forrestal echoed Bradley's apprehensions. He insisted in his preliminary statement and in answer to questions, that both UMT and a temporary draft were vitally necessary.

"The problem that we have to face," he declared, "is that we set up a plan last year based on the assumption of no immediate danger of war. We think now that you have to contemplate the possibility of war and this is an effort to make an accommodation between those those two assumptions."

Each Day Held Critical

For my responsibility," he said at another point, "I regard every day as critical."

The committee was discussing a compromise program for spending $14,481,000,000 during the fiscal year beginning July 1 rather than the 20 billions proposed in a bill passed by the House. The House measure provided for 70 air groups and the compromise for 66.

Gen. Carl Spaatz, retiring Air Force chief of staff, explained that the 66-group program would add 10 B-29 bomber groups to the present authorized Air Force. Left out, in comparison with the House bill, would be two troop-carrier groups and one medium bomber group.

Troop carrier units are utilized to transport and supply ground combat forces and medium bomber units to assist ground forces by attacking enemy communications and supply centers.

Forrestal reminded the committee that a powerful military establishment probably could not be attained without some sacrifice of civilian comforts. It would demand, he said, that "you cease the making of motor cars and washing machines and refrigerators."

Atomic Board, Navy to Join Forces in Scientific Research

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Navy yesterday agreed to pool their resources in certain fields of scientific research.

The one-year joint program is designed to help elimisate costly duplication and over-lapping of research, which was criticized by President Truman's Scientific Research Commission last year.

The commission will advance four million dollars of its research funds to help pyy for studies being conducted by the Office of Naval Research.

The AEC will provide financial support for at least 29 Navy studies in medicine and biology, including cancer research, and will underwrite about 30 projects in nuclear physics.

Hoffman Opposes Home Front Controls to Help Europe Aid

By the United Press

Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman said yesterday that he has "a strong bias" against reimposition of home front economic controls to help the European recovery program.

"I would certainly hope that if controls should prove to be necessary, they could be applied to a very limited area," he said in an interview.

Hoffman emphasized that ECA is only a small part of the American picture of supply and demand; that defense requirements and domestic needs also must be met from this Nation's production.

"I do not see where ECA should be the major factor that would return rationing or other controls," he added.

He said the United States must add up all aspects before deciding to what extent "we can meet our responsibilities." He conceded that there is sentiment is some Administration circles that controls may be needed to help America over the critical years ahead.

The Senate is expected to approve today, with little or no opposition, President Truman's nomination of W. Averell Harriman to be ECA's roving Ambassador.

Harriman, who resigned last week as Secretary of Commerce, will leave for his European post within two weeks. He will visit all the 16 countries under the Marshall Plan but will set up headquarters in Paris.

Maher to Head 7-Man Board In District's Loyalty Check

Daniel B. Maher, the District's special assistant corporation counsel, will be chairman of a seven-man preliminary committee on a loyalty check of District employes.

The committee, expected to organ-ze soon, was set up by the District Commissioners to determine whether such a loyalty investigation is necessary, and, if so, to recommend procedures.

Their report would cover the scope of the proposed loyalty program, the estimated cost, and who should do the actual investigating.

Another member to be appointed, probably this week, is Lieut. Col. Kenneth E. Madsen, who will represent Engineer Commissioner Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young.

Maher has been chosen by Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West to represent his office on the preliminary committee, and as such automatically will head the group, under the Commissioners' order.

The committee's work will probably take about a week, General Young estimated, during which time the local situation will be canvassed.

The executive board of the Americans for Democratic Action, anti-Communist liberal organization, has urged the Commissioners to provide a public hearing on the proposed loyalty investigations, the yannounced durin gthe weekend.

In a letter to the District officials the board said there were many individuals and civic organizations here "who are deeply concerned not only about the desirability of such a probe, but also about the method, standards and procedure to be used."

A hearing would give residents and employes more confidence in any course that might finally be adopted, the letter said, over the signature of Benjamin C. Sigal, ADA president.

The five other committee members to be named will represent each of the other two Commissioners, the Police Department, the personnel office and the executive department.

Charles Stofberg, special assistant to Commissioner John Russell Young, is considered a likely possibility to represent him on the loyalty study board, while Lieut Harry C. Blackman, chief of the Special Investigation Squad, has been mentioned as the Police Department's probably representative.

Martin Urges Air Supremacy

work to replace them. They argue that Forrestal would strip the Air Force of the only craft it has.

Forrestal and President Truman wanted only a 55-group Air Force. They moved up to the 66 compromise figure after the House approved the 70-group force. The Forrestal-Truman position is that a big Air Force can't operate properly if the Army and Navy aren't expanded to back it up.

Forrestal won some support today from Senator Tydings (D., Md.). He said in a speech to his constituents that the Nation must have a big Navy and Army as well as an Air Force because the Air Force couldn't get anywhere without the Navy and Army seizing and establishing advance bombing bases.

The Forrestal-Truman argument has riled some staunch Administration supporters, including Representative Lyndon Johnson (D., Tex.). He said the Administration is trying to get by with a "moth ball" Air Force in an atomic age of jet planes.

Speaker Martin said:

"I sincerely believe that the best defense or offense is to have complete supremacy in the air. If there's any tension in the world—and we all know there is—we should go to work immediately to reach that goal."

Police Quell Riot Of 25,000 at Milan

Still a Factor

De Gasperi Plans to Keep Reds on Run

By Hugh Baillie
President of United Press

Rome, April 25.—Italy needs the entire four years of the Marshall Plan to keep her Communists on the run, and revision of her peace treaty to play a full part in the western European union, Premier Alcide de Gasperi declared today.

Despite the election victory of his Christian Democrats, he said, communism will continue as an important factor in Italy "because the party internal machinery is an iron one."

"The Communist front got eight million votes and that many votes are always a danger," De Gasperi said. "But we are working to convert them."

In connection with reducing Communist strength, De Gasperi also said:

The 67-year-old Prime Minister made these main points:

1. The Italian government's own program for land and social reform and revived economy, which are the greatest factors in further reducing Communist strength, is based squarely on the Marshall Plan.

2. The non-Communist political parties will continue their already effective policy of whittling away at Communist strength in the big labor and partisan organizations.

3. Peace treaty revision is essential to give Italy full parity with other nations, enable her to defend herself, restore her influence in the colonies and permit her full participation in the western European union.

"Speak as little as possible of war," De Gasperi said. "It is not approaching. I don't think it will soon."

Joking about his recent strenuous campaign in which he made 52 speeches in less than one month, he said:

"We did better than you in America thought we would, didn't we."

Timely Rain Aids In Dispersing Mob Led by Communists

Milan, Italy, April 25 (AP).—Rifle-swinging police, aided by a timely rain storm, today broke up Italy's largest post election riot. Communists provoked and guided the wild demonstration in Milan's famed Cathedral Square.

For an hour police in jeeps and armored cars fired into the air and charged time after time into the lines of 25,000 partisan fighters who were being led by Communists.

The Communists apparently fired at the police. A passerby was known to have been injured and a national policeman was killed by a bullet that reportedly was not from police guns. A streetcar came under a burst of machinegun fire, but its terrified passengers escaped injury.

Liberation Anniversary

This was the third anniversary of Italy's liberation from the Germans, and the partisans were allowed to celebrate. The underground fighters heard Luigi Longo, Italy's No. 2 Communist, declare:

"Today as then (in the uprising against the Nazis) we rise as one single man—without authorization—in defense of liberty and to stage our commemoration for the fallen in the war of liberation."

With those words, the partisans formed ranks for a half-mile march to the Cathedral Square. Their attempt to parade defied a government order, but the police were ready.

After several pitched battles, a heavy thunder shower cooled things off.

Call for May Day Meeting

As today's demonstration collapsed, Communist leaders called for another, greater one to be held May Day when the ban on outdoor political meetings epires.

There was growing discontent among the pro-Communist Socialists.

Giuseppe Romita, former interior minister, told a Socialist meeting in Rome that Socialist leaders responsible for lining the party up with the Communists in the Popular Front should resign. His statement was cheered.

A meeting of pro-Communist Socialists in Milan last night heard Guido Mazzali, director of the Milan edition of Avanti, concede the Popular Front's open opposition to the Marshall Plan had been a mistake. He urged the necessity of working within the Front, but was frequently whistled and booed.

Clay Denies Censorship In Germany

Berlin, April 25 (U.P.).—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander in chief, oday denied there is or will be any censorship of news about American Military Government activities in Germany.

He assured correspondents the "Goldfish Bowl" policy of the the American occupation zone would continue.

Clay said he would notify his information chief, Col. David M. Fowler, that newsmen had misinterpreted a new directive being distributed to United States Army commands in Europe.

The directive revealed yesterday, was interpreted by correspondents as giving the United States Army the right to withhold unclassified material which the Army considers "not of public interest, or of a privileged nature."

It also specifically forbads the release of news concerning "matters under diplomatic study." Clay said "there is no change in our policy. The only information ordered withheld, other than for security reasons, was that of private correspondence," such as personal letters by Members of Congress.

He said Fowler would be readvised what the directive was meant to cover, so there would be no misunderstanding.

Secrecy Rules U. S. Air Force In Germany

Wiesbaden, Germany, April 25 (U.P.).—The United States Air Force in Europe has pulled its operations back behind a wall of secrecy.

The change was first noticed by reporters when three squadrons of B-29 Superfortress bombers arrived from the United States for "routine training."

Lieut. Gen. Curtis LeMay, Air Force commander, now refuses to speak for quotation unless he is allowed to censor his remarks in writing before correspondents file their dispatches.

The 270 officers and enlisted men who brought the 27 B-29s to Furstenfeldbruck, near Munich, refer all questions to headquarters.

Suez "Bombing Run"

Stamped "classified information" are the results of practice missions. No official announcement has been made of the "bombing run" over the Suez Canal two nights ago.

LeMay refused to discuss the mock battle the B-29s staged with Royal Air Force Spitfires over England earlie rlast week. British Air Ministry spokesmen said the Spits "kicked the stuffing" out of the American bombers.

These facts about the American air arm in Europe have been admitted by Air Force officers:

1. American fighter planes in Germany are outnumbered by Russian planes approximately 53 to 1. Russian strength is estimated at about 4000 fighters. The Americans have admittedly "well below 100."

Heavy Bombers Lacking

2. The United States Air Force has no permanent complement of heavy bombers in Germany and does not plan to establish any.

3. Radar and antiaircraft defense at American bases in Germany are conceded to be close to absolute zero.

4. One third of air personnel is engaged directly or indirectly in providing services for the Air Force's 2800 dependents — wives and children—in Germany.

Strato Bomber Pinpoint Aim Is Tested in Desert Secrecy

By the Associated Press

A "stratospheric bombing unit" is seeking better methods of hitting pinpoint targets from way up in the wild blue yonder, beyond the reach of most antiaircraft guns or fighters.

The existence of the unit was disclosed yesterday. It is a joint Air Force-Army ordnance organization conducting the major part of its secret tests in the lonely California desert at the Muroc air base. It carries on some work at Elgin Field, Fla., and Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md.

To this team of airmen and bomb designers is assigned research in bombing technique, with emphasis on high-altitude studies.

Better Than Average

A recent article in a publication of the Boeing Aircraft Co. told of a practice bombing mission of B-29s operating from Okinawa putting all its bombs within a radius of 400 feet from almost five miles up. To a reporter's question, Air Force officials said that while bombing accuracy has improved since the war, this feat was "somewhat better than average."

To other questions about progress in bombing, the Air Force said:

There have been "considerable improvements" in radar bombing (sighting on a target obscured by clouds or darkness) but "no outstanding improvements" in visual bombing with such instruments as the Norden bomb sight.

Radio-controlled steering of a falling bomb, tried out near the close of the war, proved feasible. However, the target and the bomb must be visible while the bomb falls and the method cannot be used where substantial antiaircraft fire is encountered.

Problem Still Unsolved

The Air Force indicated that the problem of releasing bombs from jet aircraft, traveling at speeds approaching sound, remains unsolved. Asked about progress, the official answer was only that "tests are still being conducted."

Major obstacles are: (1) Getting a bomb clear of an airplane traveling at perhaps 600 miles an hour without having the violent blast of the passing air whip it back into the bomb bay or hurtle it into a part of the plane. (2) Producing a bomb that won't fall apart at sonic speed.

In the latter connection, Gen. George C. Kenney, chief of the strategic air command, said recently that all existing bombs are obsolete for use in jet aircraft. If released from a plane flying at 600 miles an hour "they would simply tumble all over the sky, shedding fins and possibly detonating themselves by the violence of their own gyrations," Kenney explained.

U. S. Plane Gear Permits Arctic Airfield Landing

By the United Press

Bombers equipped with newly designed caterpillar-tread landing gear will pound the enemy from secret Arctic airfields in the next war, Air Force officials said yesterday.

They said the necessary landing equipment, looking much like a farm tractor wheel, already is in operation. It has been tried out on an A-20 Douglas bomber and experiments now are being made with B-29's. Some experts believe it can be adapted to the giant B-36 Superforts, which have a 10-000-mile range with a heavy bomb load.

Red Satellites Mapping Own Recovery Plan

By the United Press

The Soviet satellites which refused to join the Marshall Plan expect to spend $11,100,000,000 in the next five years on their own economic recovery program, the Foreign Policy Association said yesterday.

The association report on economic developments behind the iron curtain was prepared by Vera Micheles Dean, director of research. The Soviet Union itself was not included in the five-year plan.

The report said Yugoslavia plans a $5,570,000,000 program of internal economic development; Poland, $3,400,000,000; Czechoslavia, $1,400,000,000; Hungary 540 million dollars, and Bulgaria, 190 million dollars.

Mrs. Dean said Albania's economy has been so closely tied into that of Yugoslavia that political merger of the two Balkan countries is in an increasing possibility.

In varying degrees, all of the countries are developing the Communist - type of nationalized economy that Russia has.

Mrs. Dean noted that the United States is "increasingly interested" in having the eastern European satellites trade their food and raw materials to the industrialized western democracies which this country is aiding under the Marshall Plan.

While the Kremlin refused to let these countries join the Marshall Plan, she said, Russia "may for the immediate future—10 years or so—encourage eastern Europe . . . to trade with the west."

Red Criticism of Air Center Seen Aimed at Plane Travel

Berlin, April 25 (AP).—American officers charged today the Russians are trying to discredit the air safety center here in order to promote a scheme for restricting the Western Allies' air corridor to Berlin.

The center was established in 1945 to control air traffic. It is manned jointly by the four occupying powers. Gen. Lucius D. Clay and other officials have declared they intend to maintain the air corridor through the Soviet zone. Russian restrictions may force a showdown and bring fighter escorts for transport planes.

A Soviet commission charged the safety center was doing an inadequate job at the time British and Russian planes collided here April 5. Today the Soviet-controlled press charged that Lieut. Clyde Tiroux of Minneapolis had been dismissed from the center because "he had deliberately delayed forwarding information on American planes entering Berlin." The press said other lax work by Americans endangered air safety.

Tiroux said:

"I have not been dismissed and my superior officers will substantiate this. I have requested transfer to Munich but only because I want to move my family out of Berlin."

A spokesman for the United States air element said only "the Russians' refusal to give full cooperation" is hindering the safety center.

Socialist Parties to Campaign For United States of Europe

Paris, April 25 (NYHT)—Socialist parties from 13 "Marshall Plan" nations came out today in favor of a United States of Free Europe.

A resolution setting up a Socialist propaganda office to work for this end was adopted unanimously by 57 Socialist leaders at the close of a two-day conference.

They agreed not to participate in the conference for a United Europe to be held next month at the Hague under the chairmanship of Winston Churchill. Hugh Dalton of the British Labor Party, explained "we believe that more can be done on the government level than by a group of private organizations. And all of our parties are represented in our respective governments."

It was learned, however, that British Labor Party opposition to Churchill was behind the decision.

The delegates declared that the Marshall Plan organization already possesses supra-national powers.

8000 Britons Attend Christian Rally

London, April 25 (NYHT).—Eight thousand men and women of all political parties and faiths assembled in Albert Hall tonight at the first mass meeting called, according to Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, "To mobilize Christian effort and Christian faith in western Europe."

The keynote was "a call to action by Christians in the present crisis."

Both Prime Minister Clement Attlee and former Prime Minister Winston Churchill sent special messages.

Greek Troops Capture Town

Athens, April 25 (AP).—Greek troops pressing an offensive against Communist-led guerillas in south central Greece have captured Artotina, and liberated more than 1000 persons, a staff communique said today.

Artotina is on the western slopes of Mount Vardoussia, a strategic height still held by 1500 guerillas. The troops drove the guerillas deeper into their mountain hideouts, about 100 miles northwest of Athens.

Unconfirmed reports from Lamia said a rebel band which crossed into the fighting area from Mount Othrys suffered heavy losses, including 120 killed and scores wounded.

Leader Escapes Cairo Assassins

Car Loaded With Explosives Blown Up At Home of Nahas Pasha; Riots Follow

Cairo, April 25 (AP).—Mustapha Nahas Pasha, wartime Egyptian Premier and WAFD (Nationalist) Party leader, escaped death today when three men blew up a car parked with explosives at his home.

The incident touched off demonstrations in Cairo and Port Said. At Port Said police fired over the heads of a mob throwing stones and shouting "Down with (Premier) Nokrashy!" Seventeen demonstrators were arrested.

Nahas Pasha, 72, was not hurt. His wife was injured slightly by a shower of broken glass.

"This is the fifth time 'they' have tried to kill me, but God is protecting me," he said.

Irgun Forces Pierce Jaffa

brought up its infantry in a fleet of trucks during predawn darkness.

Irgun was said to have presented the Arabs a surrender ultimatum.

(The British army in Jerusalem said first reported casualties in the attack were 2 Jews and 2 Arabs killed and 64 Arabs wounded.)

Arabs Seize Airport

Irgun declared it launched the attack to stop Arab attacks on Tel Aviv from Jaffa. It was for a similar reason that Haganah and Irgun said they attacked Haifa.

The unofficial death toll since the November 29 decision of the United Nations to partition Palestine mounted to 3357.

In Haifa the British transferred 785 visaless Jews to the transport Empire Rival for deportation to Cyprus. The navy intercepted a 350-ton vessel with the Jews off Haifa last night.

British sources said Jewish-conquered Haifa was quiet. They estimated 40,000 Arabs would leave the city in the next seven days. There was no evidence of mass flight by Arabs in other parts of Palestine, although several thousand Arabs as well as Jews are actively trying to get out of the country because of the civil war dangers.

[The United Press said Haganah had agreed with Arab leaders on a plan under which the remaining Arabs, estimated at 15,000 will stay in Haifa under joint Jewish Arab protection.]

Haganah Attacks Jerusalem Quarter

Jerusalem, April 25 (AP). — Haganah, the Jewish militia, lashed for several hours today at the Sheikh Jarrah quarter of Jerusalem, but the British army intervened to prevent actual occupation.

Haganah sought to blast open a safe route from Jerusalem to Hadassah Hospital and Hebrew University atop Mount Scopus.

Jewish casualties were given as one killed and 15 wounded.

British highland infantry moved into the quarter in force at nightfall. Apparently they were trying to enforce disarmament of areas through which British troops will complete their evacuation.

The Scottish troops shelled the Arab and Jewish quarters of the suburb with mortars and bazookas.

Three British soldiers were killed and six hurt in a train wreck caused by rail sabotage near Ramle.

Gentlemen:

On 21 February I left with your Clarendon store a pair of well worn oxfords purchased from you about a year ago. I specified the repairs desired, requested delivery to the above address and was given check number V-16915 after paying $2.90 in advance.

After eleven days the shoes were delivered and fully met my specifications and your advertised claim of restoring shoes to "as good as new".

This job showed the high type of workmanship evident only when performed by someone who takes pride in his work. A new half-sole and a new slipper sole was applied, as well as whole new leather heels with steel tops. Especially noticeable was the length of the half-sole—extending well up into the instep and the old stitches were removed from the welt and the new stitches placed in the same holes. The sole and heel edges were nicely finished without cutting or abraiding the uppers as is often the case with careless workmanship. All loose stitching in the uppers was carefully replaced and a new inner heel cushion neatly cemented in place. To top things off, the shoes were nicely polished and a new pair of laces thrown in. In view of this excellent restoration the price of $2.90 seems modest and well spent.

Please extend my sincere thanks to all the members of your organization who are responsible for this excellent and most satisfactory service.

Very truly yours,

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

Marshall May Face Bogota Revolt Quiz

Rep. Brown Says House Group Wants To Know If Secretary Was Warned

By the United Press

Secretary of State Marshall yesterday ran into a congressional demand that he tell whether he knew in advance of plans for the bloody Bogota revolt, and if so, what he did about it.

The demand was voiced by Representative Brown (R., Ohio) soon after Marshall flew in from the intra-American conference at Bogota. Brown said his House Executive Expenditures Subcommittee may summon Marshall at an early date to give the answers.

Want Statement at Least

"At least we'll want a statement from him," he added.

Brown's group is digging into the question whether American spying was weak in connection with the Colombian uprising that nearly broke up the inter-American conference. He has labeled the revolt a South American "Pearl Harbor."

Representative Devitt (R., Minn.), who claims the Bogota revolt was a "fiasco" of American intelligence, demanded a complete overhaul of the Nation's espionage set-up.

Intelligence Held Neglected

"Intelligence is the most neglected and incompetent aspect of our national defense," he said. "It is equal to, if not greater, in importance than atomic energy."

Devitt, a wartime lieutenant commander who served in Naval Intelligence, said he would push for action on his bill to set up a special Senate-House "watchdog" committee to overhaul and keep tabs on the work of the various intelligence services.

Devitt said one of the major provisions of his bill would be that "watchdog" meetings would be held in secret. He said he was "shocked" that Brown's subcommittee allowed publicity on the secret intelligence reports of Communist activities in Colombia given to it by Rear Admiral R. H. Hillenkoetter, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Pan America Parley Unit Aids Workers

Bogota, Colombia, April 25 (AP).—A working committee of the Pan American Conference approved today, with a reservation by the United States, social guarantees for workers in the Western Hemisphere.

The conference, anxious to finish this week, held committee and working group meetings. The organic pact for an inter-American system was approved by the second commission. Other projects are nearing completion.

Among the clauses in the social guarantees charter is that workers have the right to receive an annual bonus. In Argentina workers collect by law a year-end bonus of one twelfth their annual salary.

The effect of the charter is not obligatory on any government but merely has the force of a declaration.

Willard Beaulac, United States delegate, said, "The United States, although firmly answering to the principle of appropriate international action in the interests of labor, does not regard itself as bound by specific terms of this charter."

The charter describes as the "rights of workers" a 48-hour week, extra pay for night work, prohibition of night work and dangerous work for minors of 18 years, 36 hours of rest per week, the right to join unions and strike, and the distribution of lands through legal procedures to poor rural workers.

Robert Hilker, 15, Will Make Debut At Piano Friday

A 15-year-old Falls Church youth will make his Constitution Hall debut as a pianist Friday night at 8:30.

He is Robert Hilker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hilker, who will be presented as a soloist with the concert band of the Boys Club of Washington. A part of the proceeds will go to the National Symphony's fund campaign.

Robert Hilker

Tickets for the concert are on sale at the Boys Club, 17th st. and Massachusetts ave. se., and at the National Symphony's box office in Kitt's Music Store, 1330 G st. nw., at 12:25.

$36,500 Theft Reported

Hollywood, April 25 (AP).—The Baroness Catherine d'Erlanger, one-time London society figure, reported today the loss of $31,900 in jewelry and $5000 cash from the bathroom safe of her rambling Hollywood mansion.

Nicaragua Protests Rebel Advance

Managua, Nicaragua, April 25 (U.P.).—Nicaraguan President Victor Roman y Reyes charged today in a cable to the Costa Rican government that "revolutionary columns made up of individuals of various nationalities" were marching toward the Nicaraguan frontier from the Costa Rican port of Limon.

Santos Herrera, Costa Rican provisional President, replied by radio that his five-day-old government "has not yet been able to take control" of Limon Province. He promised an "immediate investigation" of the reported march on Nicaragua.

Limon was captured during the revolution by part of the forces of insurgent Gen. Jose Figueres.

Nicaragua sent troops into Costa Rica April 19, last day of the revolution, but they were withdrawn the following day after the invasion was protested by other American nations.

U. S. Troops Quell Red Riot in Kobe

commandant, arranged to fly to Kobe Monday for an inspection.

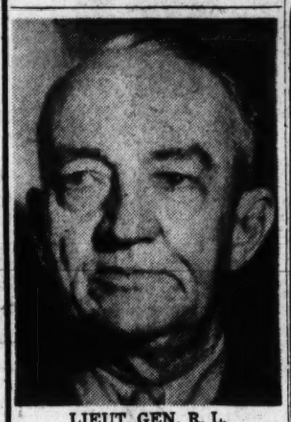
Willoughby and Col. George A. Jones, United States Eighth Army intelligence chief, agreed that Communists fomented the rioting.

Jones characterized the trouble as the first "minor emergency" of the occupation.

[Brig. Gen. Pearson Menoher, Kobe base commander, has declared a state of "limited emergency," the United Press reported.]

Vast numbers of Koreans live in Japan, having come to the country during the half century when Korea was a Japanese colony. They have been notably unruly since the end of the war.

Japanese police blame them as leaders in the black market, but are admittedly unable to cope with them effectively.



LIEUT. GEN. R. L. EICHELBERGER, commander of U. S. Eighth Army, announced yesterday in Yokohama he was flying to Kobe to investigate Korean riots which armed U. S. troops swiftly subdued

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

The present trouble originated in a Japanese government order that Korean schools in Japan must meet Japanese textbook and language standards and must quit using Japanese public buildings for what amount to private schools.

The Koreans refused to teach Japanese as the national language, or to give up the buildings, and the government on April 21 ordered their schools closed.

On Friday about 8000 Koreans, including school children, invaded the Osaka prefectural building and smashed furniture and windows.

Colonel Jones said 5000 Japanese police drove out the Koreans in a free-for-all melee. Twenty-two policemen and 16 Koreans were injured and 179 Koreans were arrested.

Governor Is Seized

"The Koreans decided they could not win in Osaka," said Colonel Jones, "so they shifted their attack to Kobe.

"They invaded the prefectural government headquarters in Kobe and held the governor and chief of police as prisoners.

"The Koreans forced the governor under threats to release 70 Koreans who had been arrested earlier for resisting the school law.

"We have ordered the rearrest of those 70 and all persons who intimidated the governor, mayor and police chief.

General Eichelberger said use of the troops was not resented, as no color line exists in Japan. He added that the troops, regularly stationed at Kobe, "are a darned good outfit—full of good soldiers; I'm proud of them."

"What this country amounts to depends on what happens to its homes" . . . That's why the life insurance companies and their agents are bringing you this series of messages from the nation's foremost authorities, to help you plan for happiness in the handling of your family money. (This is Message No. 35.)

Should wives work, too?

Can a wife have a paying job and a happy home, too? A well-known authority points out some facts that should be considered in each case

By FRANK J. HERTEL
General Director, Family Service Association of America

FRANK J. HERTEL

MORE THAN ONE IN FOUR American workers is a woman . . . and about one in three of these women workers is married! Some wives plan to work just a short time to earn extra money for the family. Others work because they enjoy their careers. Most of them must work to make ends meet.

Can wives work and run happy homes, too? In many cases, yes . . . but it takes careful management. Let's look at a recent case in which the advice of one of our family counselors was sought.

When Helen and Bob Bates (not their real names, of course), set up their home, they had to go pretty heavily in debt. Helen wanted to go to work for a while to help out, but Bob argued that "a woman's place is in the home." Helen finally persuaded Bob to talk it over with a counselor, and he felt better about her working after discussing the pro's and con's. They asked us how other couples went about it.

Both must do their part

We told Helen that a job and housework can be tiring—and that tired bodies can cause short tempers. That was something to guard against.

Work it out together!

We told Bob that he would have to give up some home comforts, and would have to help around the house.

How much extra money? We advised them not to count on all of Helen's pay as extra income. That's because her job would involve expenses that she would not have as a full-time housewife.

Who spends what? The best rule, we said, is to think of both pay checks as "our" money . . . and to manage it through a family budget, reserving small sums for each for personal spending.

Part-time work? If the wife finds her load too heavy, she might consider part-time work—often a good solution if she is a mother. Or perhaps she can find a less tiring job. Or perhaps there are still more short cuts in housework the wife can use?

Set a goal! In a case like Helen and Bob's, all the wife's income should not be used for day-to-day living costs. Some should be saved regularly for a definite goal. Helen and Bob figured that if she kept her job for two years, they could pay off their debt. After that they could decide if she would become a full-time housewife.

The important thing, in every case, is for the husband and wife to sit down and discuss the question fully . . . with facts, not emotions!

Every minute counts when you run a home and a job!

Don't expect the wife's entire salary to be extra income! To figure how much you both are really ahead, subtract from her pay:

1. extra money spent on clothes, carfare, lunch, laundry, pressing, etc.
2. addition to income tax
3. cost of substitute care for children and house
4. what she'd save as a full-time housewife, by more careful marketing, etc.

How to PLAN for Family Happiness

• Planning a smooth-running household when both husband and wife work is only part of sound money planning. You'll be more likely to have enough money on hand when you need it if you'll follow these few simple rules:

FOR TODAY . . . The first thing, for most families, is to take care of the larger fixed items such as rent, taxes, insurance, mortgage and installment payments, etc. So start by adding up all your fixed items for the year, divide by 52, and set aside that amount weekly.

Also, every family should have a "rainy day" fund equal to at least four weeks' income. Set aside a little every week until you have that much. Then you'll know how much you can spend for food, clothing, heat, light, amusement, and so forth.

FOR TOMORROW . . . We live in a changing world. Family needs and circumstances change . . . living costs . . . taxes. If you have not had your life insurance program reviewed lately, the chances are 2 to 1 that it should be brought up to date.

There are so many ways in which you can use your life insurance that you should have the life insurance you now own checked to see if it is suited to your needs. This is a service that comes with your life insurance.

The person best equipped to help you with this is the well-trained life insurance agent. Get in touch with your agent, or write your life insurance company. INSTITUTE OF LIFE INSURANCE, 60 East 42nd Street, New York 17, N. Y.

GOP Presidential Race Nears Finish

Massachusetts, Pennsylvania Vote Held Vital as Halfway Mark Nears

By the United Press

The wide-open race for the Republican presidential nomination neared the halfway mark yesterday and on Tuesday heads into the stretch.

On that day Massachusetts and Pennsylvania pick their delegates to the GOP national convention. Massachusetts controls 35 votes while "pivotal" Pennsylvania swings a very big 73.

There are 1094 delegates to the convention. Some 500 delegates already have been chosen by other States, so that more than half the delegates will have been selected when the Massachusetts-Pennsylvania primaries are wound up.

Race Wide Open

The presidential race still is wide open despite elaborate claims of a first-ballot victory by supporters of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.

To date, Dewey shows the most first-ballot strength on the basis of open pledges and commitments among the 500 delegates chosen so far. They include 97 in New York, 15 in Oklahoma, 6 in New Hampshire and 2 in Kentucky for a total of 120.

Stassen can count 61 in the open. They include 25 in Minnesota, 19 in Wisconsin, 15 in Nebraska and 2 in New Hampshire.

With the big Massachusetts and Pennsylvania blocs apparently destined for favorite sons, the next chance for any of the three leading candidates to make a show of strength comes in the May 4 Ohio primary.

Contest Is Bitter

That race is a bitter contest between Taft and Stassen, and the Senator's prospects will slump considerably if he can't stop Stassen on his home grounds.

Stassen will have one more pre-convention chance to show his vote-drawing power when he meets Dewey again in Oregon's May 21 primary. Dewey won their first contest in the New Hampshire primary March 9 but since then Stassen has walloped the New York Governor in Wisconsin and Nebraska.

Dewey Rejects Stassen Bid for Conference

New York, April 25 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's prepresidential campaign managers have rejected a telegraphed request from Harold E. Stassen that they meet with him.

This was disclosed today by Herbert Brownell, jr., who led Dewey's 1944 GOP presidential campaign. He presently is one of three leading the New York Governor's fight for the Republican nomination.

Brownell said Stassen's telegram read:

"I would like to have a talk with you some time in the next few weeks at a mutually convenient time and place. Best regards. Harold Stassen."

Gen. MacArthur Seen Ruling South's Vote

By the United Press

At least seven Southern States will vote Republican next November if the GOP picks "a constitutionalist like Gen. Douglas MacArthur" for its presidential nominee, a "Democrats-for-MacArthur" spokesman said yesterday.

Frank D. Richardson, president of the MacArthur group, said the South would desert the Democrats because it is "aflame" with resentment over President Truman's racial rights program. The South, he asserted, holds the "balance of power" in the presidential contest this year and will take an "emphatic stand" on the civil rights issue.

Lon Chaney Improved

Burbank, Calif., April 25 (AP).—Actor Lon Chaney, jr., 43, was reported in a "very much improved" condition today after taking an overdose of sleeping medicine Thursday night.

Shoe Prices Up 10 Cents a Pair

St. Louis, April 25 (AP).—The International Shoe Co. announced wholesale price increases today averaging about 10 cents per pair, effective tomorrow.

Prices of several shoes will remain the same with the increase applied to fall lines which go on sale this week, a spokesman said.

The same company reduced prices an average of 20 cents a pair last March 24. The spokesman said increased cow hide prices made the increase necessary.

Welfare Director

Once more the District is being deprived of a director of public welfare by the curious division of authority between the Board of Commissioners and the Board of Public Welfare. Theoretically, the Welfare Board is an independent body administering the city's welfare program on its own initiative. Actually, it cannot even choose its own director. The Commissioners hold the veto power, and in this instance they have turned thumbs down on Raymond F. Clapp, the unanimous choice of the Welfare Board, for no other reason than their "dislike" of his appointment.

Mr. Clapp has served ably as the principal assistant to the welfare director and, since the death of Ray Huff last December, has carried the load of acting director to the complete satisfaction of the board. His long experience and good standing in the field of welfare work commend him. We can see no reason for the arbitrary veto of his nomination. Certainly so long as a separate board is charged with the duty of carrying out the District's welfare program, it should be allowed to choose its own director, unless there is some impelling reason for use of the veto power.

In any event, we hope this hodge-podge distribution of local powers will not escape the Congressmen who are interesting themselves in the District home-rule bill. Aside from the present denial of local suffrage, the city is afflicted by a wide diffusion of municipal powers—an arrangement that could not be expected to operate satisfactorily in a large metropolis. The Commissioners probably had no intention of doing so, but they have given Congress a pointed illustration of the District's need for a modernized system of government, such as the Auchincloss bill provides.

Watergate Concerts

Thousands of Washingtonians will be dismayed by the threatened abandonment of the Watergate concerts that have contributed so greatly to the cultural life of the community during the past decade. Their popularity is attested by the size of the crowds attracted to the Watergate. The need for a $25,000 underwriting guarantee is not, therefore, attributable to any lack of public support; it is due entirely to the capricious character of Washington's summer weather which was responsible for the poor attendance record of 1947, resulting in a deficit of about $25,000. Given favorable weather conditions, the costs of a concert series can be covered, or more than covered, by the low admission charges paid by the portion of the audience occupying seats.

The sum required to cover the risk of loss may not even be called for. In any case, it is a small price to pay for the privilege of enjoying fine music under ideal conditions. It is, however, a risk that the National Symphony Association cannot be expected to shoulder when it is burdened with a deficit in its regular budget. Responsibility for raising the funds required is clearly a community responsibility and should be recognized as such. Limited contributions from a few public-spirited citizens would be sufficient to save the concerts. And the donors would be well repaid for their generosity by the gratitude of thousands of their fellow citizens who have been looking forward to the concerts as a form of spiritual refreshment and physical relaxation at a time of year when diversion is especially needed and hard to find.

War Plant Reserves

Under congressional prodding the Administration recently ordered temporary suspension of sales of surplus industrial plants and machine tools by the War Assets Administration. It was a case of locking the stable door after most of the horses had been stolen. Nevertheless, a substantial amount of potential war material still remains on hand. The Munitions Board is accordingly pressing for passage of a bill that would permit the Government to retain and rehabilitate some of the unsold plants and transfer more of the remaining machine tools and equipment to the armed forces.

If this is not done, millions of dollars worth of the tools that might be useful in strengthening our national defenses will be sold for scrap. Moreover, a good many plants have been listed for sale or lease without attaching a security clause that would require the new owners or lessees to keep them in a condition permitting of their reconversion to munitions production within four months. To dispose of these properties unconditionally would leave the buyer free to dismantle or transform them in such fashion as to destroy their value as a standby "national industrial reserve." In the interests of national security, therefore, the Government should be empowered to take over all plants considered potentially useful for defense purposes, that cannot be leased or sold subject to a protective security clause. Congress should also give the Administration the requested authority to rehabilitate such plants and keep them in condition for use in an emergency. For the strength of a defense system does not consist in mere possession of essential materials and equipment, but in possession plus preparedness for quick utilization in case of need.

Interim Peace Bloc

The dilemma of our age is how the United Nations can be made an effective instrument for peace without irretrievably dividing the world into two hostile camps that would be almost certain to clash. Many different schemes are being presented, and we think that the current discussion of the subject is a most salutary development. No doubt all of the various planners in this sphere are genuinely interested in maintenance of the peace as well as in more effective international organization. The best hope for the future is that out of the clash of ideas as to how these objectives may be attained will come a practical policy that the United States will wholeheartedly accept.

In our opinion, Harold E. Stassen made a notable contribution to the debate of these issues in his campaign speech at Akron last week. Mr. Stassen would like to see the United Nations Charter revised and the veto eliminated. Of course, he ought to be more specific than he was about the nature of the voting arrangement in the Security Council he would substitute for the present big power veto. But he does see clearly what some other groups have failed to grasp—that the hope of revising the Charter by lawful and peaceful means at present is nil. He suggests a conference in 1950 for that purpose, in the belief that by that time the recovery program in western Europe will have given the democratic powers renewed strength. Russia might then, he thinks, be more inclined to join with the west in making the U. N. a workable instrument of peace.

Mr. Stassen would not, however, gamble on any such improved relationship. Meanwhile he thinks the United States should invite the five nations of the Brussels pact, and presumably other democratic powers, to join with us in a declaration of policy to act for mutual protection under Article 51 of the U. N. Charter. Also included in the pact would be an agreement to consult together as to the action to be taken in case of any "threat or use of force against the territorial integrity or political independence of any state" in contravention of the U. N. Charter. Such an interim pact among the democratic powers, Mr. Stassen apparently believes, would serve as a prompt check to aggression in this period of turmoil while recovery and peace settlements are being sought.

We think this speech deserves more attention than it has received. Mr. Stassen makes a restrained and practical approach that would neither risk giving the United Nations to Russia nor abandon efforts to effect a genuine world peace organization as the police-state menace is gradually curbed. In our opinion, this plan, which is by no means original with Mr. Stassen, is well worth exploration by the State Department and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Combating Communism

The resolution denouncing international communism presented to the Inter-American Conference at Bogota last Wednesday is a good deal clearer about the nature of the menace than about the means of repelling it. It is scarcely to be disputed that, as the resolution reads, "International communism, directed or assisted or instigated by one or more foreign governments or by foreign groups or individuals, is an instrument of aggression for imperialistic purposes . . . and leads to totalitarian control, to a denial of the dignity of man, to the end of human rights, civil liberty and to eventual subjugation to foreign power."

The resolution would have the American republics agree, in the light of this menace, to two principal prophylactic measures. The first is certainly unexceptionable. It would "reaffirm their decision to maintain and stimulate a policy designed to raise the living standard of their peoples; and their conviction that only through political and civil liberty can this objective be achieved." Economic depression is the soil in which communism thrives; and political repression is its most effective fertilizer. If the acknowledgment of this truism signifies that its lesson has been genuinely learned, then an unassailable defense against communism will have been created.

But the second phase of the resolution makes one wonder. It would commit the republics to "adopt within their respective territories . . . all necessary measures to impede and uproot activities directed, assisted or instigated by foreign governments, groups or individuals which are designed to subvert their institutions, foment disorder in their internal policy or reduce by pressure, propaganda menaces or any other manner the free, sovereign right of their peoples to govern themselves according to their own democratic aspirations." What is meant by "all necessary measures"? Let us hope they do not include the outlawing of the party as in Canada and Brazil, where the effect was merely to require it to change its name, or the punishment of persons for mere party membership as has been recommended here by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Such measures are worse than ineffectual. They tend to strengthen the Communists by driving them underground and making martyrs of them. And they entail, of course, an impairment of the "political and civil liberty" which the resolution recognizes as indispensable to repel the Communist threat.

Sanctuary

On only one point does agreement at present seem possible on Palestine. This is the proposal for neutralizing the City of Jerusalem, which for different reasons is sacred to Christians, Jews and Moslems alike. Jamal el Husseini, deputy chairman of the Arab Higher Committee, said that the Arabs are prepared to guarantee the integrity of the city and the safety of its inhabitants if the Haganah forces now in the city are withdrawn. A spokesman for the Jewish Agency for Palestine declared that if this meant an Arab protectorate over Jerusalem it was unacceptable. It is possible, however, that it may indicate that the Arabs are prepared to accept the separation of the status of Jerusalem from the rest of the Palestinian problem. Senator Austin, in presenting the American plan for a trusteeship to the General Assembly at Lake Success, was ambiguous on the point; but there is every reason to suppose that the proposal for an autonomous city of Jerusalem is still acceptable to the United States.

In the plan of partition approved by the General Assembly last year, the City of Jerusalem was designated as a special enclave to be administered by the Trusteeship Council with the assistance of a neutral police. Whatever the merits or defects of the rest of the plan, this provision at least is entirely feasible. Jerusalem, by virtue of the veneration in which it is held throughout the world, transcends the Palestinian conflict. A very large portion of its population is comprised of persons of religious vocations, Catholic and Orthodox priests and nuns, Jewish rabbis, Moslem ulemas, for whom politics is at most a secondary concern. An even larger proportion of the population is comprised of persons whose livelihoods are dependent upon the constant stream of pilgrims and whose interest in peace is the greater for that reason.

Broadcasts To Italy

Paradoxically, shortwave Voice of America broadcasts appear to have been of minor importance in the Italian elections. A good many reasons can be given for this. Foremost among them is the fact that Italy is a free country where the people do have access to information. There is not the same impulse to listen to foreign sources for the news as there is under the censored regimes behind the iron curtain. Moreover, as one correspondent pointed out, if the Italians were prone to listen to outside broadcasts, they probably would by custom tune in British programs, since it was the BBC that filled this gap in the days of Mussolini.

The State Department, to be sure, has not placed all its eggs in one basket. Until appropriations cuts limited the practice, it made a policy of purchasing time on local broadcasting stations, and it plans to revive and expand this technique when more funds are forthcoming. What the reports from Italy indicate is the need for flexibility of approach, for a constant evaluation of the success of the foreign information program and a substitution of new techniques when old ones seem ineffectual. The important thing is that the American point of view be made known as widely and in as many ways as possible, especially in critical areas such as the Near and Middle East, which up to now have been largely neglected for want of adequate funds. We hope the Senate will evidence its appreciation of this need by passage of the augumented foreign information appropriations which the House has already voted.

The Other Side

An editorial in the Oklahoma City Times vigorously denounces the action of a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee for recommending an increase of 101 million dollars for river and harbor and flood control works above the amount approved by the House. No doubt some of the projects for which funds will be appropriated could and should be deferred in view of existing shortages of men and materials. But we dissent from the opinion of the Oklahoma City Times that the Army civil functions appropriations bill can "by no stretch of the imagination be called a defense measure."

In support of our dissent we quote from an editorial in the Louisville Courier-Journal to show the crying need for better defense of the home front against the flood ravages that take such heavy toll of life and property—destruction that could be prevented in great part by construction of flood-control facilities. After referring to the deep anxiety of the unprotected citizens of Louisville when the Ohio was on a particularly menacing spring rampage, the Courier-Journal said: "This is no way for people to live, in fear and worry. They have every right to bitterness at the thought of the penny-pinching, the political pulling and hauling which defeat the promises, now long deferred, of security through a flood wall. The motives of an election year, making economy seem what it is not, can work out cruelly and wastefully beyond a politician's imaginings." We agree, and we do not wonder that Louisvillians look with rather wistful envy at a sister city across the Ohio, Cincinnati, which, according to Army engineer estimates, has just escaped damages that would have mounted into millions owing to an improved system of flood protection.

Randolph's Testimony

In spite of the fact that several letters have been written about recent observations concerning the testimony of A. Philip Randolph at the hearing on universal military training, it seems important to point out one or two factors which have not been touched upon.

Whether or not we agree in substance with the idea expressed by Mr. Randolph, it is his right as an American citizen to speak his mind. Mr. Randolph is the elected leader of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters which is comprised of 105 local divisions throughout the United States and Canada. The 105 local divisions represent approximately 57,500 Negro members.

His duties require that he travel continuously throughout the entire country keeping in touch with the entire Negro population wherever he goes. This places him in a position to know their thinking on all major issues and it is rather his sense of responsibility which prompts him to place before the proper persons the thinking of the masses of the Negro people as he knows them.

The elected leadership which Mr. Randolph represents must then be more reliable than that of selected leaders who are so far removed from the real thinking of the Negro masses. If this be accepted, cries of treason can no longer becloud the real issue of segregation and discrimination in the armed services which was raised by him but ignored in the furore which followed his statements. The facts still remain that we do have segregation and discrimination in the armed forces of our country.

It is a reasonable hypothesis that were white soldiers or draftees subjected to the segregations, discriminations and abuses encountered by Negroes they would have the same feeling of indifference. Mr. Randolph by his frank statement was making his contribution as a good American that democracy might be made to work at home as well as abroad.

Traffic Protection

It interests me to read of the great interest the traffic department is suddenly taking in trying, through educating parents, to prevent accidents to children on the streets.

Granted, children do not belong on the streets. However, it is and will always be impossible to keep them off completely. I live on the corner of a dead-end street, opposite a public school. It so happens 34th st. is one block away with stoplights at Macomb and Woodley. Many people are learning they can dodge those lights and get into Rock Creek Park by coming down Lowell and cutting down 33rd pl.

As this street has always been a quiet one, children, many young ones, from Woodley rd. as well as 34th pl., play with the Lowell and 33d pl. children. The parents repeatedly tell the children that cars do come fast and not to play in the street and to watch when they cross. The danger might be less if the street were used more, as the children continue to feel safe when they shouldn't. I contacted our precinct to see if additional signs might be put up to warn of children, but after two surveys it was decided not enough traffic came this way to warrant it.

Our whole neighborhood is in favor of this protection and if it is realized that traffic fatalities are rising for children, why should the traffic department not help the parents, who, I am sure, are more than willing to cooperate, by putting up signs that will impress drivers of those cars that cause the trouble, whizzing by, trying to use short cuts? Stassen's Tactics

All the former New Deal columnists are having a ghoulish time over the defeat of Dewey and MacArthur and Taft in the primaries in Wisconsin and Nebraska. One can almost hear them saying, "Goody, goody, the Republicans were defeated," at the not unexpected pluralities of Mr. Stassen in those States. But one columnist in The Washington Post of April 16 made a statement which so aptly describes Stassen's candidacy, although aimed at another candidate, that I cannot help paraphrasing it and saying, "the almost unbearably eager Mr. Stassen" as the Alsops said of Joseph Martin.

Ever since he got out of the Navy, Mr. Stassen has been roaming the country candidating. His youth and inexperience are flagrant—his attacks upon members of his own party are in the worst political taste. He expects consideration at the hands of a party for whose interests he has not the slightest consideration. When the columnists talk about Stassen offending Mr. Taft or offending Mr. Dewey, let them not forget that in like measure he offends the sincere adherents of these leading candidates who are counted in millions more than the adherents of the ambitious Mr. Stassen.

And he offends our sense of American political fair play when he is willing for his own personal ambition to carry on the campaign as though he represented a different party from his fellow candidates. Well, perhaps he does, but let him now be honest enough to say so, and not court the favor of the Republican Party if he is a New Dealer or any other brand of left-winger. K. C. R.

WHO Membership

I wish to thank The Washington Post for its clear presentation, through editorials, articles and the excellent cartoon (April 12) of the effects of the failure of the United States to join the World Health Organization. Little has been written until recently of the excellent work which this organization has been carrying on through the interim commission.

If the United States does not become a member of the WHO, it will not be a member of any international health organization. The chairman of the Rules Committee of the House of Representatives, in looking hypothetically far into the future, has made the statement that one of his objections would be to ". . . having our doctors run all around the world. . . ."

Might it not be well for the Rules Committee to also predict what would happen if, through lack of United States "know-how," high standards of quarantine are relaxed and through our modern air travel, diseases such as cholera, smallpox, etc., are brought into this country by other nationals whose symptoms were not detected before leaving their native country. Might the Rules Committee not be wise to protect the citizens of the United States by assuring, in every possible way, that highly contagious diseases be checked at their source, so that they may not endanger the citizens of the United States?

If, as the Rules Committee chairman states, ". . . the people want a cut in taxes," he might ask the people of New York City, or any other city in the United States, including my own Illinois city, if they would rather foot a six-million-dollar bill, which was necessitated by one case of smallpox getting into New York City by bus from Mexico last summer? Is it not far more economical to have the entire population of the United States pay $1,900,000 to prevent such an incident, at the same time assuring our citizens of a far greater health security?

I hope the House of Representatives will be afforded its rightful opportunity of acting on this bill before it is too late.

Attitudes Toward German Art

May I be allowed to protest the attitude toward the so-called "German" pictures expressed by Dr. Irene K. Kuehnel, as noted on the front page of your issue of April 22?

First of all, these aren't German pictures. A very small proportion of this group belong to the school of German painting. They are French, Italian, Swiss, Spanish—they represent all the great schools of painting. The fact that they were finally gathered in a museum in Germany does not make them "German pictures." It makes them German possessions.

Second, it would be desirable to cease referring to their money value. These paintings have no money value. If they were lost and money substituted for them, no substitutes could be bought.

And, third, great art like this should not be spoken of or thought of as the possession of any one country or person. Like a Stradivarius violin, these priceless treasures of mankind are in the temporary custody of a particular country or person.

Although Dr. Kuehnel assures us that the average men and women in Germany are wrought up by suggestion that we dare let these pictures travel around this country, it seems unlikely in these days of stress that were they now returned to Germany, any overwhelming number of average Germans would give themselves any great trouble to travel where they might view them. Yet many average Americans did just that.

It is also unlikely that any German lay awake nights, disturbed when he had learned that these priceless possessions had been hidden in a salt mine—hidden in such a manner that several show the scars of their punishment. It is unlikely when learning that the American Army had rescued them, the people 'in shops and on the street" expressed any gratitude.

These pictures were painted for mankind. Not just for Germans. We have given them tender care. Our experts would not allow them to be shipped from place to place carelessly packed. They would suffer less from a carefully managed tour of this country than from being housed in Germany in less than ideal conditions such as prevail there now.

And, meantime, instead of this carping attitude, it might become our German friends to say graciously: "We are delighted to share with you this great heritage of which we are the fortunate custodians."

All Our Yesterdays

CIVILIZATION ON TRIAL, by Arnold J. Toynbee. (Oxford University Press, $3.50.)

In the current number of Publishers' Weekly, dated April 24, I note that, for what I think is the first time in longer than a year, the abridged version of A Study of History is missing from the list of best selling books. Some weeks earlier, the total of copies already sold was reported at 130,000, so that it seems not unlikely that before printings cease and the edition is exhausted there will be at least one copy to every thousand of the American population. Such extraordinary interest in what is after all as much a work of philosophy as of history seems to demand explanation. It is, I hope, no disparagement of the objective merits of Professor Toynbee book, to suggest that its sudden popularity is owing to combination of circumstances so remarkable that it cannot be expected to occur more than once in any historical cycle.

There was first of all the effect on certain influential minds of the monumental opus on which Professor Toynbee has been so long laboring and which is still uncompleted. By dint of repeated citation quotations and respectful allusion the knowledge of its existence, and some general notion of its purport, extended in gradually widening arcs until it engaged the interest of those who are able to command the interest of the multitude. There was also the fact that an unknown disciple, Mr. D. H. Somervell, had undertaken to condense within tolerable limits the six volumes of text, footnotes and appendices the professor has already published. But these two factors would have counted little had there not also occurred within our own generation the decline and death of the idea of inevitable and indefinite progress, which had dominated the American imagination since the eighteenth century. Throughout all the years that Professor Toynbee was collecting his parallels and analogies, there was a growing foreboding that modern civilization had already passed its zenith, and that its vital forces had been exhausted. The pleasant cosmological vistas arranged for us by Descartes, Kepler, Newton and La Place were confused and distorted by the new quantum physics and the theory of relativity. The notion of innate human goodness, and indeed the whole gospel of humanism, had been sadly shaken by the doctrines of Freud, by the grandiose horrors of war, famine and plague and by the rise of a malignant politics.

The demonstration, in two formidable volumes, by the late Herr Spengler that historical evolution follows a biological pattern of birth, growth, maturity, decay and death, comparable to the life cycle of an individual, and that Western (Faustian) civilization was already exhibiting unmistakable symptoms of senility, made a profound impression upon certain novelists, poets and journalists who translated the thesis into their own vocabularies. With the long economic stagnation and the spiritual dislocations which followed the panic of 1929, something of the eschatological mood thus engendered spread to the multitude. There was a general weakening of the old political pieties, and among the more ambitious or the more desperate, a disposition to ride "the wave of the future," by embracing political doxies out of Moscow or Rome or Berlin; even among the more steadfast there was a disposition to ask whether summit of political wisdom had really been achieved in Philadelphia in 1787, and whether political freedom could have any meaning for the economically enslaved. Something, indeed, had come to an end.

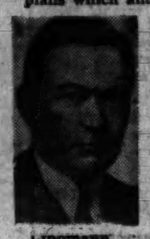
All of these tendencies were of course enormously accelerated by the recent war. At the close of it Americans woke to the discovery that they had assumed the sole guardianship of what might be left of Western civilization and were face to face with the gravest menace to it since the rise of Islam. I think it fair to describe the mood which followed the discovery as bewilderment bordering upon fright. In fit of deep somnambulism, as it were, we had accepted an historical responsibility, for which nothing in our history or our laws had prepared us. Meanwhile the advent of the atomic bomb and the realization of its potentialities had provided concrete confirmation of our apocalyptic fears. Such was the climate in which the abridged version of A Study of History made its appearance. The laborious scholarship which had traced and compared growth and disintegration of so many past civilizations now held, or seemed to hold, an immediate relevance to the matter of the daily headlines.

The present collection of essays, in which Professor Toynbee elaborates one aspect or another of his grand historical Schemata, has inevitably something of the flavor of funeral baked-meats. The oracular role which his popularity has thrust upon him has made necessary a truly Delphian caution. He is, of course, chary of the sort of prediction upon which one could place and collect bets. But he does assert with some boldness that the one great fact of twentieth century history has been the impact of Western civilization on the world outside it, thereby setting in motion the forces that must produce a counter impact on the West. Out of this may come the palingenesis, or birth of a new civilization in which the whole of mankind may be united in a single society. Or out of it may come a catastrophe greater than any the world has known. If catastrophe comes, the most probable survivors would be the African Pygmies, but it is not impossible that the higher insects may inherit the whole earth. It is this possibility, says the professor solemnly, which provides the challenge to our generation.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Sursum Corda



Lippmann

OVERWORKED officials, constrained to act in a time of crisis, tend to fall back upon ideas and plans which antedate the emergency and are outdated by it. It is evident, for example, that American military policy antedates the European crisis which, beginning with the coup d'etat in Czechoslovakia, has brought about the momentous agreement to form a military alliance in western Europe. It is no less evident that Secretary Marshall went to Bogota unprepared to meet the fact that the Marshall Plan for Europe alters profoundly the older Inter-American system, and the basic relations between North America, South America and Europe.

In the weeks and months to come we shall find, I venture to think, that we must reconsider and revise not only our strategical doctrine and policy, not only our conception of the Western Hemisphere, but also our relations with the British Commonwealth and Empire. For the events which have compelled this country to underwrite the rehabilitation and to guarantee the security of western Europe are in their magnitude and their consequences as great as any since the formation of modern national states. It may well be, indeed it is most probable, that they mark the breakdown of the traditional system of separate national states and the inauguration of a new political society in Europe and in the Americas.

THE ROLE of Great Britain in this immense evolution is crucial and extraordinarily difficult. For as an English friend of mine, who has had much to do with working out the ERP, puts it, the "dilemma" of Great Britain is that "she cannot afford to go into a federation of western Europe if that involves breaking up the British Commonwealth; she cannot afford not to cooperate militarily, financially, politically, economically with France, Benelux and western Europe."

The British dilemma is real, and unless it can be resolved, Mr. Hoffman and Mr. Harriman for this country, M. Bidault and M. Spaak for the Europeans will find that British collaboration is ambiguous and uncertain. Britain will be bound to avoid the clear decisions and the firm commitments which her partners and allies will call upon her to make.

BUT THE British dilemma is also an American dilemma. For if Britain's entrance into a European Federation means the breaking up of the British Commonwealth and Empire, what is to become of the non-European parts of the Commonwealth and Empire? There are some who think they could become parts of an American Commonwealth and Empire. But this would be dangerous, perhaps even a disastrous and tragic, outcome.

For the American republic could not, without a revolutionary transformation of all that is most essentially American, become the heir and the successor to the British imperial power. The fearful muddle in which we are already involved as successors to Britain in Greece, Palestine, Iran and the whole Middle East is only a small example of how contrary to our interests, how unsuited to our character and experience, is the role of heir and successor to the British Empire.

THE BRITISH dilemma and the American dilemma can be resolved only by the construction of a large political community which includes the British Commonwealth, the inter-American system, and a European Federation with its African dependencies and colonies. In this larger community it would be unnecessary for the British to choose between Europe and the Commonwealth. In this community Great Britain and France could at long last become united in peace, not merely allied in war. In this community alone is there hope of solving the German problem, which is becoming progressively more snarled up.

In this community the United States would be insured against the necessity or the temptation to create an American empire on the ruins of the British Empire. In this community the Western Hemisphere would no longer be confronted with the insoluble and disruptive problems so sharply posed at Bogota.

DIRE NECESSITY and extreme peril compel us and invite us to undertake the formation of this great western political society. This is the new order of things which, if the world is not to sink into anarchy and war, will emerge from the chaos of our time. Everywhere men are asking themselves to what high and useful project they may dedicate themselves, in what idea and in what vision of things to come they can find hope, what purpose there can be for the peoples devoted to freedom which is not merely the nervous frightened defense of things as once upon a time they were.

The union of the peoples of the western tradition is this project, this idea, and this purpose.

Free and civilized men cannot quiver and quake forever about communism, or spend their days doing nothing better than to listen to rumors about what the Politburo and the Cominform are up to next, or degrade themselves in witch-hunting and a morbid concern with the demonology of Moscow.

NOR CAN they live forever and exclusively on the calculations of dollar deficits, and predictions about long range bombers and atomic bombs, and resounding declarations about how much better liberty is than tyranny. They need also great constructive ideas and projects which enlist their energies and give meaning to their lives.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

It Hasn't Jelled Yet

THE CONSPICUOUS FACT about the stop-Stassen movement is that it has not jelled yet. Both the Dewey and Taft camps talk openly, with a good deal of happy relish, of what they are going to do to the upstart from Minnesota when they get together. But the supporters of Senator Robert A. Taft still assert the grand alliance will be formed around Senator Taft. And the supporters of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey are considerably more confident that the man to lead the stop-Stassen forces is Governor Dewey.

From this rather crucial difference, one may infer that the business of forming the combination to stop Stassen, while it has already begun, is still in a very early stage. Meanwhile, there have been further important developments which suggest that if Stassen maintains his present momentum in the Ohio and Oregon primaries, the stop-Stassenites are going to have their work cut out for them.

A week ago, in order to consolidate his own strength in advance of a possible reverse in Oregon, Governor Dewey tried to rally to his standard the large States of Pennsylvania, Michigan and Indiana. It can now be stated that the results have been disappointing.

IN PENNSYLVANIA, which has the largest single block of delegates after New York, the customary dark confusion prevails among the local chieftains. Joseph Pew, in his odd way, is rather hankering to nominate Speaker of the House Martin. Old Joe Brundy and Pennsylvania's Senator Martin, who are allies, are reputed to incline to Senator Taft. And Gov. James Duff has let it be known that he fancies neither Taft nor Dewey, likes Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg best, but will settle for Stassen or Governor Warren of California. There has been no comfort for Governor Dewey here.

In Indiana, Representative Charles Halleck has given no visible sign of hankering to plump for Governor Dewey now. And in Michigan, there has also been a rebuff in response to the Dewey overtures. Arthur Summerfield, Michigan national committeeman, has taken a "wait and see" position, partly from personal inclination and partly because the great majority of Michigan delegates want to go into the convention and cast their ballots for Senator Vandenberg. The net result of all this is that the Dewey camp, for want of these needed reinforcements, remains in an extremely vulnerable state. A bad reverse in Oregon (which the always fallible experts predict) could cause real disintegration of Dewey's strength, and this would tend to rule out Dewey as the candidate of the anti-Stassenites.

Senator Taft seems to be in equal danger. Until the Nebraska election, Taft's managers said, with some haughtiness, that Governor Stassen would not pick up a single delegate in Ohio. Representative Clarence Brown is now talking as though the capture by Stassen of six or eight delegates in Taft's home State would be a mere bagatelle. Obviously, this indicates alarm. Furthermore, few impartial experts feel that even if Senator Taft is successful in repelling the invader in Ohio, he can possibly become the Republican nominee in view of his record as a vote-getter.

IF BOTH TAFT and Dewey are ruled out, what then? When this question is perhaps tactlessly asked of them, both the Deweyites and Taftites frankly reply that they would favor Senator Vandenberg. Indeed, the Taft people prefer Vandenberg to Dewey and Dewey people like Vandenberg vastly better than Taft. But here another problem arises.

Senator Vandenberg does not want the nomination. He has said, with the utmost frankness, that he would not take it except as the result of a spontaneous draft. Under the circumstances, he seems extremely unlikely to permit his name to be used as the rallying cry of a movement to stop anyone. And if it becomes clear that neither Dewey nor Taft is to be nominated, the members of the grand alliance against Stassen will have the utmost difficulty holding even the more sheep-like delegates in line without offering them a conceivably victorious candidate of some sort.

Such is the measure of the rise in fortunes of Harold Stassen, who was actually stranded in Los Angeles for a few hours, shortly before the Wisconsin primary, because his local fund raisers could not lay their hands on $1800 to get Stassen's private plane off the ground.

For Stassen all depends on Ohio and Oregon. If he is defeated, or merely makes a modest showing, in either State, the old-line Republicans will catch up with him and pull him down. His greatest problem is that Governor Dewey and Senator Taft both feel the deepest personal bitterness toward him, not without cause. But his supporters are confident that he will not fail in the two tests ahead, and in the end will somehow defeat the grand alliance.

Fats, Oil Due To Stay High Through 1948

By the United Press

The Agriculture Department said yesterday prices of fats and oils probably will stay high for the rest of 1948.

The report was based on supply prospects for fats and oils used in foods, soaps and for other purposes.

Civilian use of fats and oils was almost back to prewar levels in 1947. The average was 69 pounds per person, compared to the 1946 per capita of 64 pounds, and the prewar 70 pounds.

On the average each American eats about 41 pounds of fats and oils annually, and uses, mostly in soap, about 28 additional pounds, the bureau said.

Oleo Battle Showdown Slated Today

By the United Press

The showdown in the oleo-vs-butter battle is slated for the House floor today. The fight cuts across party lines and will be a heated, no-holds-barred affair.

The first order of business when the House convenes will be a bill by Representative Rivers (D., S. C.) to repeal all Federal taxes on oleomargarine. He and his backers are confident of victory.

Drawn up across from them are Congressmen from dairy States who say that repeal of the tax would "liquidate" dairy herds and raise meat and milk prices. Their leaders are wary and have issued no victory statements.

Senator Sees Hope for Housing Bill

By the United Press

Senator Flanders (R., Vt.) said yesterday that "for the first time there is hope" that the Eightieth Congress will pass the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill.

The disputed measure has passed the Senate, and is awaiting House consideration.

A chief aim is to get private builders to put up more houses and apartments in the middle and lower price ranges. Government housing officials think that if it is passed during this session, the new law will result in "substantially larger" production of cheaper housing during 1949.

Another aim is to build 500,000 low-rent public housing units during the next five years for families with incomes under $2200. In all, tthe bill is aimed at getting close to 1,500,000 new houses and apartments built during the next 10 years. About 850,000 were built last year.

Government experts say it would mean a slight easing of the housing shortage this year, and a real easing of the problem in three to four years.

IC Train Plummets Into 100-Foot Gorge

2 Dead, 40 Injured When Locomotive And 3 Cars Leave Roadbed in Alabama

Adamsville, Ala., April 25 (U.P.)—The fast Miami-to-Chicago passenger train, the Sunchaser, jumped the rails on a horseshoe curve today and the locomotive and three cars plummeted into a 100-foot-deep gorge. Two persons were killed and about 40 injured.

Seven other cars of the 13-car Illinois Central train were derailed but stayed upright on the single-track roadbed.

Engineer James B. Booth of Haleyville, Ala., died in a gush of scalding steam at the throttle.

One passenger, identified as Emma Dahnke of Chicago, was killed.

Hospital attendants at Birmingham, 16 miles southeast of the scene, said about six to eight of the injured were in serious condition.

H. T. Hunt of Jackson, Tenn., the conductor, placed the time of the accident at 4:15 a. m. He said the first car, a combination baggage and passenger coach, catapulted completely over the locomotive and made three loops in the air before smashing to the foot of the gorge.

CAA Believes Makers Can Certify Planes

By the United Press

The Civil Aeronautics Administration said yesterday it believes the time has come when the Government safely can stop inspecting and certifying every private plane made.

It has drafted a plan under which plane makers who have established a reputation for turning out reliable small craft whould be allowed to do their own certifying as to the "airworthiness" of their ships for "personal use." This plan was urged by President Truman's Air Policy Commission, the Congressional Aviation Policy Board, and the personal aircraft council of the Aircraft Industries Association.

At present the CAA has several thousand field men who inspect planes and certify them. F. B. Lee, acting CAA chief, said the plan would be a "step further in the program of delegating responsibility to the industry."

It is being circulated among interested groups for comment. If sentiment is favorable, the CAA said it would ask the Civil Aeronautics Board to revise the regulations.

Negro Girl, 12, Wins Packard in Drawing

Winston-Salem, N. C., April 25 (AP).—Ernestine Kinzer, 12-year-old Negro girl, won a new Packard automobile in a drawing conducted by the Manufacturers Exposition here last night.

The car will be delivered to her tomorrow.

Ernestine said today that used car dealers and others had tried to buy it from her, but "I'm going to kep it."

The only bad thing is: Nobody in the family here can drive. But the Kinzers are going to try to get Ernestine's aunt in Camden, N. J., to come down and act as chauffeur.

Let's Try to Stop Rising Costs

IN AN ENDEAVOR to aid in halting further advances in living costs, U. S. Steel will decrease certain steel prices on May 1, 1948, to the extent of $25,000,000 annually, these price reductions being applicable so far as possible to steel products related to the cost of living.

Announcement of these price reductions was made on April 22, 1948, concurrently with the denial by U. S. Steel of the request of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) for a "substantial wage increase."

United States Steel believes that costs and prices in general are too high for the good of the nation. It shares the firm conviction that American industry and labor should cooperatively do everything in their power to avoid further increases in costs, which, if permitted to occur, must result in higher prices for almost everything we buy. Certainly the best interests of all of our people will not be served by a further lowering in the purchasing power of the dollar.

We are hopeful that our action in reducing the prices of a number of steel products associated with the cost of living may have a beneficial effect throughout the nation and may be helpful in bringing about an early stabilization or reduction in the cost of living. If this should prove to be the outcome, everyone in this country will benefit. If, on the contrary, costs should continue to advance, then in fairness to our employees and to our stockholders we will have to consider at some later date the adequacy of both wages and steel prices under then-existing conditions.

Our answer to the Union was that the granting of its request for a "substantial wage increase" will not in the long run bring benefit to anyone, as it will lead to similar substantial wage increases in other industries and to higher prices generally. Such a wage increase would make necessary a general advance in our steel prices. We are unwilling so to increase steel prices at this time, as we believe this would be contrary to the best interests of the nation.

The Union's demand for a "substantial wage increase" was based on increases in the cost of living. The index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U. S. Department of Labor, records an increase of 67.2% in the cost of living between 1940 and February, 1948. During that same period, average straight-time hourly earnings of our steel workers rose 73.3%; their average actual hourly earnings advanced 81.3% and their average actual weekly earnings advanced 91.7%. These advances are substantially in excess of the increase in the cost of living during that period.

If there is to be a halt in the surge of rising costs, there must be full and effective cooperation to this end on the part of every segment of our economy.

Income of Insured Banks Shows Drop

By the United Press

Net profits after taxes among insured commercial banks last year dropped 13 per cent below 1946, Chairman Maple T. Harl of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation announced yesterday.

He attributed the decline to less profit from the sale of securities and the fact that banks no longer unexpectedly collect on assets which once were written off.

Harl reported that net profits after taxes among the 13,403 insured banks in 1947 were 781 million dollars, some 13 per cent less than the year before despite an income tax reduction of nearly 7 per cent. Federal and State income taxes absorbed 28 per cent of net profits last year, compared with 26 per cent in 1946.

Net profits after taxes represented a return rate of 8.2 per cent on capital acounts compared with an average 10 per cent in the previous four years, but still below the prewar average.

Harl said the decline in income on securities reversed an upward trend that had continued since 1940, while the substantial contribution that nonoperating income had made to net profits since 1943 disappeared.

Wiley Scores Some in GOP for Extravagant Appropriations

By The Associated Press

Senator Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.) yesterday accused some of his fellow-Republicans of seeking to "out-New-Deal the New Deal in vast and extravagant appropriations."

The chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee assailed Republicans on the Senate Appropriations Committee who approved "the colossal sum of 708 million dollars for river and harbor flood control work."

Serving notice that he would move to send the bill containing the sum back to committee for trimming, he said his party members who voted for it were forcing the GOP to risk running the Government further into the red—"the terrible evil which the party has crusaded against throughout the history of the New Deal."

He called the bill "a crucial testing ground of whether we will continue to champion Government economy and conservatism or whether we will go blind, batty and bughouse with New Deal concepts of extravagance."

The bill contains funds for the civil functions of the War Department during fiscal 1949. Approved by the Appropriations Committee 16-3, it consists mostly of funds for flood control and navigation projects.

How to Fall in Love in one very easy lesson

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

TAKE a clear day—a Dynaflow* Buick—and a mind open to new experiences.

Turn the key in the lock—press down the gas treadle—and set this mighty Fireball straight-eight purring. Now:

Flick the selector lever till the pointer indicates "D"—that's for driving. Feed a little gas—and see what happens.

Look! you say. A stop light! What do I do?

Nothing special. Let up on the gas. Apply the foot brake as you need it.

That all? Won't the engine stall? Don't I shift?

That's all. Your engine won't stall. You don't shift. Just sit there till the coast is clear. Then step on it. Step hard and you're off like a rabbit. Step lightly, and you ease smoothly away.

What's happening? you want to know. What's doing the shifting? Some mechanical hand under the floor boards?

Not in this car, sir. Oil does it all—spinning oil. Oil whirling to give you starting surge—power build-up—efficient cruising—engine braking effect on hills.

Oil that does everything the usual low, second and high gears do—without any gearshifting on your part—and without the slightest break in your stride except when you want it.

Say no more! I'm sold! Where do I sign up?

There's only one place. Only Buick has Dynaflow Drive, and no other American car has anything like it. With or without a car to trade, better see your Buick dealer first minute you can.

WHAT'S DIFFERENT ABOUT DYNAFLOW DRIVE*?
To an efficient new pump (left in picture), Buick engineers have added a true turbine (right) and an ingenious new supercharging assembly (in hand) which produce a torque-boosting action in starting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to fill the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a simple control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

BUICK alone has all these features
★ DYNAFLOW DRIVE (Optional, Roadmaster Series) ★ TAPER-THRU STYLING (Super and Roadmaster)
★ VIBRA-SHIELDED RIDE ★ HI-POISED FIREBALL POWER ★ SAFETY-RIDE RIMS
★ QUADRUFLEX COIL SPRINGING ★ FLEX-FIT OIL RINGS ★ ROAD-RITE BALANCE
★ RIGID TORQUE-TUBE ★ SOUND-SORBER TOP LINING (Super and Roadmaster)
★ DUOMATIC SPARK ADVANCE ★ TEN SMART MODELS ★ BODY BY FISHER

$22,000,000 Rosenwald Fund Spent

Chicago, April 25 (AP).—The Julius Rosenwald fund will shut up shop June 30—having spent more than 22 million dollars since 1932.

Trustees of the Rosenwald fund had 25 years to spend 10 million dollars. The fund was a gift of Sears, Roebuck & Co., stock from the late Julius Rosenwald, chairman of Sears, who died in 1932. He directed it be used solely for "the well-being of mankind."

Even though the original gift more than doubled in value, the trustees completed their job nearly nine years ahead of schedule.

Principal Expended

Edwin R. Embree, president of the fund, said today the fund had "followed the instructions of its founder in expending principal as well as income. Mr. Rosenwald did not believe in perpetual endowments."

Embree said the fund had been used "to enrich and equalize opportunities for all Americans," but added: "Opportunities in America are not yet nearly equal." He stated:

"Negroes who make up 10 per cent of our total population are under legal disabilities in every Southern State and suffer social and economic handicaps throughout the Nation. Many other groups are subject to prejudice and discrimination. Yet the progress has been tremendous.

"Negroes now rate in education, health, economic status, far above the total populations of all but a few very favored nations."

Where Millions Went

Five million dollars for 5357 rural schools for Negroes in cooperation with Southern States and counties.

Five million dollars to Negro colleges, especially the four major university centers in Washington, Atlanta, Nashville and New Orleans.

Two million dollars for development of health services for Negroes.

Two million dollars for fellowships for advanced training of 600 Negro and 250 white Southerners.

Three million dollars in the general field of race relations "in an effort to bring full democracy and free participation by all groups in all phases of American life."

Four million dollars in general education and the support of general social agencies.

Moscow, April 24 (NYHT.).—The Russian Orthodox Church, in an article in its official Journal, today conferred its blessing on the Red army, describing it as "a real force to oppose the focre of evil."

Woman Directs Men Executives

At Gun Factory

Apprentice School Will Double Rolls

The Naval Gun Factory Apprentice School plans to expand its program from an enrollment of 115 to 250, officials disclosed yesterday. During the war, the school had 3000 in training at one time.

The school attempts to combine training for employment in the gun factory with accredited education for workers, so that as a man learns how to earn a living he also qualifies for a high school diploma.

Apprentices are selected by competitive Civil Service examinations and serve four years, starting at $6.56 a day and attaining $9.44 a day at the end of the course. They may learn how to be machinists, electricians, moulders, pattern makers, carpenters, sheet metal workers, coppersmiths, toolmakers, electronics mechanics pipe fitters, plumbers or brick masons.

Little Minnie Heads 1200 in Trade Group To Meet Here Today

Never underestimate the power of a woman—especially if it's Little Minnie.

Little Minnie is Miss Minita Westcott, 45, of Chicago. She is the first woman president of the American Trade Association Executives, an organization of some 1200 members—most of them men—which opens its spring meeting at the Statler Hotel here today.

Between bossing a preconvention meeting of an all-male board of 23 directors for eight hours and rushing to a dinner meeting, the vivacious but businesslike blonde told about herself yesterday.

"I just love people. That's why I left a job as secretary to a pharmaceutical firm president shortly after leaving college to become a stenographer for the National Glass Distributors Association in Chicago."

Little Minnie ("that's what Minita means in Spanish") is still with the glass distributors, but today she is assistant secretary of the organization and has been for 15 years.

She has been with the ATAE for 17 years. She is also vice president of Northwestern University's National Institute for Trade Association and commercial Organization Executives and teaches courses there; she has been executive secretary of the Mirror Manufacturers Association for 15 years and is the only woman member of the Northern Baptist Theological Seminary board of trustees and the board of her own church.

She travels "almost all the time" all over the country and in Canada in connection with her work of managing the affairs of trade associations.

Lawrence J. McDonnell

The Rev. Joseph M. Moran, pastor of St. Thomas the Apostle Catholic Church, new spiritual director of the Washington Archdiocesan Union of Holy Name Societies, spoke briefly at the business session. The principal speaker was Dr. John Tracy Ellis, professor of church history at Catholic University.

Boy Sees Brother Die As Airplane Crashes

Pittsburgh, April 25 (AP).—A 16-year-old boy watched his brother burn to death today in a private plane which crashed a short distance from the family home.

The victim was Carl A. Klinzing, 22, a former Army Air Forces pilot. His brother, George, managed to pull a passenger from the wreckage but was unable to reach his brother because of intense heat.

Hearing Urged On Proposed D. C. Loyalty Checks

A public hearing on the proposed loyalty investigations of District employes were urged Saturday by the executive board of Americans for Democratic Action.

In a letter to the District Commissioners, the board said there were many individuals and civic organizations here "who are deeply concerned not only about the desirability of such a probe but also about the method, standards and procedure to be used."

The letter, signed by ADA president Benjamin C. Sigal, said a public hearing would give District residents and employes "more confidence in any course that might finally be adopted relative to a loyalty investigation."

Buyers Warned Of Spent Tea Leaf 'Lawn Dressing'

By the Associated Press

State Chemist L. E. Bopst warned home owners yesterday to beware of itinerant truckers selling "lawn dressing" at what he called exorbitant prices.

He said the material was "chiefly spent tea leaves mixed with earth and water." It usually sells for about $2 a 100 pounds, Bopst added.

This "lawn dressing" has very little fertilizing value, the chemist declared. Bopst explained that the product is not subject to the Maryland fertilizer law and the State inspection and regulatory service can offer home owners no protection.

Local Team Has 1-Point Lead In Potomac Bridge Tourney

The local team of J. G. Stone, Miller Roberts, George Dickerman and Lewis and Lloyd T. Tubbs was leading the field last night in the team championship event of the Potomac Valley Bridge Tournament at the George Mason Hotel, Alexandria.

At the halfway mark in this concludnig phase of the three-day tournament, the local lineup had a one-board lead over the defending champions, Fred L. Karpin of Arlington, Miss Margaret Hamilton, Arthur Schlessinger and James Hunter, all of Baltimore.

The Vosburgh Cup for the ranking open pair contest fell Saturday to Dr. A. F. O'Donnell and Charles Geier, both of Washington, who forged ahead in the finals to beat some of the top-ranking players in this part of the country.

It is the first major win for Geier, who has been playing tournament bridge for less than two years. Dr. O'Donnell is perennial champion of the National Press Club.

The winners' score was 239 points, giving them a 12-point lead over Miss Mary Hellen and L. H. Barr of Baltimore. Remaining honor positions went to Washington partnerships. They went to Mrs. M. Boschan and Miss Kathleen McNutt, finishing third, with a tie for fourth place between Stone and C. C. Johnson, Simon Gerber and Ralph Spitzer.

Williamsburg to Get Old Military Stores

Williamsburg, April 25 (Spl.)—A collection of eighteenth century British military stores, such as might have been shipped to this city during the Colonial period is to be sent to colonial Williamsburg by the Tower of London as a permanent loan.

It probably will include small arms, swords, mortars, powder kegs, and field pieces to match old inventories of ordnance equipment stored here, and the collection will be used in refurnishing the public magazine as it was two centuries ago.

One on the Aisle—

'Yes, There Are New Playwrights'

By Richard L. Coe

PEOPLE ABOUT THE TOWN: Aline MacMahon, placid of face, lively of mind, grabbed at the chance to play the UNRRA worker of "The Search" because of her admiration for Producer Lazar Wechsler and Director Fred Zinnemann . . . She knew Wechsler through his memorable film "The Last Chance" and Zinnemann used to visit her at Metro when she was doing "Dragon Seed" and he was directing "The Seventh Cross." . . . Her agent thought she was out of her mind to trot over to Germany for a part that didn't promise much solid cash and didn't look like much to interest the all-important American exhibitors . . . Now, with the film's success, she's finding herself in demand as a speaker, a role she doesn't fancy because tying up a good lecture isn't easy . . . Miss MacMahon is on the Experimental Theater board of Equity and reports that contrary to the general notion, a lot of fine plays are being written . . . She's particularly proud of Richard Harrity's "Hope Is a Thing With Feathers," which is soon to enjoy a Broadway run with two other Harrity shorts . . . "There are many promising young playwrights," the veteran actress insists, "and sooner or later the managers will have to take a chance with them. The production details that have grown up around acting can be stripped away. After all, acting and a good script are what make a fine play" . . . For 19 years, Miss MacMahon has been married to an architect and town-planner and she's mighty enthusiastic about the virtues of good town-planning . . . She's a Barnard girl Virginia Gildersleeve can point to with pride and the performance she gives in "The Search" is a persuasive hint that a career with our Government abroad could be a rich experience.

DONALD O'CONNOR, another Statler visitor, can boast of a stage career of 21 years, though he's only 22 . . . His parents' vaudeville act was called "The O'Connor Family" and when he was 13 months Donald used to stop the show with an infantile "Black Bottom" . . . This was done by teaching baby to kiss his hand, slap his fanny, wiggle his feet to the tune of that George White hit of 20 years ago . . . Even after his string of Universal pictures, of which "Are You With It?" is the latest, he misses the reaction of audiences . . . "On a picture set, the whistle blows after you've done your best and everyone goes about his business. It takes something extraordinary to make the gang around the studio, which has watched you rehearse and knows all your tricks, give out with the applause."

PAT ROONEY, Jr. is another offspring of a vaudeville family . . . You used to see him as Pat the Third with the family act, but now, in the National's "The Red Mill," he's officially "Jr." . . . Pat's a great admirer of the stage hands . . . They used to look after him while his folks were working and from old painted flats they built him the playpen which early developed his acrobatic skill.

THOMAS MARC PARROTT, down from Lawrenceville to speak at the Folger Library, belies his 82 years with a lively mind . . . Princeton's Professor Emeritus of English is one of the few men living who can recall the celebrated Hamlet of Edwin Booth . . . "Two aspects of his performance I can see and hear yet. The actor's decisive reading of the lines 'Rest, rest, perturbed spirit' suggested more than any other reading I've ever heard. And the actor's inspired playing of the Polonius murder is still vivid after nearly 60 years. He threw his sword across the stage at a point where many actors listlessly let it fall." . . . Of the modern actors who've done Hamlet, Dr. Parrott has highest praise for John Gielgud, "who suggested the tortured spirit of the man with greater clarity than any other player." . . . Like us all, Dr. Parrott is loking forward to the Olivier film Hamlet with lively zest.

HENRY MORGAN of "The Big Clock" is not to be confused with the Henry Morgan of radio who's recently taken to the movies . . . This Morgan who shadows his Publisher-Boss Charles Laughton so assiduously is the actor Washington knew as Harry Brattsburg and it's too bad his new name is bringing confusion with anyone else . . . Bob Miller was recalling the other day the Brattsburg of Civic Theater and Roadside days here and musing that the former Washingtonian has been doing mighty well in the uphill movie struggle . . . Bob won't be hearing him much in the Palace feature, but he'll watch him give an able limning of a taciturn thug.

SOME OF THE youngsters who are visiting our town's movie houses aren't giving a very good report of their upbringing at home . . . At the Metropolitan the other afternoon, their thoughtless, noisy behavior was a disgrace and we've been getting letters about their poor behavior in other theaters . . . Being away from home, of course, has a tendency to make youngsters think the sky's the limit, but by ruining other people's enjoyment of a picture, they cast a sorry light on their home training, understanding which certainly shouldn't be confined to the schools to teach . . . Though there's something to be said for their Metropolitan unrest, particularly if that bunch of rapscallions was a local set . . . The Met's frequent booking of Western films and chase yarns probably led them to expect "The Fugitive" would be a slam-bang action thriller . . . This adult attempt is anything but and it looks as though it was a big mistake to book John Ford's distinguished, if disappointing film, into a theater usually associated with similar titles but less cerebral activity.

Nats Rally to Beat A's, 7-3, After Losing Opener, 4-0

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

PHILADELPHIA, APRIL 25.—You'd have to say that baseball does not quite qualify as a character-building sport all the time and in fact it's no game at all for the naive and overly-trusting type. The lie and the sneaky trick come under the heading of smart baseball and are even considered virtues.

POVICH

Like the other day here when Barney McCoskey of the A's innocently asked Shortstop Mark Christman of the Nats, after reaching second base, whether the hit that put him there was fair or foul. "Foul," blandly answered Christman with no compunction whatsoever, and McCosky started back to first base. Whereupon Christman took a throw from the pitcher and tagged him out.

In Christman's case he was a cheerful liar and grinning at the swift effectiveness of his coup. Nobody could censure him. He was playing smart baseball. McCosky, who has been around a long time and ought to know enough not to ask questions like that of an infielder, was the dunce of the episode, Christmas, the liar, when he returned to the bench was back-slapped for his quick-thinking. The A's turned their eyes away from McCosky in disgust, with no sympathy for a victim of an untruth on the ball field.

ON THE BALL FIELD, whatever you can get away with is all right. That model of integrity, Connie Mack, was not above a cute trick when he was a big league catcher in his younger days. He had an art of making a clucking sound behind the bat that made a pitch sound like a foul tip. The only sin in baseball is getting caught.

Bucky Harris led the league years ago in getting hit by pitched balls. The rules specify that the batter must try to get out of the way of a close pitch, but half of Harris' free trips to first base were deliberately achieved and it wa seven rumored that he strapped a leather padding to his ribs to soften the blow of a pitched ball. On one occasion, he announced before leaving the bench that he would get hit by a pitched ball if he saw a close one, and he did.

Frankie Crosetti of the Yankees later developed the Sam Harris art of getting hit by pitched balls, and led the league at it. Like Harris, Crosetti would feign an attempt to get out of the way and hus satisfy the umpires, but he ended up in the path of the pitch.

SEVERAL YEARS AGO when Eddie Collins was managing the White Sox and playing second base, he took a throw to catch Harris stealing. He tagged Harris out, and then dropped the ball. Everybody in the park except the umpire, apparently, saw the fumble with the gleaming white ball lying on the ground beneath Harris' foot just before Collins quickly retrieved it.

Harris squawked furiously at the decision against him, and turned to Collins for substantiation of the fumble. Collins calmly shook his head in denial that he had dropped the ball, a cheerful lie, and Harris said later he was a dunce for even asking Collins to corroborate.

They're still throwing spitballs despite the fact the spitter was outlawed nearly 30 years ago. The only crime is getting caught. They're roughing the ball up against the rules, too, and that's fair if you ain't caught. Base runners are kicking balls out of the infielders' hands, and that's all right in baseball.

WALTER JOHNSON, for all his wondrous success, was a trusting soul, and they took advantage of him. The hitters knew he would rarely pitch them high and inside, for fear of killing a man. Whenever Johnson did hit a batter, a tremendous hush fell over the park and a sense of tragedy was in the air. That was the setting for what happened to Eddie Collins one day.

Johnson hit Collins high on the leg with a fast ball, Collins went down in an inert heap over the plate. The crowd gasped in horror, and Johnson raced to the plate in deep fear he had broken Collins' leg. Collins squirmed in agony as they gave first aid, but was cheered when it was announced he would stay in the ball game.

Collins limped to first base, in apparent pain at every step, and there was doubt that he could make his free trip to first. Johnson followed him solicitously all the way and then went back to the pitching mound. On the next pitch, Collins stole second like a needled gazelle.

Keltner Hits 2 Homers as Tribe Stays Unbeaten

Detroit, April 25 (AP).—Unloading a home run barrage again led by Third Baseman Ken Keltner, who drove in four runs on two straight homers off Hal Newhouser, the Cleveland Indians jolted the Detroit Tigers, 7 to 4, today to stay unbeaten atop the American League.

The homers were Keltner's third and fourth of the year.

First Baseman Eddie Robinson also homered and Catcher Jim Hegan knocked in two runs with a triple as the rampaging Tribe climaxed a sweep of the three-game series here with a 10-hit assault good for 22 bases.

Newhouser, who lasted six innings, yielded all but one of the Indian runs and was charged with his first defeat of the year.

The victory was Cleveland's fourth straight and came before 48,880 fans, Detroit's third over 40,000 in as many days. Altogether 135,768 fans saw the opening series of the year in Detroit.

Newhouser simply couldn't hold a 4-1 lead, contributed largely by Eddie Mayo's three-run homer in the second, as the bottom end of the Cleveland line-up came up with its slugging spree.

Chisox, Browns Trade, 7-6, 1-4

St. Louis, April 25 (AP).—The Chicago White Sox hammered away at an early St. Louis Brown's lead but finally lost 7 to 6 in the second game of a double-header today. Chicago broke up a 1-1 tie in the eighth of the first game to get thier first victory of the season, 4-1.

The Brownies opened the second game scoring with Bob Dillinger picking on the first pitch for a home run, then the whole team ganged up on Earl Harrist for five runs in the fourth frame.

Nelson Potter held the Sox hitless until John Wallaesa lined the ball out of the park in the fifth.

HIGH MOMENT OF A DOUBLE PLAY—Snuffy Stirnweiss, Yankee second baseman, goes high into the air over Sam Mele, Boston Redsox, outfielder, in order to make the throw to first completing a double play in second inning of game at Yankee Stadium. Mele was forced at second on Birdie Tebbetts grounder to third baseman Billy Johnson, who threw to Stirnweiss.

Cards Lose, 3-1

Screwball Artist Meyer Tosses 1-Hitter for Cubs

CHICAGO, April 25 (AP).—Russ Meyer, young screwball specialist, pitched a brilliant one-hitter here today to lead the Cubs to a 3-1 triumph over the Cardinals. The win gave the Cubs the series 2-1, before a capacity crowd of 43,476.

George Kurowski got the lone hit for St. Louis, a single to deep short, in the second inning. It developed into a run when Meyer walked two and Kurowski scored on an infield out.

The Cubs collected seven hits off Murry Dickson and Jim Hearn. Hal Jeffcoat smashed a two-run homer in the first inning and singled in the third to score a moment later on Any Pafko's double.

After the Cardinals had scored their run, Meyer settled down to some hard pitching. He turned down the next 22 batters in quick order. Only once, in the sixth inning, did Meyer require fancy fielding from a teammate to hold down his lead.

That was when Enos Slaughter poled a long fly ball to left field and Cliff Aberson scooted hard along the wall and reached out one hand for the out.

Leonard Beats Bums For Phils, 6-3

Brooklyn, April 25 (AP).—Dutch Leonard, Philadelphia's veteran knuckleball hurler, held the Brooklyn Dodgers to nine scattered hits to pitch the Phils to a 6 3 victory over the Dodgers today. Del Ennis helped Leonard notch his second win of the season with a home run and the Philly keystone combination of Emil Verban and Granville Hamner banged out 6 of the team's 14 hits.

The Phillies unloosed a four-run inning against Ralph Branca in the fourth inning to hand the right-hander his second defeat of the young season and enabled the Phils to win the series, two games to one.

Ennis opened the big Philly inning with a 400-foot homer, and Verban climaxed it with a two-run single with the bases loaded.

Coan's Triple Salvages Victory for Scarborough

Philadelphia, April 25.—The Nats threatened with complete eclipse by the Athletics this afternoon, raised a big five-run fuss in the seventh inning of the second game and won a draw, if you want to put it that way.

They were ignominously licked, 4-0, in the first game by young Carl Scheib, hefty graduate of the Philadelphia sandlots who gave 'em only six hits, and the A's 22,156 fans were envisioning a double victory with the Nats trailing in the second game.

And then the Washington athletes lashed back to win the final, 7-3, with some nice pitching by Rae Scarborough who held the A's to three hits with the aid of Ramon Garcia and Tom Ferrick. There was also some nice hitting by the Nats in that second game. They didn't trifle much with singles.

Coan Delivers Again

They went into that seventh inning of that second game trailing, 3-2, despite the fact the A's had only three hits at that point. But two of them were homers by Eddie Joost and Hank Majeski, into the left field bleachers.

The Nats packed three triples into their big inning against Lou Brissie, the left-handed, fast-balling rookie. Al Evans started it with a three-bagger to right.

Eddie Yost's single to right scored him with the tying run. Gil Coan, who had previously doubled twice, lashed a triple to right for two more runs, and Mickey Vernon knocked Brissie out of the box with a three-bagger to center.

They gave Scarborough a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning of the finale when Gil Coan doubled to center and scored on a wild throw by Majeski.

But Joost evened the score with his homer in the same inning and a bit later Majeski walloped his homer to score Fain, who had walked and the A's had a 3-1 lead.

Scarborough himself helped to get a run back in the fifth when he led off with a double to center. Yost scored him but the Nats were still trailing, 3-2, in the seventh, before they got obstreperous once more.

Those homers by Joost and Majeski, and Fain's single in the sixth were the only hits the A's ever did get. Garcia pitched a hitless seventh inning, but was removed in favor of Ferrick after he walked two men in the eighth.

Sid Hudson was the A's victim in the first game. The A's jumped him for all of their four runs in the second inning. The A's battery of Scheib and Rosar drove in all of their runs.

Fain's single, a walk and a sacrifice put two runs in scoring position for Rosar's single to center, and a bit later Suder also singled. Scheib scored another pair with a single to left.

The A's couldn't get to second base against Hudson and Chic Pieretti after that, but the Nats never got a man past second at any time. The closest they came to

DiMag Homers

Bosox Score 4 in 9th But Lose to Yanks

New York, April 25 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox four-run rally in the ninth inning against Southpaw Ed Lopat, fell one run short today as the New York Yankees defeated them, 5-4, in the rubber game of their three-game series.

A crowd of 68,021 saw Joe DiMaggio crash his second home run of the season in the first inning with two mates aboard to send the Yankees off to a flying start.

Joe Page saved the game for the Yankees. He relieved Lopat in the ninth with one on and one out and fanned pinch-hitter Murrell Jones and Johnny Pesky to end the contest. The three-game series drew 156,835, a record for an opening at the stadium.

DiMaggio's homer came with Phil Rizzuto and Johnny Lindell on base, at the expense of John McCall, who started for the Sox.

Harry Dorish, who followed, allowed two unearned runs in the fourth as Pesky and Bobby Doerr committed errors. These runs proved to be enough for Lopat to hang up his first victory as a Yankee.

The Sox were blanked with five hits for eight frames. Then with one out, Vern Stephens walked, Bobby Doerr tripled, Mam Mele singled and Birdie Tebbetts cracked a homer into the right field grand stand.

Phil Rizzuto pulled a leg muscle in the third and was relieved by the veteran Frankie Crosetti, who made a hit and scored a run.

Busy Lacrosse Slate This Week For Maryland

This is a big week in lacrosse for Maryland.

The climax comes Saturday when Army meets Johns Hopkins in Baltimore and Princeton comes down to the University of Maryland.

The Hopkins-Army game is viewed as early determination of the 1948 intercollegiate champion. The Blue Jays, the defending champs, were the only college team to beat Army last year.

Princeton, also beaten only by Mount Washington and Hopkins, will decide whether Maryland will continue among the challengers for national honors.

Citation Steps Half Mile in :48

Louisville, Ky., April 25 (AP).—Sitation, Calumet Farm's favored entry in next Saturday's Kenucky Derby, worked out a half-mile in :48 seconds at Churchill Downs today. The workout was in preparation for the Derby trial Tuesday.

W. L. Brann's Escadru, also a Derby eligible and possible starter in the trial, worked three-quarters of a mile in 1:14 2/5, stepping the first half mile in 49 2/5.

About the Golfers

Bogart, Hart Upset State 4-Ball Kings

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

Baltimore, Md., April 25.—Ralph Bogart and Jerry Hart, two Washington golfers playing for the Annapolis Roads Club, scored a stunning upset in the Maryland State four-ball championships here today, defeating the defending titleholders, George Voigt and Jim Kinder of Prince Georges, 7 and 6.

The victory put Bogart and Hart into the third round of the State championships along with seven other teams from four other clubs. Indian Spring, Washington Golf and Country Club and Country Club of Maryland placed two teams each in the third round and Hillendale of Baltimore gained the other place.

In closing out the feature match on the twelfth hole, Bogart and Hart displayed a brilliant brand of golf. Emphasizing this point, Voigt birdied four straight holes at one point, only to see the Annapolis Roads pair gain halves on each of the four holes.

In the closest match of the day, Columbia Country Club's Bill Shannon and Ray Swearingen lost out to Hillendale's Jesse Dowling-Bob Jones combination, one up in 21 holes.

The surviving eight teams will meet May 9 at the Army-Navy Country Club.

Harold Hair-Ed Steptoe (Washington Golf and Country Club) defeated Al London-Mickey Behrend (Woodmont), 4 and 3.

M. Hunt-W. McFerran (Indian Spring) defeated Earl Skinker-Tommy Webb (Columbia), 1 up.

Ken Scales-Eddie Johnston (Country Club of Maryland) defeated Roy Smith-Ted Burrows (Manor), 1 up, 19 holes.

Ralph Bogart-Jerry Hart (Annapolis Roads) defeated George Voigt-Jim Kinder (Prince Georges), 7 and 6.

Eddie Meyer-Sid Schwinn (Country Club of Maryland) defeated Herb Wagner-Roland MacKenzie (Green Spring Valley), 2 and 1.

Anacostia Team Wins

A 20-foot putt by Jim Prichert on the eighteenth green gave the Anacostia Golf Club a thrilling 24½-23½ victory over East Potomac Golf Club yesterday at Anacostia.

Prichert's long putt enabled him and his partner, Jim Bailey, to gain a 2½-½ decision over their East Potomac rivals. Anacostia, trailing by a point at this stage, moved a point ahead on the Prichert-Bailey triumph.

Although Anacostia took team honors, East Potomac showed the way in individual scores. Earl Marcey and Serge Folk shot 68s and Don Musser carded a 69 for the losers, while Dan Burton's 70 paced Anacostia with Carl Steele next by virtue of a 71.

ROBERT ALLEN and S. P. Wright tied for first place in the blind bogey tournament yesterday at Army-Navy. Allen had 79—9—70 and Wright 85—15—70. Deadlocked in second place were Clyde Fox, 90—10—80; B. H. White, 90—10—80 and S. G. Erskine, 100—20—80. . . . J. Edward Williams barely missed an eagle three on the 512-fourth hole at Bethesda yesterday. Williams' 20-foot putt stopped on the lip of the cup.

C. N. HARMON'S NET 67 won the Marmion Trophy yesterday at Prince Georges in the 18 hole handicap tourney. J. T. Bonner finished second. Low gross honors went to Bob Morris, with a 73, and Doug Mattison, who shot 76. . . . Kenwood's blind bogey tournament had 150 entries and six men tied for the prize. They were J. M. Howard, 110-30—80; H. H. Wythes, 95-15—80; Felix Altrop, 92-12—80; E. C. Hodges, 92-12—80; A. P. Hall, 108-28—80; Ed Jamison, 99-19—80.

MORT LEVY WON the points tournament at Indias Spring with 16 tallies. Second was George Thornton with 11 and Earl Caillouet and S. A. Beck tied for third with scores of 9. . . . Judge Harold Henderson holed his five iron shot for an eagle 3 on the 460-yard thirteenth hole at Indian Spring. And another golfer from the same club, Mrs. John Long, sank her three iron shot out of a rough for a birdie 3 on the 415-yard fifteenth hole.

WOODMONT ALSO HAD some spectacular shots yesterday. Dave Wortman sank a 10-foot putt for an eagle 3 on the 508-yard third hole. And while playing in a foursome on the 355-yard fourth, Mel Kraft had a par four. Did he win the hole? Not by a long shot. Dr. James Murphy and Howard Nordlinger had birdie threes and L. W. Jacobs came through with an eable deuce . . . In Woodmont's blind bogey play, Pat Berger, 90—12—78, and Sam Schwartz, 85—7—78, took top honors. Second went to Jules Rendelman, 99 — 20 — 79, Julian Cohn, 109—30—79 and Ed Wortman, 87—8—79. Rollie Lamensdorf, Dr J. H. Hirsh and Bob Cramer tied for third with net 70s.

THE BLIND BOGEY tournament at Manor ended in a very unusual manner (no pun intended). R. S. Leedy, J. A. Lee, Jack Dolton and J. C. Runnels, who hit the lucky number, all had identical gross scores and handicaps — 97—15—82. Second was H. E. Davies, 99—16—83 and third was J. R. Daily, 91—20—7. . . . Of the 360 players at Columbia Country Club over the weekend, C. H. Pardoe's 67 was the outstanding effort . . . An Army-Navy Country Club foursome—Col. S. S. Giffin, Capt. J. P. B. Barrett, Col. J. Notestein and Ensign J. Wellings, had 10 birdies between them as they shot a best ball 64.

Hank's First Wins Opener In 9th Inning

Cincinnati, April 25 (AP).—Fourteen pitchers saw action today, as the Cincinnati Reds and the Pittsburgh Pirates split a doubleheader before 28,086 fans.

Cincinnati won the first game 7-6 as Hank Sauer homered in the ninth to break a tie. The Pirates won the homer-studded second contest, 13-10.

Sauer collected two more circuit blows and Ted Kluszewski got his first major league homer for the Reds. Pirate Wally Westlake hit a grand-slam homer in the second game.

Pittsburgh used ve hurlers in the first game, starting with Mel Queen. Cincinnati dpulicated the number in the second, starting with Howard Fox. Kent Peterson threw to only two men, Al Stevens who singled and Westlake who doubled, before giving way to Herman Wehmeier.

West lake's grand slam homer came in the six-run third after Rojek and Gustine had scored

Grays Lose To Giants, 8-6

Despite a homer, triple and single by Luke Easter, Washington's Homestead Grays dropped an 8-6 decision to the Baltimore Elite Giants yesterday in an exhibition game before 10,000 at Griffin Stadium.

The left-handed hitting Easter lined his triple high against the right-field wall in the first inning to drive in two runs. Then in the third, he cleared the wall by 10 feet with a home run blast with Lou Fields aboard. Baltimore put the game on ice after trailing, 5-2, by stirring up a five-run rally in the sixth.

10-Mile Marathon Added to Masonic Sports Program

Long-distance foot racing, discontinued by the District of Columbia Amateur Athletic Union in war years, will be revived June 18, Paul Leiss, chairman, announced yesterday.

The firstr ace, a 10-mile abbreviated marathon, will be staged in conjunction with the Masonic Night of Thrills being in Griffith Stadium.

Leiss says that he expects a field of 40 or more. He expects many of the Washington area's best runners will compete.

The marathon will get under way at 8 o'clock, with three laps being run inside the stadium. The runners then will take to a measured course, going out in the northwest and returning over northeast streets of the District, finishing with three laps inside the park.

Another feature of the program is a baseball double-header starting at 2 p. m. The first game pairs the Silver Spring and Alexandria De Molays. In the nightcap the Quantico Marines will tangle with the Martin Bombers.

Proceeds go to the maintenance fund of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home, 6000 New Hampshire ave. ne.

Worsham's 69 Breaks Record At Quantico

Lew Worsham shot a brilliant 3-under-par 69 to set a Quantico course record yesterday as he tuned up for the National Capital Open which starts Thursday at Prince Georges Golf and Country Club.

Playing in an exhibition match on the Officers' Club course, the National Open champion went out in 36 and returned in 33 as he and Quantico Pro Al Jamison downed Ed Furgol and Jimmy Thompson, 2 up.

Worsham's effort beat the record of 70 established by Harold Oatman. Worsham birdied five holes, the second, eleventh, twelfth, fourteenth and eighteenth, and he bogied only two, the seventh and seventeenth.

Furgol and Thomson each carded 37 36—73, while Jamison had 38 38—76.

Meanwhile, other entries in the Capital Open also worked out.

At the Hermitage Country Club in Richmond, Va., Bobby Locke and Lloyd Mangrum defeated Jimmy Demaret and Byron Nelson, 1 up, in an exhibition match played before a large crowd.

Locke and Mangrum had a best ball score of 8-under-par 65. Nelson and Demaret had a score of 66.

Locke and Demaret tied with 68's in medal scores. Nelson carded a 71 and Mangrum a 72. Demaret's eagle three on the 515-yard ninth made the match even at the turn. Locke clinched the match on the sixteenth, a 320-yard hole, with a birdie three.

At nearby Army-Navy Country Club in Arlington, Va., Cary Middlecoff, one of the leading money winners among the pros and a favorite in the Capital Open, shot seven birdies while racking up a 1-under-par 70, and Harry Griesmer, a local entry from the Bethesda Country Club, shot a 67 over his home course.

Sligo Park Pro Roger Peacock shot a 1-under-par 71 at Prince Georges, George Schoux, Dutch Harrison, Bob Hamilton, Eric Monti and Dave Clark also practiced at Prince Georges.

Dillard Honored

Des Moines, Apri 12 5(AP).—Harrsion Dillard, Baldwin-Wallace's ace Negro hurdler, has been named by sportswriters as the outstanding athlete in the thitry-ninth annual Drake relays.

Dillard received 28 of the 31 votes cast by sportswriters covering the event. Charley Peters, Indiana dashman who won the 100-yard dash; Charlie Parker, Texas sprint ace and Jerry Thompson, diminutive distance dynamo from Texas, each received one vote. Thompson won the honor last year.

Cochet Defeated In Paris Finals

Paris, April 25 (AP).—Marcel Bernard, France's top-ranking tennis player, defeated Henri Cochet, the 47-year-old former French ace, 6—4, 6—3, 6—2, in the finals of the Paris international tournament today.

Stranahan Checks In, Anxious To Try Prince Georges Links

FRANK STRANAHAN, the handsome and sometimes outspoken golfing star, checked into town last night with the statement that he will waste no time in getting ready for the start of the National Capital Open tournament Thursday at Prince Georges Golf and Country Club.

"Henry Cotton and I are going out there early Monday and get in some practice," said Frank.

Stranahan said that he has been playing good golf of late. "I finished third in the Charlotte Open—my last open tournament—and they wouldn't let me play in the Masters."

Frank didn't have much to say about his trouble in Augusta when he was barred from the Masters tournament after he allegedly insisted on practicing putting on damp greens despite warnings of tournament officials.

"Every story I saw about that affair was distorted," said the amateur star. "The truth about the matter sever came out, but I think it wil in time. Those things always get cleared up in the end."

Asked about his condition, Frank smilingly said, "I'm always in good condition."

Doesn't weight lifting make one muscle-bound?

"It all depends on how you do it," said Frank. "My arms are okay, so I don't work on them. I just do things that develop my back, legs and speed."

Has he ever played at Prince Georges?

"No, I haven't. But I'll get in plenty of practice before the tournament starts. And I hope I make a good showing. But these pros are awful hard guys to beat."

GW, Delaware Sailing Teams Tie in Regatta

George Washington and Delaware tied for first place yesterday in a pentagonal sailing regatta on the Potomac to qualify for next weekend's Middle Atlantic intercollegiate yacht races at Kings Point, N. Y.

G. W. and Delaware each outscored the third place team, Penn Military College, 48-43. Syracuse polled 30 points while Lehigh scored 29. Penn Military's showing was surprisingly strong since yesterday's regatta was the first for that school.

High individual scorer yesterday was Bill Fox of Delaware, who in 10 races, finished ahead of 25 boats. In seven regattas this season, G. W. has won four, lost two and tied for first in a seventh.

Don't Tell Show Titlist

Charlottesville, Va., April 25.—Don't Tell, 3-year-old gelding, owned by Capt. Morton W. Smith of Middleburg was the leading point winner at the Keswick Neighborhood Horse Show today.

The son of Bard Umber won trophies offered in the classes for 3-year-old hunters, green lightweight hunters and maidens under saddle.

Second highest point winner was Erased Error, owned by Mrs. Frances Gleason of Concord, Mass. The 17 classes were judged by Mrs. James C. Hamilton of Warrenton and Andrew Montgomery of Uno.

Gray Lark Wins Ravenworth Hunter and Jumper Crowns

By Harry DeMawby, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Hallman's versatile Lray Lark annexed both the hunter and jumped championships at the Ravensworth Hunt Club horse show yesterday on Ravensworth Farm near Annandale, Va.

Gray Lark, sired by the amous jumper of Mrs. M. E. Whitney, Bon Nuit, gave sterling performances, adjusting herself to the different conditions of both divisions.

In the hunter classes she won the open hunters, was third in the working, and paired with her stablemate, Mr. Robert C. Lee's Bonne Fille, was fourth in the pairs for a total of 7½ points.

In the open jumper events she was victorious in the warm-up, after a four jump-off tie with Bonne Fille, finished second in the knock-down and out class, winding up the day with a fourth in the scurry.

Mrs. Hallman did a fine job of piloting in all but the scurry, relinquishing the saddle to her husband the well-known show ring rider.

Reserve championship hunter with 7 points was Peyton Ballenger's Bradon King, a 7-year-old bay gelding showing for his first season with Bill Sweeney in the irons.

The runner-up for championship honors in the jumper events, with 6 points, was Vairwood Stable's well-known veteran campaigner Hi-Jack, ridden by Garth Viar.

The Sports Reel

Schoolboy Fans 68 in 26 Innings

Thomaston, Ga., April 25 (AP).—Hugh Frank (The Great) Radcliffe, 6-foot-2 righthander, fanned 16 out of 20 men in his latest feat as a high school pitcher.

He made the headlines Monday with a phenomenal 28-strikeout performance against Lanier High School.

Thursday afternoon, in Griffin, he struck out 16 Griffin batters in 6 2/3 innings. He fanned four men in the fourth inning when his catched dropped the ball. He has now struck out 68 men in 26 1/3 innings—an average of 2.6 strikeouts an inning.

Color-Full Race

New York, April 25 (AP).—Things were a little blue at Jamaica Saturday along about the third race.

Monotonous, Isn't It?

Colford, England, April 25 (AP).—Norman Thomas, a 45-year-old carpenter, laid down his cue yesterday after 44 hours and 50 minutes of continuous billard playing. He claimed a world endurance record.

"I was not unduly tired," he said, "but, oh how my feet ached!"

'Old Man' Zale

Hot Springs, Ark., April 25 (AP).—Tony Zale will celebrate his thirty-fourth birthday before he tries to win back the World's middleweight championship June 9. And at 34 a fighter isn't exactly a spring chicken.

However, Zale, in training here for his third and "rubber" match with Champion Rocky Graziano, who'll be a mere 26, at Newark, N. J., figures his age is an advantage.

Nats Split With Athletics

scoring was in the second inning when Vernon led off with a two-bagger and was stranded.

IN THAT FIRST game the Nats blew a chance to even a 47-year score with the Athletics. It was the 1000th game between the teams since the formation of the American League in 1901 of which the A's had won 500 and Washington 499 . . . Bingo Binks made the catch of the day with his running grab of Gil Coan's liner in the first game and then demonstrated he hadn't changed much. He was half way to the dugout before he discovered there were only two out . . . Until he got those two doubles and a triple in the second game, Gil Coan was the hard-luck hitter of the series with the A's grabbing a series of hard smashes off his bat . . . When little Ramon Garcia, the Nats' Cuban pitcher, singled to right late in the second game it marked the first cross-handed hit in the history of the major leagues

Track, Tennis, Baseball Share Highs' Slate

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

The Sidwell Friends Invitational Tennis Tournament and the University of Maryland Invitational Track Meet elbow into this week's schoolboy sportlight alongside 58 baseball games.

In all, eight tennis matches, six track meets, 10 golf matches and tow lacrosse games are on the docket.

Landon defends its two-year reign as junior and boys' tennis champion of Washington in the Friends tourney. Gil Bogley and Ted Rogers, both of Landon, defend their District schoolboy tennis team among its entries.

40 Highs in Meet

Forty highs from Washington, Virginia, Baltimore and the rest of Maryland are entered in Maryland's track meet. It may bring together two o fthe best half-milers in the East—Bobby Jones of George Washington of Alexandria and Charlie Gunn of Woodrow Wilson. oBth have been running the distnce in around 2 minutes flat.

Another featured entrant is Forrest Miles, Eastern's dash star, who last Friday ran 100 yards in 9.9 seconds.

Interhigh Games

The four Interhigh League baseball games Friday find Calvin Coolidge at Western, Central and Woodrow Wilson; McKinley Tech at Anacostia and Eastern at Roosevelt. Eastern, Wilson and Tech are currentl ytied for first place with 2-0 records.

Other featured baseball games this week find Tech at George Washington and Western at Washington-Lee of Arlington on Tuesday, and W.-L. at G. W., and Montgomery-Blair at Bethesda-Chevy Chase on Friday. W.-L. has a 7-0 record so far, while G. W. has won five out of six, so their meeting will go a long way toward deciding the northern Virginia championship.

Several Olympic Track Favorites Emerge From Big Weekend of Relay Carnivals

New York, April 25 (U.P.).—A handful of real, honest-to-stopwatch Olympic favorites emerged today from a weekend of running, jumping and throwing at relay carnivals across the Nation.

Out of the Penn Relays at Philadelphia, the Drake Relays at Des Moines, Iowa, and the Colorado University Relays at Boulder, Colo., came outstanding stars in nearly every length of race as well as in the discus throw and the shot put.

Of them all, perhaps the most impressive was Harrison Dillard of Baldwin-Wallace.

The loose-jointed Negro, who ranks as one of the world's leading hurlers, had a part in two meet records in the Drake carnival and ran his personal victory string to 55 races. He is now only 10 races short of the record victory streak of 65 compiled by Greg Rice, the retired distance-running star.

Dillard won the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.1 seconds, tying the record, and also anchored the Baldwin-Wallace team to a meet record of 1:26.6 in the half-mile relay.

Fortune Gordien of Minnesota remained the U. S. A.'s big hope for the discus throw at London by winging the platter to a new meet record of 165 feet 5 inches at Drake to smash the old mark by 4 feet.

Penn Records Beat Out Drake

2-MILE RUN—Penn: Bob Black, Rhode Island, 9:21. Drake: Jerry Jefchack, Drake, 9:39.7.

880-YARD RELAY—Drake: Baldwin-Wallace, 1:26.6. Penn: Manhattan College, 1:27.5.

1-MILE RELAY—Drake: Texas A. and M., 3:15.2. Penn: New York University, 3:15.5.

2-MILE RELAY—Drake: Ohio State, 7:45.6. Penn: Michigan, 7:49.6.

4-MILE RELAY—Drake: Texas University, 17:30.3. Penn: Penn State, 17:30.7.

JAVELIN THROW—Penn: Maj. George Salisbury, Lackland A. B., 258 ft. ½ in. Drake: Frank Dunn, Texas Univ., 209 ft. 7 in.

HIGH JUMP—Drake: Verne McGraw, Rice and Dwight Eddleman, Illinois, tied at 6 ft. 3 in.

POLE VAULT—Drake: Harry Cooper, Minnesota, and Lawrence Busby, Purdue, tied at 13 ft. 9¼ in. Penn: Ed Urvestadt Michigan 13 ft.

DISCUS THROW—Drake: Fortune Gordien, Minnesota, 165 ft. 5 in.; Penn: Vic Frank, Yale, 160 ft. 7 in.

BROAD JUMP—Penn: Lorenzo Wright, Wayne, 24 ft. 7¾ in. Drake: George Kalfas, Wisconsin, 24 ft. 2 in.

At Penn Charley Fonville of Michigan, who set a new world shot-put mark only a week ago, flipped the 16-pound iron ball to a new meet record of exactly 56 feet. That was 2 feet short of his world mark, but it left him still America's best in the event.

The United States hopes of beating Herb McKenley of Jamaica, West Indies, in the Olympic 400-meter rung ot a boost from Dave Bolen, former Colorado University ace. In a special indoor race during the Colorado Games, Bolen beat McKenley at 440 yards in the fair time of 49.1 seconds.

New York University, which settled for victory in the mile relay only after seeking vainly for four tieles at Penn, came up with a new middle-distance hopeful in Jim Gilhooley, who won the mile test with a 47.1-second 440 yard run on the third leg.

Outstanding mile efforts were by Jerry Thompson of Texas, 4:15.5 on the winning 4-mile relay at Drake and Gerry Karver of Penn State, 4:17.6, on the winning team in the same event at Penn. Texas University dominated the Drake games by taking five titles.

Other outstanding performances were by Lee Hofacre of Minnesota, who won the Drake 440-yard hurdles with a 52.7-second meet record; Bob Black of Rhode Island State(who won the Penn 2-mile run in 9:22.18, and Lieut. Bill Carter of the Lackland (Tex.) Army team, who won the Penn 100-yard dash in 9.7 seconds.

Navy Wins Dinghy Meet

Annapolis, Md., April 25 (AP).—Scoring 141 points out of a possible 150, Navy emerged the victor today in a hexagonal dinghy meet on the Severn River. The Middies won all six races.

Pennsylvania was second with 107, Stevens Institute of Hoboken, N. J., scored 89, Drexel and Harvard 73 and Lafayette 57.

Midshipman Harvey Conover was the winning skipper in the first three races. He then turned the tiller over to Joe Balter, who captured the final three.

Earlier, Navy lost a star boat meet with Webb Institute of Long Island, N. Y., by disqualification. The meet ended in a 34-34 tie, but the victory was awarded to Webb because Capt. Bill Engle fouled a buoy in the second race.

Navy's B. T. Murphy brought his boat in first in both races. Jack Lippman of Webb finished second in the first race and Jack Magner of Webb trailed Murphy in the final event.

Some of the important economic incentives in the new income tax reductions are discussed in this editorial—currently appearing in McGraw-Hill publications. It may be quoted from, or reprinted with or without credit mention.

This is the 67th of the series.

Only a Prosperous America Can Be Free

In the next few weeks 50 million American workers will get from the Congress of the United States a real incentive to work.

This incentive is called a tax cut. Beginning May 1, the withholding tax on incomes will be reduced, giving everyone a much-needed increase in take-home pay.

But the tax cut will have a far more important effect. It may be literally a life-saver for American employment and production—and, hence, for the stability of the world. It will help to do two things which must be done if our economy is to continue to furnish good jobs and good earnings.

1. It will generate part of the private funds for investment in common stocks—the "risk capital" which we need to sustain prosperity.
2. It will provide part of the incentives necessary to make American business management still more effective.

These two predictions are not advanced as matters of opinion. They are based on facts reported by McGraw-Hill field editors.

These facts show why the reductions in upper bracket income tax rates are most significant for our continued prosperity. For the first time in more than twenty years the tax burden on people who can afford to risk their savings has been lightened. To find out what this will mean to the economy, McGraw-Hill field editors all over the nation asked a group of business executives making $15,000 a year or more how they will use the money which the tax cut gives them. Here is what they said:

1. They plan to save—not spend—three-fourths of the money they keep as a result of tax reduction.
2. They plan to invest one-half of these savings in common stocks. If all persons making over $15,000 follow this pattern, they will make available about a half billion dollars of risk capital for American industry.
3. They also will switch some of their present savings from bonds and bank accounts to common stocks. This might easily add a billion dollars or more to the supply of risk capital.

The one-half billion dollars of tax savings and the funds switched from other investments into common stocks is not enough to end the shortage of risk capital. But it is a start.

Before passage of the tax law, risk capital had been growing increasingly scarce.

One measure of the scarcity is that last year only four-tenths of 1% of national income went into new common stocks. In 1925, a year of normal prosperity, almost 3% of national income was invested in new common stocks.

Another measure is that between 1940 and 1947 people actually reduced their holdings of corporate stocks and bonds by nearly a billion dollars. During the same period, people salted away almost $150 billion in such safe havens as cash, bank deposits, and government bonds.

This drought of risk capital hit us just when we need a vastly increased flow of risk capital to finance the expansion and improvement of our American productive machine. We need risk capital to search for new oil fields and to build new pipelines and refineries. We need capital to expand our over-loaded electric and gas utilities. We need it to finish re-equipping our airlines and railroads and bus lines. We need it to modernize our textile production. We need it to keep pace in the magical, booming chemical industries. We need it to launch the new industry of television.

We need capital for all this work and for much more besides. And we must do all this work if we are to keep the United States dynamic and if we are to create new and better jobs.

The tax cut comes just in time. As the last editorial in this series showed, the flow of risk capital must double or triple if we are to avoid a cutback in industrial expansion next year. A major reduction in industrial expansion because of a shortage of risk capital would menace our prosperity. Whenever capital expansion has sagged, the whole economy has sagged. That is the record. That is why every American has a crucial interest in breaking the shortage of risk capital.

WHAT THE TAX CUT WILL DO

What will upper bracket taxpayers do with their tax savings? What can business expect as a result?

TO ANSWER THESE QUESTIONS, McGraw-Hill field editors interviewed a carefully selected sample of business executives earning $15,000 a year or more. Here, for the first time, are solid facts that show how tax reduction will effect the supply of risk capital and business incentives. These are the results:

1) How much of your tax reduction will you save? 74%

2) How much of your tax savings will you invest in common stocks? 52%

3) Will lower taxes lead you to switch some of your investment in bonds to stocks? Yes 28%

4) Have you passed up an opportunity to invest in a new business in the last five years because the return after taxes did not justify the risk? Yes 40%

5) Will lower taxes make you more inclined to take a risk on a new business? Yes 80%

6) Have you turned down the opportunity to take a bigger job in the last five years because taxes would take too much of the additional income offered? Yes 13%

7) Do you know of actual cases of executives who have turned down bigger jobs or more work because of taxes? Yes 38%

8) Will lower taxes make you more inclined to take on a bigger job or more work? Yes 59%

The tax reduction now going into effect helps relieve that shortage. In my opinion, we need still other tax changes to assure enough risk capital for healthy industry and healthy employment.

We should encourage the rapid depreciation and replacement of plants and equipment to keep America efficient.

We should eliminate the double taxation of stockholders' incomes.

We should permit full averaging of good years and bad in calculating income tax payments.

We should cut tax rates again as soon as we can.

The tax cut of 1948 will prime the flow of capital. We must keep it flowing.

The tax cut also encourages our successful men and women to work harder and more effectively.

The McGraw-Hill editors collected some solid facts to show how seriously heavy taxes have discouraged business leaders. Here they are:

1. One out of seven persons the editors questioned said that they had turned down positions with greater responsibilities because heavy taxes would take most of the greater pay that went with the harder job.
2. Six out of ten executives would be more inclined to accept a more responsible job now that taxes will let them keep more of the added pay such a job would bring.

We all have a stake in incentives which make men work harder, especially talented men. The more we each work, the more we all have.

The tax reductions so far made will leave the government more than enough revenue to meet all its expenses, including the proposed defense expenses, and still reduce the national debt. If more defense money becomes necessary, vigorous economy on less essential government expenses will make possible both stronger military defenses and a better tax system. We need both.

Only a prosperous America can be strong enough to remain free—and to help keep the rest of the world free.

ECA Organization Waits on Answers About Personnel

ECA: Up to now the Economic Cooperation Administration has hired 46 employes, mainly stenographers and typists. The agency has 60 employes who were drafted and are on detail from other departments, and 16 part-time consultants, a total of 122.

Two major questions must be settled before it's known what sort of an organization and how many employes ECA will have. They are: (1) how much use ECA will make of other agencies, and (2) how its overseas personnel is to be handled.

Administrator Paul Hoffman has said he'll use the services of other agencies. However, Congress frowns on his using State Department people and services, but State has the services ECA would use. Albert Fitzgerald, chief of the ECA food division, will rely heavily on Agriculture's Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations.

The ECA law gives Hoffman the authority to use State's foreign service in setting up his staff in each of the participating European nations. It had been fully expected State would be used in this connection. But now there seems to be some question about it.

RFC: Lay-off notices will go out this week to about 165 employes of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. About 100 are in this city. RFC must be down to 5600 employes on June 30. It now has 5765. Less than two years ago it had 12,000 employes.

There is talk that RFC will be given new chores by ECA. So far, however, nothing concrete has developed. If RFC is given more work, the lay-offs would be cancelled.

REVENUE: A team of experts has suggested a big expansion and reorganization of the Internal Revenue Bureau. They made a constructive report, unlike the vindictive one made by the House Appropriations Committee.

The report suggests a staff of 67,700 employes. Revenue now has 51,500 people. The report urged its appropriation be jumped from 188 million dollars to 250 million dollars a year. It says that upward of a billion a year in added taxes could be collected if Revenue had more workers. Revenue, however, takes the position that it should only add personnel that could be effectively absorbed; that 16,000 would be too great a number to hire in a year.

The report also would further decentralize the Washington office; to make it a supervisory and management unit, free from the routine handling of cases.

The Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation will hold hearings this week on the recommendations. The committee itself will then file its own report on Revenue reorganization with Congress.

STORY: James Hard, ECA's acting personnel officer, was pleased the other day when he was called in by an ECA bigwig fresh from the business world. He was ordered:

"Get me a secretary, and don't get me one from business. I want a Government secretary because I believe they are the best in the world."

Girls—take a bow.

COMMERCE: The Senate Appropriations Committee has approved funds for export control and for voluntary agreements which would prevent a layoff in the Office of International Trade. Commerce asked for $500,000 more than the committee approved. . . . INTERIOR: The committee proposed four million dollars for the Bureau of Mines to conduct research on synthetic liquid fuels.

LANGER BILL: Early hearings are now planned on the bill to give permanent Civil Service status to those war service and temporary employes who have served satisfactorily in their jobs for the past five years. The Senate Civil Service Committee has received much favorable reaction on the Langer bill.

However, employes who want the bill written into law seem to have overlooked this vital point—that no law is required to put the status plan into effect. The President and the Civil Service Commission have full authority to grant status to the war service and temporary employes. An executive order could accomplish what the bill would do.

Now, the question is, will the President and Civil Service take advantage of this opportunity? The answer is no. The matter has been discussed by Civil Service and White House officials, and they agreed to oppose the bill.

PAY PROGRESS: Chairman Rees of the House Civil Service Committee, will ask the Rules Committee this week for the authority to bring the Federal worker pay bills to the House floor for debate. The bills he is sponsoring call for flat increases of $585 for postal employes, and $468 for most other Government employes. The Rules Committee can be expected to adopt one of these two courses:

1. To suggest that the bills be returned to the Civil Service Committee and be rewritten to call for a flat, and possibly lower, amount for everyone, or,

2. To grant a closed rule on the bills which would mean the House would have either to approve or reject the bills as they are written. In other words, neither could be amended from the House floor.

The strategy behind such a rule would be to prevent the bill from being amended on the floor to call for larger pay raises.

More than one House leader will tell you privately that the postal employes have overplayed their powerful hand. These members resent the pressure they've been subjected to. Two weeks ago the postal employes were a cinch to get a larger pay raise than other employes. Now there's some doubt about it.

DST Shifts Elsewhere Hit Travel Times Here

Rail, Bus, Airline Reports Vary on Effect; New Try In Congress Today

Daylight saving time—even though it didn't hit Washington—caused changes galore in local train, bus and airline schedules yesterday.

Reports of its effect varied. Some transportation officials reported spiraling passenger inquiries, others noted "no change at all" and still others announced the switch had created "confusion everywhere."

Some officials said schedules had been revised on the assumption the District also would be on daylight saving time.

New Attempt Due Today

A new attempt to give the city "fast" time will be made today in Congress. The legislation already has been approved in the Senate, but has been delayed in the House.

At Union Station, an official revealed that 95 inbound and 90 outbound train schedules were "changed or withdrawn" effective at 2 a. m. yesterday. Virtually all commuter runs were affected, he said, in some instances running earlier, in others later.

"So far as I know there haven't been an complaints about people missing trains," he added.

2 Millions Paid Here in '47 Under Social Security Act

Washington beneficiaries under the Social Security Act received a total of $2,069,000 in old age and survivors' insurance payments during 1947.

According to figures released by the Social Security Administration, $1,925,000 was certified in monthly payments and $144,000 was paid in lump sums to survivors of workers who died and left no one eligible for monthly payments.

About 7600 local men, women and children benefitted in monthly payments, while 1100 lump sum payments were made.

Victor Sadd, manager of the SSA Washington field office, emphasized that some benefits are being lost by eligible persons who are unaware of their rights. He urged workers attaining the age of of 65 to call or write the local field office, 1400 Pennsylvania ave. nw.

Norfolk Boat Ends Trip Here 9½ Hours Late, In Tow, 151 Aboard, Because of Bad Coal

By Arthur Ellis—The Washington Post

Norfolk and Washington steamboat "District of Columbia" comes into port 9½ hours late

The Norfolk-Washington steamer "District of Columbia" was towed to her Maine Avenue dock 9½ hours late yesterday because her boilers couldn't digest the low-grade coal in her bunkers.

The 25-year-old ship, carrying 151 suntanned travelers, was nudged into her berth at 4:30 p. m. She left Norfolk at 5:45 p. m. When it was too late to turn back, Capt. Edward H. Eaton of 3602 Nichols ave. se., found that the coal was only producing enough steam to keep the ship moving at a rate slow enough for trolling.

At 7 a. m. yesterday—her scheduled arrival time in Washington—the steamer was at Morgantown Bridge, 55 miles downstream and 145 from Norfolk. Eaton hailed a passing tug owned by the Interstate Oil Co. of Philadelphia, and was towed the rest of the way.

Most of the passengers were happy over the extra time aboard, with a chance for a sun bath and a look at the sights along the river. Any incipient complaints apparently were squelched by a roast beef lunch served "on the house."

Only inconvenience: Thirty-seven girls from Ursuline College and Our Lady of the Elms Academy, both Cleveland, Ohio, schools, missed morning church. They're on a sightseeing tour.

Captain Eaton, who has been on the Norfolk-Washington run for 26 years, dumped the bad coal overboard on the way up, took on good coal here, and cast off again for Norfolk last night—more than two hours late.

Over 150 passengers were aboard, 37 from Ursuline College and Our Lady of the Elms Academy in Cleveland who are on eastern tour

New Parochial School Blessed By Archbishop

The new St. Francis De Sales parochial school at 2021 Rhode Island ave. ne., was dedicated to the glory of God yesterday by the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington.

In ceremonies beginning at 3:30 p. m., Archbishop O'Boyle blessed a statuary group in the building, offered a consecration prayer, and concluded with a blessing of the school.

Later, in St. Francis Church, he praised more than 750 parishioners who crowded into it for making the school a reality. Ground for the $200,000 structure was broken October 15, 1945.

Aware of Sacrifices

"I am keenly aware of the sacrifices made by the people of the parish in order to have this school," the Archbishop told them. "I congratulate you. In doing this, you have put first things first."

Archbishop O'Boyle, who was participating in his first school dedication, spoke following confirmation of some 120 children.

The two-story, yellow brick building has eight classrooms, kindergarten and auditorium. It was opened last fall under the administration of the Rev. W. L. Read, pastor of St. Francis.

All Funds From Parish

In a sermon preceding the confirmation, the Rev. William McManus pointed out that "with the exception of a few minor contributions, all money for the new school has come from the parishioners."

"And this," he added, "in a parish relatively low-income families." At least half the contributions, Father McManus said, "entailed real hardship."

"This school was built," he declared, "by little people who gave big gifts."

The newly organized National Capital Lodge of B'Nai B'rith will meet at the Jewish Community Center Wednesday at 8:30 p. m.

Education Board Can't Assign Teachers to Receiving Home

The Board of Education cannot assign teachers to establish a sorely-needed educational program at the Receiving Home for Children.

The opinion—requested by Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning—was made public yesterday by Corporation Counsel Vernon West.

"As the appropriation act is now worded, the money can be used only for payment of teachers in the public schools," West declared. He said, however, that the wording of the act could be changed or an additional appropriation sought.

The decision was handed down as school, welfare and receiving home authorities pleaded for adequate educational facilities.

Dr. Corning, calling the situation "very bad," said he believed the children should be given an educational program. In some instances, he pointed out, they are held for months.

He added, that "the basic question is whether it is our responsibility and what we have the legal right to do."

Dr. William H. Stavsky, superintendent of the institution, pointed out that the home is so "understaffed" that it is difficult to take care of the children's physical needs "let alone free" workers for teaching.

With facilities for a maximum of 70 children, the institution now houses 103, Dr. Stavsky said. About 40 per cent are "delinquents" but the remainder are dependent cases.

Currently, with no organized program, there is limited training for pre-school children and in some instances instruction in reading and writing for older ones.

Two Teen-Agers Killed, 7 Injured in Smashups

Early Morning Highway Crashes Fatal To High School Girl, Youth; Carload Of Student Moviegoers Hits Truck

Early morning motor accidents near Washington killed two persons yesterday—one of them a 17-year-old Washington-Lee High School girl—and left seven other teen agers in critical condition.

The dead:

Orella Yost, 17, of 1629 N. Harrison st., Arlington, Va.

Charles Lipscomb, 18, of 2714 26th st. nw.

The injured:

William A. Kidwell, 20, of 2604 Military rd., Arlington.

Max Brown, 18, of Edgewater, Md.

Paul Chester, 17, of 300 Yost pl. ne.

David Toman, 16, of 2728 28th st. ne.

Janice Lumpkin, 17, of 2627 So. Dakota ave. ne.

Janet Williams, 16, of 1310 Downing pl. ne.

Doris Robinson, 16, of 2828 27th st. ne.

Convertible Upsets

Miss Yost, who was to have been graduated from Washington-Lee this spring, died before reaching the hospital after the convertible in which she was riding with Kidwell left U. S. Route 50 east of Centerville, Va., and upset. Both occupants were thrown out of the car.

Miss Yost is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Yost, a State Department employe. Funeral services have been set tentatively for Tuesday morning at the Clarendon Baptist Church.

Lipscomb died at 5:15 a. m. yesterday, five hours after the car he was driving struck a truck head-on on Route 214, 4½ miles east of Davidsonville, Md. The truck was driven by Max Brown, 18, of Edgewater, Md., police said.

High School Students

The Lipscomb car held five McKinley and Eastern High School students, en route home from an open-air theater near Annapolis. Anne Arundel County Police Sergt. Edward C. King said both vehicles were thrown off the road into a fence.

Lipscomb, a former Central High School student, was released from the paratroopers last March after brief peacetime service in Japan. He was employed by the Asbestos Covering & Roofing Co., Inc., 4104 Georgia ave. nw., and is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodric B. Lipscomb, sr., and a brother, Theodric, jr.

Mr. Marcey, Kidwell's grandfather, died at 6:30 p. m. after an 18-month illness. A retired farmer, he was a native of Arlington. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. from the C. J. Ives funeral home, 2847 Wilson blvd., Arlington. Burial will be in the Walker Chapel Cemetery in Arlington.

Passerby Shot During Street Row

Bus Driver Gets Bullet in Arm; Policeman Hurt, 3 Men Arrested

A bus driver, who happened to pass a fracas involving a policeman and several other drivers, was accidentally struck in the right arm with a bullet from the policeman's gun early yesterday.

The injured driver, Ray Dearing Lancaster, 31, of 1015 N st. nw., was admitted to Sibley Hospital, where his condition was reported as not serious.

Police said it could not be determined how or by whom the gun had been discharged during the scuffle.

The policeman, Pvt. Ray L. Dixon, 37, Ninth Precinct, was treated at Gallinger Hospital for possible ribs and ordered on sick leave. He will report to the Police and Fire Clinic for X-rays today.

Three of the bus drivers were released under $1000 bond each on charges of assault on a police officer. They are Clarence J. Hester, 31, of 1141 12th st. nw., David W. Rowe, 28, of 1654 K st. ne., and Paul Smith, 32, of Berwyn, Md.

Dixon said he was patroling his beat on foot about 4:30 a. m. when he saw several persons in a parked car and one man standing alongside it, drinking whisky from a bottle, in the 2000 block of Kendall st. ne.

He went over to them, and an argument started. Hester became disorderly, and Dixon struck him on the shoulder with his baton, he said. Hester then began to run and fell. Dixon attempted to help him up and fell also, according to the policeman. While they were both down, Dixon said his revolver either was pulled or fell from his holster. It was discharged accidentally when he and Hester both reached for it, he said.

Lancaster was walking on the other side of the street when he was shot, police said.

Beggar, Rebuffed, Critically Wounds Boy

Ernest Moone, 18, was critically wounded when shot in the neck by an unidentified man as he entered his home at731 6th st. ne. early yesterday.

Te told police he had reached the top of the front steps about 1:30 a. m., when the man approached, asked for a dollar, and then fired two shots at him when he refused him. He was admitted to Casualty Hospital.

Man Wounded, 2 Arrested In Shooting

A man, shot at and missed by one man, was seriously wounded by another who had intended his bullet for the first man's assailant in a quarrel yesterday.

The shooting occured in a rooming house at 1102 6th st. nw., almost on the doorstep of the Second Precint station house.

Both the man who missed and the man whose bullet hit, were charged with assault with a danger-ous weapon. They are John Williamson, 40, of 2715 11th st. nw., and Benjamin Harrison, 40, who, police said, is mangaer of the rooming house.

Police learned of the shooting when a woman, wearing only panties and a brassiere, rushed into the station from the rooming house. Four detectives ran to the scene. They gave this version of the shooting:

Jones was in a third-floor room, when Williamson kicked the door in and threatened him with a .38-caliber revolver. Harrison heard the commotion and went upstairs with his own .38.

When he saw Williamson fire at Jones and miss, he fired his gun to stop Williamson from shooting again. The bullet missed Williamson and struck Jones. At that point, as police arrived with drawn guns, the shooting stopped, they said.

Housebreaker Escapes From Bottle Wielder

A housebreaker escaped through the shaft of the dumb waiter in the Fat Boy Restaurant, 2201 New York ave. ne., while an employe, armed only with a bottle, tried to stop him early yesterday.

Robert Webb, 27, of 3336 Sreman ave. nw., said he went to the restaurant about 5:20 a. m. to start work. He noticed an auto, with motor running, parked in the rear. It bore Pennsylvania license tags.

When he walked around front, he saw the glass in the door had been broken. Inside was a man, who was carrying a load of beer, whisky, cigarettes and chewing gum.

While another employe, George Townsend, 63, went for police, Webb tried to hold the man at bay with a bottle. The thief, however, dropped his loot, climbed up the shaft to the roof and fled before police arrived. Missing with him was an undetermined amount of change from the chewing gum machine. Police said the auto was

Safecrackers Get $1800 to $3000

Safecrackers made off with possibly several thousand dollars in cash from the offices of L. S. Briggs, Inc., meatpackers, 454 11th st. sw., Saturday night or early Sunday, police were told yesterday.

Raymond Briggs, firm president, reported the thieves had gained entry by forcing a rear basement door from its hinges. After ransacking two offices, they pried the safe open with heavy tools.

Briggs said the amount taken could not be determined until after an audit. Police estimated, however, the theft involved between $1800 and $3000.

Richmond Democrat Attacks Almond Ruling

Richmond, Va., April 25 (AP).—Martin A. Hutchinson, Richmond Democrat said today Virginia Democrats who vote for House and Senate candidates "other than those named by the Byrd organization" are still left in the dark as to their party status.

He referred to a ruling issued Saturday by Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, jr., who held that "no Democrat is barred from participating in Democartic primaries after the 1948 Presidential election, regradless of what Presidential electors he may cast his ballot for in that election."

Hutchinson, assesting the attorney General's decision "is more notable for what it doesn't say than for what it said. The ruling is confined to the voting for Presidential electors only, but that candidates for the Senate and House of Representatives "presumably will be classified as State candidates."

Prince Georges Board Sets Logging Hearing

The Forestry Board of Prince Georges County will hold an open hearing for logging and sawmilling operators at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the Trial Magistrate's Court in Upper Marlboro.

Cloudy Skies Fail to Deter Capitol Crowds

Clouds hung over the District yesterday but that didn't deter Washingtonians from their usual Sunday pursuit of the Muses, sports and spectacles.

Officials at the Zoo reported some 40,000 there. Park police said the usual number of traffic tieups involving so-called Sunday drivers were untangled. Museums, art galleries and other tourist attractions were crowded.

In Winchester, where the annual Apple Blossom Festival will be held Thursday and Friday, several thousands of motorists from Maryland, Virginia, West Virgisia, Pennsylvania and the District drove by to view the blooming orchards.

The t hermometer ranged between a low of 60 degrees at 1:26 a. m. and a high of 82 at 2:40 p. m. The day was a little on the windy side, varying from 17 to 25 miles an hour and the humidity was fairly high.

Today will continue cloudy, but mostly sunnier with the hottest temperature in the mid-seventies, the Weather Bureau forecast.

Miss Nordbo Program Uninspiring

By Donald Engle

The Norwegian pianist, Dagny Solheim Nordbo, was presented in a recital of Scandinavian music yesterday afternoon at the Phillips Memorial Gallery.

It is difficult to evaluate Miss Nordbo's achievement as an artist from this particular hearing, chiefly because of the unfortunate selection of program material. This consisted chiefly of folk dance pieces, bagatelles, a caprice, and a cradle song, all of a pretty trivial nature, by Grieg, Nielsenand Saeverud.

The one exception in which we expected some "solid" fare was Carl Nielsen's Chaconne, but even that was a disappointment in its aimless wanderings and shapeless rhythmic contour.

Thus these pieces are all pleasant and melodious, but heard one after another on an entire program, they are as cloying and monotonous as a meal entirely of sweets. Miss Nordbo's playing was in keeping with her offerings—pleasant but exciting, accurate but uninspiring.

Sailor Charged With Attacking Woman in Home

Charles Pappas, seaman second class, 24, of the Naval Receiving Station, Anacostia, was charged yesterday with assault with intent to rape Mrs. Anne Taylor, 27, in her apartment at 910 8th st. se.

Mrs. Taylor told police she had left her door unlocked because her husband was not home, when Pappas, a stranger, entered shortly before 1 a. m. He struck her in the face, bit her and threatened to kill her if she did not submit, she said.

Her screams aroused Frank Felton, a roomer, who chased Pappas from the apartment into the arms o policemen John I. Shotzberger and John U. Carroll of the Fifth Precinct.

Mass Planned At Arlington For War Dead

The tenth annual Military Memorial Field Mass, honoring the Nation's war dead, will be held in the Arlington National Cemetery amphitheater at 10 a. m. Sunday, May 23.

The Most Rev. Patrick Aloysius O'Boyle, D.D., Archbishop of Washington will celebrate a solemn Pontificial Mass, and the Right Rev. Msgr. John Keating Cartwright, D.D., rector of St. Matthew's Cathedral, will preach.

The field mass, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus of Washington in association with the Committee of National Catholic Societies, is expected to be the largest gathering of Catholics ever held in Arlington amphitheater.

Singing for the mass will be by the choir of the Franciscan House of Studies at Catholic University.

Following the mass, representatives of more than 100 national and diocesan Catholic organizations will place wreaths at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in behalf of their organizations.

The Field Mass, under the general chairmanship of Alfred A. McGarraghy, is open to the public. There will be no cards of admission and no reserved seats.

Following the ceremonies there will be a reception for Archbishop O'Boyle at the Carlton Hotel.

Thomas Criticized For Handling of Dr. Condon Case

Chairman Thomas (R., N. J.) of the House Un-American Activities Committee has "been derelict in his duty," Representative Holifield (R., Calif.) said yesterday.

Speaking on the Ed Hart program over WINX, Holifield declared Thomas "owes it to the country to bring Dr. (E. U.) Condon before the committee . . . I challenge them to turn the evidence over to the Attorney General for prosecution. They should put up or shut up." A committee report charged Dr. Condon, head of the Bureau of Standards, with being "the weakest link" in the Nation's atomic security.

Dr. Richmond Silver Jubilee Is Celebrated

A pastor and a church observed anniversaries, and a pulpit was dedicated yesterday in Greater Washington church services.

Dr. Richmond

Dr. Clifford Homer Richmond, pastor of Chevy Chase Methodist Church, Connecticut ave. and Shepherd st. nw., marked the silver jubilee of his ordination.

Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 34th and Lowell sts. nw., of which Dr. Alfred Wesley Hurst is pastor, opened its thirtieth anniversary week.

Pulpit Dedicated

Members of St. Columbia's Episcopal Church, 42d and Albermarle sts. nw., with Capitol Hill employes, dedicated a pulpit to William Tyler Page, former clerk of the House of Representatives, and author of "The American Creed," who died in 1942.

The Rev. C. Randolph Mengers, rector of St. Columbia's, eulogized Mr. Page as "one whose life was a living sermon."

Reginald Looker, representing the St. Columba's vestry that Page served many years, accepted the pulpit from John Andrews, clerk of the House. It was a gift of friends and associates of Page on Capitol Hill.

Tributes to Pastor

At the anniversary service for Dr. Richmond in Chevy Chase, tributes were paid by the following clergy and laymen:

Dr. Ralph Dela Smith, superintendent of the West Washington Methodist district; Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, pastor of Foundry Methodist Church; George E. Harris, lay leader of Chevy Chase Methodist Church and general chairman of the anniversary program, and Mrs. Harry S. Jager, president of the West Washington district, Woman's Society of Christian Service. Dr. Emery L. Curtis, president of the congregation's board of trustees, led in the presentation of gifts to Dr. and Mrs. Richmond. A reception and tea followed.

The Cleveland Park congregation will burn the $25,000 mortgage on its church and parsonage Friday at 8 p. m., as a feature of anniversary week.

Million Crowd Manuel Roxas State Funeral

Manila, April 25 (AP).—The Philippines Republic buried its first President today in a crush of mourners so great that several scores fainted or were trampled in their efforts to approach the casket of Manuel Roxas.

Dr. Froilan Eubanks, 54, chief administrator of the San Lazaro Hospital, died of a heart attack when riding in the funeral cortege.

The Army estimated more than 1,200,000 persons lined the route or jammed into old North Cemetery in the stifling heat. A half million had come from the provinces.

Roxas, 56, died April 15.

Today's great state funeral began shortly after dawn in Malacanan Palace. At 11:20 a. m., five hours after the rites had begun, the funeral procession entered North Cemetery.

President Quirino and Roxas' son, daughter and aged mother stood beside the casket.

The inscription on the tomb reads:

Mrs. Louise H. Pulliam

Leesburg, Va., April 25 (Spl.).—Mrs. Louise Hoskinson Pulliam, 72, widow of M. B. Pulliam, died today at the Loudoun County Hospital after a three months' illness.

A native of Leesburg, she lived in Berryville, Va., until 1934 when she returned here. She was a member of the Berryville Methodist Church.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Harold Miller, Guilford, Conn.; a son, Dr. Matthew Pulliam, Leesburg, and two sisters, Mrs. Walter Roney, Arlington, Va., and Mrs. Nancy Bright, Baltimore.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 11 a. m. in the Colonial funeral home in Leesburg with the Rev. L. C. Shearer officiating. Burial will be in Berryville.

Manuel M. Ponce

Mexico City, April 25 (U.P.).—Manuel M. Ponce, Mexican pianist and composer of "Estrellita," died here today. He was 61.

Rev. Edmund C. Horne

Philadelphia, April 25 (AP).—The Rev. Edmund C. Horne, S.J., 50, professor at the University of Detroit and former president of John Carroll University, died today.

Miss Hunter, Educator and Poetess, Dies

Miss Charlotte Elizabeth Hunter, 79, educator and poetess, died yesterday at the Capital Vista Nursing Home, 215 Division ave. ne., following an illness of several months.

Hunter

Born in Washington, Miss Hunter was educated in the private schools here and in 1884 was graduated from the Miner Normal School, now Miner Teachers College.

Later, after teaching in the District public schools for several years, she resigned to serve with the Miner Board of Trustees. Subsequently, she left to study in Dresden, Germany, and in France.

On her return to this country, Miss Hunter entered what was then the M Street High School to teach English and German. She remained for 10 years.

The following 10 years she spent as a kindergarten trainer in the Miner school and later transferred to Dunbar High School as an English and history instructor—remaining until 1919.

She founded an organization to aid the blind, called Harriet Tubman Aid to the Blind, and served as it executive secretary for several years.

She wrote several books of poetry, including "Birds of Passage," and was a prominent member of the United World Federalists, having helped to found a chapter in Baltimore last year.

Spiritual in nature, she prided herself on her diverse heritage. Her blood carried Indian, Negro and white strains, she often told friends. This made her richer than most people—for she could understand the feelings of three races.

Congress twice passed legislation giving her retirement pay, but both times it was vetoed by President Truman. He explained that he did not wish to "single her out for preferred consideration" in spite of her "excellent record."

It reads:

"Out of the depth of sorrow and care,
Out of the night of blackest despair,
Baffled and shattered, dazed and askew
Drifting and drifting with nothing to do!
Nothing to do? What of life one must live?
What of the effort one's best thought to give?
What of the will to do and to dare?
What of the courage to get and to share?
To "Victory" marching
I'm seeking and meeting
And knowing—MY SOUL."

Chimes to Be Installed

Fredericksburg, Va., April 25 (Spl.)—A set of Maas organ chimes will be installed in the spire of Fredericksburg Baptist Church as a memorial to the late Horace F. Crismond. The congregation voted for this type of memorial last week.

9th Infantry to Meet

The District of Columbia Chapter of the Ninth Infantry Division Association will meet at 8 p. m. today at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, 1319 K st. nw.

Dr. C. D. Langhorne, 74, Dies; Former Surgeon, Hero of Navy

Dr. Cary Devall Langhorne, 74, former Navy surgeon and holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, died yesterday at his home, St. Bridges Farm, Upperville, Va. He had been ill since December.

Dr. Langhorne saw action in the Spanish-American War, the Philippines Insurrection, the American intervention in Mexico, and in World War I.

An interne in New York Hospital, New York, in 1898, he joined the Navy at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War. After serving through the war, he was sent to the Philippines during the insurrection, and received high commendations for heroism in action ashore there with the Marines.

He served throughout World War I on a hospital ship, caring for wounded servicemen evacuated through Brest, France. He resigned as a commander after the end of the war, and had since lived on his Upperville estate.

Dr. Langhorne was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Devall Langhorne, and the great-grandson, through his mother, of Col. John K. Tayloe, Virginia planter and intimate friend of George Washington, who built the historic Octagon House at 18th st. and New York ave. nw. in 1800. This town house was occupied by President James Madison after the White House was burned in 1814, and the Treaty of Ghent, terminating the War of 1812, was signed there.

Born in Lynchburg, Va., on May 14, 1873, Dr. Langhorne was graduated from the Virginia Military Institute and the University of Virginia Medical School.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Zaidee Gaff Langhorne; a brother, Col. George Tayloe Langhorne of Chicago, and two sisters, Mrs. Powell Clayton of Belfast, Me., and Mrs. Stanley Washburn of Lakewood, N. J.

Rev. Willis J. Madden

Culpeper, Va., April 25 (Spl.).—The Rev. Willis Jackson Madden, 87, pastor of the Antioch Baptist Church for more than 50 years, and one of the county's first Negro public school teachers, died Friday at his home here.

He was a native of Culpeper County and began teaching at the age of 15 in the first public school here for Negro children. Later he attended and was graduated from Howard University, Washington, D. C., and the Wayland Baptist Seminary, then located in Washington.

For 30 years he was moderator of the Wayland Baptist Association and also conducted classes for the State Board of Education, as well as serving as principal and teacher in the public schools of Culpeper for 40 years.

James D. Miller

Funeral services for James D. Miller, 57, Washington carpenter who died Saturday night while attending a dance at Almas Temple, 1315 K st. nw., will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday from Chambers funeral home, 517 11th st. se. Burial will be in Washington Memorial Park cemetery.

Mr. Miller was pronounced dead by an Emergency Hospital staff physician about 9:30 p. m. Saturday. Death was apparently due to a heart attack.

Born and educated in New York City, he came to the District in July, 1940. He was employed by contractors here and belonged to Local 132, Carpenters' Union. He also was a Mason.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Mary M. Miller, with whom he lived at 1216 30th st. se., he is survived by a son, Russell Daniel Miller of the Bronx, New York. His parents, four brothers and two sisters, all of New York, also survive.

Churches Honor Young People, Starting Boys and Girls Week

Churches honored their young people yesterday, as the twenty-eighth annual Boys and Girls Week began throughout the country.

Locally, the observance was sponsored by the Council of Social Agencies and cooperating bodies. The national sponsor is the Boys and Girls Week Committee of the United States.

Hundreds of uniformed Campfire Girls, Boy and Girl Scouts attended church services yesterday.

Boys and Girls Day in Schools will be observed today. Social agency groups which meet in schools will hold teas and other functions honoring parents and teachers.

A meeting of the Cardozo High School student council will be held today at the Phyllis Wheatley YWCA, 901 Rhode Island ave. nw. This will be followed by a session of the Y-Teen modern dance class.

Mr., Mrs. Joseph Davies Give Party at Tregaron

By Marie McNair

Guests arriving at Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davies' garden party yesterday afternoon at Tregaron on Klingle rd., motored through winding roadways of azaleas and dogwood which lay like a lacy white scarf over the trees.

Yes, it was a fairyland scene with masses of coral, flame, deep rose, pale pink and white azaleas in full bloom, banked right up to the front door of the big Georgian house. In the formal gardens were circles of white and mauve tulips; pansies, phlox and wee box grew in their own beds on the wide stone porch and cedar branches studded with snow-white spirea had been entwined about the canopy ropes.

Wears Black Satin

Mr. and Mrs. Davies stood on the flagstone terrace where a tea table had been set up under the cloudless sky. Mrs. Davies wore a lustrous black satin ankle-length gown embroidered, about the shoulders and hipline in jet. And her gray hair was beautifully arranged in soft waves high up on her head.

The day was so perfect, the picture so enchanting, that many guests took a brisk walk over the greensward to the little Russian house which the Davies have built on the estate. There they saw the portrait of Mrs. Davies, done by the celebrated English artist, Frank Salisbury, who worked on the painting from photographs while buzz bombs dropped all about him.

The Belgian Ambassador, Baron Robert Silvercruys, took off with the Cuban Ambassador, Dr. Guillermo Belt, while pretty Elisa Belt in a sheer black frock, a wide-brimmed hat trimmed with turquoise bows, lingered with friends on the terrace.

It was good to see the Honduran Ambassador, Dr. Julian Caceres, going to parties again, after an illness which forbade such frivolities. Senora de Caceres was with him, and I saw the two in conversation first with Mr. and Mrs. Eldon P. King, again with Senora de Thomen, wife of the Dominican Ambassador. Justice and Mrs. Stanley Reed were there, Mrs. Reed wearing a fur jacket over her print frock.

Capitol Hill There

Senator Lister Hill and Mrs. Hill, in a deep green and white print and pale pink felt hat, made the rounds, so did Representative and Mrs. Mike Monroney, Mrs. Monroney wearing a little gray linen jacket over her blue frock; a natural colored straw hat wreathed in purple blossoms.

Senator Alben Barkley, said he was just off the plane; Senator and Mrs. Claude Pepper were just back from New York, and Mildred Pepper with blue roses on her hat to match her eyes, was busy pouring tea.

Mrs. Dennis Chavez who was there with the Senator, was enjoying the butter-colored ice cream served with strawberries; Mrs. Tom Connally served coffee, and Mrs. Truxtun Beale took a seat beside Mrs. Arthur Gardner who was wearing a magenta satin gown dotted in black and was pouring tea.

I saw the Greek Ambassador and Mme. Dendramis, the latter ever so chic in black silk suit and shiny straw hat; the Minister-Counselor of the Cuban Embassy and Senora de Baron; Senator Millard Tydings and Mrs. Tydings—she's Mr. Davies' daughter—and Gen. and Mrs. Burdette Fitch—she's another daughter.

Said "how-de-do" to Gen and Mrs. Wade Haislip; glimpsed Mrs. J. Borden Harriman standing tall and straight against the hedge, and stopped for a chat with Senora de Dillon, wife of the Ecuadorian Ambassador, looking so pretty in black with an almond green hat swathed in veiling which draped one shoulder.

Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Clinton Anderson were there and in a sea of familiar faces I picked out Senator and Mrs. Ralph Flanders, Senator and Mrs. John L. McClellan, the latter looking like a piece of Dresden in a pale mauve flowered hat.

Garden Party Frocks

Mrs. Mitchell Palmer and Mme. Vladimir Rybar both wore garden party frocks of black lace and I noticed a tiny muff of white daisies that Mrs. Charles H. Maddox carried, was an effective touch to her dark blue costume. I noticed, too, that Charles Warren who was with Mrs. Warren, still clings to the high starched white collar.

This could go on and on, but just to name a few more there were:

Mrs. Ollie James with pink roses on her hat, Col. and Mrs. Horace Smith, Mrs. Harold Walker, Mrs. George Mesta and her sister, Mrs. George Tyson; Senator and Mrs. Homer Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Bowman MacArthur, Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin, all in black, and Lady Butterfield in a blue print.

Mme. Rosso, wife of a former Italian Ambassador, a symphony in brown, took her turn at the tea table; Gen. Carl Spaatz was hardly recognizable now that he's in civilian clothes. And, this is positively the end—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Feis, Judge and Mrs. Ernest Van Fossan, Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, former Senator and Mrs. John Philip Hill, Mrs. George Thorpe, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Richberg and Jonkheer and Mme. Van Swinderen.

Delegates' Wives to Be Entertained

A full program of entertainment has been arranged for wives of delegates to the Fourth International Congresses on Tropical Medicine and Malaria which meets May 10 to May 18. Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the Secretary of State, is honorary chairman of the Women's Hospitality Committee which has arranged an official reception by the State Department May 10 at the Pan American Union.

Mrs. Truman will entertain the group at tea at the White House on May 13 and the following day the ladies will be guests at a luncheon to be held at the Army-Navy Country Club.

Plan Garden Party

A garden party May 15 will be given under the sponsorship of the Harvard University of Public Health at Dumbarton Oaks.

Members of the hospitality committee who met recently to plan the social schedule of wives from some 40 foreign countries who expect to attend, included Mrs. Clinton P. Anderson, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture; Mrs. W. R. Aykroyd, wife of the Director of the Nutritional Division of the Food and Agriculture Organization; Mrs. Marshall A. Balfour, wife of the head of the Far Eastern office of the Rockefeller Foundation; Mrs. Raymond W. Bliss, wife of the Surgeon General of the Army; Mrs. Charles F. First Lady Heads Patron List For Frontier Nursing Benefit

A distinguished list of Washingtonians, headed by the First Lady, will lend their support as patronesses of the annual benefit of the Frontier Nursing Service, Washington committee, scheduled to be held May 5 at the Mayflower Hotel.

John Mason Brown, author, critic of the drama and now associate editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, will lecture on that day for the benefit of the Frontier Nurses as has been his custom every year since 1939 with the exception of two years when he was serving overseas with the Navy.

Other ladies of official and social Washington who comprise the list of patronesses along with Mrs. Truman include Mrs. Fred M. Vinson, wife of the Chief Justice; Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the Secretary of State; Mrs. John W. Snyder, Mrs. Stanley Reed, Mrs. Harold H. Burton, Mrs. Chester C. Bolton, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, Mrs. Harlan F. Stone, Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong and Mme. Draper Boncompagni.

Favorite Charity

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. D. Lawrence Groner, the Frontier Nursing Service, which operates deep in the heart of the Kentucky hills far from the traffic of railroads or highways, is one of Washington's favorite charities.

Founded in 1925 by Mrs. Mary Breckenridge, a native of Kentucky, the Frontier nurses have held steadfastly to the ideal of bringing to the people of the remote mountain districts of Kentucky the best of medical care. Emphasis has always been placed on the care of expectant mothers and infants, but whenever a call is heard at the Frontier Center, no matter what the ailment, the mission of mercy swings into operation.

Debutantes Assist

Earnest young socialites from all parts of the country, including many from Washington who have changed their debutante gowns for riding habit, each year lend their assistance to the professional nurses who form the backbone of the corps. With the assistance of these young debutantes who serve as "couriers" for the service, the professional corps is able to maintain a chain of medical aid which has become outstanding.

The service exists almost wholly through benefits, such as Mr. Brown's lecture, contributions and a small endowment. Each year between 300 and 400 women receive prenatal care through the services of this charity.

Mr. Brown, who will title his lecture from his latest book, "Seeing Things," has a personal interest in lending his support to this cause. He is a native Kentuckian and has seen at first-hand the operation of this unique charity.

As is the custom, tea will be served following the lecture to all who attend. Mr. Brown will be present at the tea.

Rector to Review Book on Ministry At Church Tea

"The Bishop's Mantle," by Agnes Sleigh Turnbull, current best-seller, will be reviewed by the Rev. Harold Bend Sedgwick, rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, Wednesday afternoon, April 28, at 3 o'clock in the auditorium of St. Thomas' parish house. The book review by Mr. Sedgwick will highlight a tea and monthly meeting of the women of St. Thomas' Church sponsored by the church guild.

This will be the first book review to be given by Mr. Sedgwick since he assumed his duties as rector of St. Thomas' in February. As "The Bishop's Mantle" concerns a young minister in one of Washington's largest churches, his review promises to give unusual insight into this popular novel.

Mrs. Albert Cousins, president of St. Thomas' Guild, and Mrs. Robert Nash, guild secretary, are in charge of arrangements for the tea.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Woman, Ailing and Depressed, Finds Her Smugly Religious Sister's Evangelism The Last Straw; How Cope With Zealotry?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have read your column for quite a while and get great pleasure from your good advice. Several of your discussions have helped me, and now I am bringing you a problem that has been on my mind for 15 years.

My elder sister Gwen and I were married the same year, and our husbands are as different in type as two men could be. Gwen's husband is interested only in making and saving money and going to church, and my husband—although a good worker, good sportsman and all-around likable person—has no desire to go to church.

Ever since Gwen took up church work with her husband, she writes me sermon-letters telling me how much of a sinner I am, and whenever she spends time in my home she can't discuss anything without bringing in her faith in God and the hereafter.

Fears Marriage May Be Broken

I HAVE done my best to ignore her sermons and hints without offending her or causing family trouble; but I have been very sick and despondent for almost four years and the pressure of her attitude added to my other worries makes me so irritable with my husband that I fear we may part eventually if the problem isn't remedied.

It isn't that I don't believe in church or that I think Gwen's belief is wrong; but I feel that if Jed and I are to be active Christian church workers, we shall be guided to it; and also, that my first duty is to him, regardless of his indifference to church.

However, Gwen's insinuating remarks are turning me against everything, even my only brother and his family. It is difficult to explain, but as best I can express myself, I feel so inferior and depressed that I despise almost everything; and Gwen rarely inquires in a sisterly way about my welfare. Please tell me how to handle the situation. A. V.

Ancient History Of Rivalry Here

DEAR A. V.: As I get the drift, your problem with Gwen started in childhood and consists of emotionally vehement rivalry, with you unduly impressed by Gwen's claims to superiority and she (unconsciously) sharply envious of various attributes of yours that you don't know you possess in her eyes, hence don't give yourself credit for, in relation to her or generally.

In my opinion, there is droll significance in her evangelism. She is five years your senior, got married the same year you did, and has been making much ado about her husband's religiosity and her church activities ever since—as if to say, oh! sainted contrast to your ungodly helpmeet and way of life.

I think she feels she got married by the skin of her teeth, straining to reach that goal nip-and-tuck with you, and is none too happy with her bargain; but to save face, down her misgivings and, above all, never let you suspect that you did better than she (from her repressed viewpoint) in marrying a more expansive man, is "making a virtue of necessity" in doing what she must to humor her provider.

Health Inheres In Self-Esteem

A HEALTHY personality hectored by her self-glorifying preachments would find the performance amusing or tedious, while also wondering what's "eating" her; but he wouldn't take it as a reproach to himself, and the fact that you feel anxiously defensive means that you're rather seriously neurotic.

The clue to your sickness is given in the statement, "I feel so inferior and depressed that I despise almost everything." In brief, unconsciously you reject (or hate) yourself. And why? Because it's habit with you to set store by Gwen's judgments and she has always made a point of verbally tearing you down, so that as of today you hardly dare face anybody, including your brother's family; and have begun to reject your husband, too, in line with her carping.

If your life were based on a sturdy foundation of self-esteem and self-acceptance—as it should be—you'd feel sorry for Gwen and sympathetic to her hidden problems; but no need whatever to fend against her neurotic zealotry. For advice: Read Emmet Fox's two books: "The Sermon on the Mount" and "Power Through Constructive Thinking." M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Washington Post.

The Right Position

The ironing board's position has much to do with speedy and satisfactory ironing. First, it should be the correct height and in a good light and should be set up perfectly evenly—and never in a position blocking the kitchen door. There is nothing so irritating as to be on the wrong side of the ironing board when the bell starts ringing in the front of the house.

Dobbs Alumnae Turn Saleswomen For Rummage Event

Members of the Washington banch of the Dobbs Alumnae Association will become saleswomen three days this week, for the annual Dobbs rummage sale. The event will be held April 28, 29 and 30 in the parish house of Christ Church, Georgetown, 3108 O st. nw.

The purpose of the sale is to raise funds for the benefit of retired faculty members of the Masters School at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., who are not eligible for Carnegie pensions. The sale has been an annual event in Washington since 1921.

The Washington branch has about 50 active members who contribute rummage and handle the sale. It is headed by Mrs. E. G. Walk. Other members who will be active in the sale this year include Mrs. Charles Marlatt, Mrs. Keith Merrill, Mrs. Harold Bull, Mrs. Robert Carney, Mrs. James O. Gawne, Mrs. Walter Heiberg, Mrs. Dwight Dickinson, Mrs. Pinkney Love, Mrs. Gould Lincoln, Mrs. Dorothy Marlatt Reid, Mrs. A. Collins Boardman, Mrs. Benjamin Weems, Mrs. James P. Tiernan, Miss Marian Stevens, Mrs. Francis Almirall, Mrs. Arthur Chichester, Mrs. Claude Corbusier, and Mrs. L. B. Weeks.

A valuable contribution to the sale is made each year by Mrs. Marlatt, who sets aside space in her home in 16th st. all year long for the storage of articles collected for the sale. A group of busy women have been engaged in price marking these articles during the last week.

World YWCA President To Talk Here

Miss Lilace Reid Barnes of Lake Forest, Ill., president of the World's Council of YWCA, will be principal speaker when Washington YWCA holds its annual luncheon at 1 p. m. today at the Mayflower Hotel.

Preceding the luncheon a reception will be held at noon at which Mrs. Harry Truman will be ranking guest and share honors with Miss Barnes, Mrs. J. Birdsall Calkins and Mrs. Arthur Forrest Anderson, president of the national board of the YWCA.

Miss Mabel R. Cook, executive director of the local association, will report on the local YWCA's service to the community in 1947. Mrs. Howard G. Nichols, president of the Washington YWCA board of directors, will preside.

MISS LILACE R. BARNES

Heading the luncheon committee is Mrs. Nelson T. Johnson. Her assistants include Mrs. Ralph B. Kennard, Miss Gretchen Feiker, Miss Sarah Bruce, Mrs. Fred Miller, Miss Cook and Mrs. Nichols.

Long interested as a volunteer in the work of the YWCA, Miss Barnes was elected to a four-year term as president of the World's Council of the YWCA at its meeting in Hangchow, China, in October, 1947.

She has visited both Europe and China on behalf of the YWCA in the United States, was American member of the World's Council of the YWCA from 1938 to 1944 and early in 1947 was a delegate to its executive committee meeting in Geneva.

From 1936 to 1945 Miss Barnes was president of the Chicago YWCA, retiring from that office to investigate conditions in the liberated countries of Europe and to report to the national board on the people's needs.

Educated at Miss Porter's School, in Farmington, Conn., Miss Barnes is a member of the board of directors of Lake Forest College and of the USO in that city, and has been active in church and hospital work. She is a member of the Women's City Club of Chicago.

Camouflage That Line

I recently lengthened the sleeves of a champagne-colored camel's hair wool suit, and find that after cleaning a faint line still remains. How can I remove this? B. S.

The faint line is probably caused because the fuzz or nap of the fabric has worn off at this line. About the only thing which can be done to improve the appearance would be to brush the line with a stiff brush to help bring up the nap and make it less conspicuous. Or, if the nap is too worn to hope for improvement by brushing, maybe you could stitch a group of three tiny pin tucks at the end of the sleeves, using the worn line for the edge of one tuck.

But you can remove them easily, Petunia! Cut a cheap whiskbroom into a sharp V . . . and you'll find it's wonderful for hard-to-get-at corners.

Bishop-Bracken

Do you know where it is possible to purchase a Mary Ann sponge shell pan? N. M. F.

It seems that Mary Ann pans are slow returning to the market. However, in trying to find one, I came across a suburban hardware store which had had some last week, so they are being made. Perhaps if you write to one of the large aluminum manufacturers they can send you one or tell you where you can purchase one.

Can indelible ink be removed from upholstery in the same manner as washable ink. The ink spots have been on our sofa for three months but were lightened at first by sponging with water and applying lemon juice H. B. G.

All inks, particularly indelible, are very difficult if not impossible to remove from upholstery because it is not possible to get a pad under the stain to absorb the ink. However, since the spots responded to sponging with water, perhaps this treatment will lighten them even more. Sponge with warm water to which a few drops of ammonia have been added. Be sure to sponge toward the center of the stain to avoid spreading it, use a minimum of water and change the water frequently, using a fresh cloth whenever the one you are using becomes stained. If stains still remain, your best chance of removing them is to use a bleach. Of course, the effect of the bleach must be tested on an inconspicuous spot to see the effect on the color before applying it to the stain. A saturated solution of oxalic acid is a bleach which sometimes is helpful in removing ink. Since oxalic acid is a poison, handle it very carefully. After sponging with oxalic acid in the manner suggested above, rinse very thoroughly with a cloth wrung out of clear water.

I have a rather expensive hairbrush with a plastic handle which my young daughter broke. Is there anything with which it can be glued satisfactorily? J. D.

Ethelene dichloride is a plastic solvent which you can use to cement your plastic hairbrush. You place the ends of the plastic in this solution for a few minutes to soften it, then force the broken edges together. For further information about this product call Dupont 8363.

There is a Swap Shop at 1669 Wisconsin ave., Washington, D. C., which handles articles such as your scalp massager, but they tell me that since such articles do not move quickly, they could accept it only if your brought with it some china or other "swapable" merchandise. Also, there is a shop at 113 South Royal st., Alexandria, Va., which sells articles for their customers. They suggest you send the article to them and they will send you a receipt. When you sell it, indicate how much money you would like to get for the article. In addition to your price, they charge an additional 20 per cent for handling.

I used a tablespoon of ammonia to make a "chemical plant." What can I use the rest of the ammonia for? A reader.

You can use ammonia in the water with which you wash windows, glassware and so forth to give them sparkle. Also, ammonia can be used to soften the hard greasy deposit on cooking utensils, ovens and stoves.

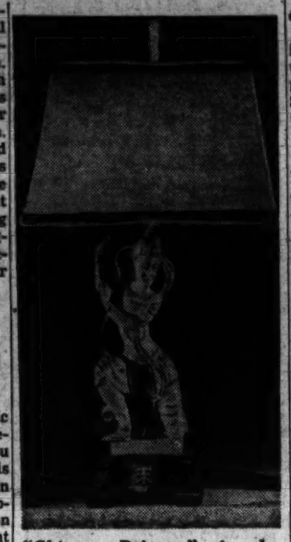
The gold leaf on a picture frame is so very thin that even gentle rubbing may injure it. It is safest to have a professional clean it. However, if you are very careful, the following home method may be successful: Use a half-and-half mixture of alcohol and household ammonia applied with a very soft brush or cotton wound around a stick. After a few minutes to allow the dirt to soften, remove it with clear water also applied with a soft brush or cotton on a stick. Any water that remains is shaken off, and the frame stood on edge to dry.

I have a black wool crepe suit that has picked up a heavy lint. In spite of the fact that I brush it repeatedly, I cannot remove the lint. Is there any treatment available to permanently remove this condition? E. M. M.

Unfortunately, there does not seem to be any treatment which will rid certain fabrics of their tendency to pick up lint. Wrapping electrician's black friction tape (available at dime stores) around a small box and rubbing this over the surface of the fabric will remove the line, as this tape is slightly sticky on both sides. Do any readers have other workable ideas for removing lint?

The roof of our home leaked and, where the water came in, the paper has mildewed. Is there any way to remove this that will not also take color from the paper? C.R.J., jr.

I'm sorry, there doesn't seem to be much that can be done to remove mildew strains from wallpaper. Such stains are not surface stains as they usually penetrate to the wall. Do you happen to have, or could you get a piece of the paper so that you could paste it over the stained area?



"Chinese Princess" is the name of this lamp, one of a pair of hand-carved reproductions of museum pieces now available here. The delicately carved figures, in the attitude of the rhythmic dance, is decorated in burnished gold and silver. The shade is of fine old parchment

Where would you like your extension telephone?

In addition to the everyday convenience an extension provides, it also affords privacy on the telephone when you're entertaining guests. With an extension you know that, if an emergency should arise, your telephone is always near.

The cost of this worthwhile service is only a few cents a day. For complete information, call our Business Office now.

Why you can get an Extension Telephone while some folks are still waiting for telephone service

No new orders for telephone service are being held up for the lack of a telephone instrument. It is the need for additional cable and central office equipment that is temporarily holding us back. We'll be able to fill new orders for service as rapidly as those facilities can be enlarged. It's a big job, but we're working harder than ever to complete it. We don't like to keep anyone waiting for telephone service.

9 Prince Georges Towns Vote May 3

Riverdale to Pick Three Councilmen And Treasury in Municipal Elections

Nine Prince Georges County towns will hold municipal elections May 3. They are Riverdale, Edmonston, Cheverly, Seat Pleasant, Disetrict Heights, North Brentwood, Fairmont Heights, Cottage City and Capitol Heights.

Riverdale will elect three councilmen and a town treasurer. Harry C. Weeks, who has been town treasurer for a quarter of a century, is unopposed for reelection. Edward B. Dunford, Fourth Ward, and F. W. Weigand, sr., First Ward, are unopposed to succeed themselves.

A contest, however, has developed in the Second Ward, with James F. Bonchi, former chief of the town fire department, and Kenneth a Breerwod vying for the post made vacant by the death of Councilman Nathan K. McKnew. Councilman Henry H. Peck, who was named to fill the unexpired term, is not a candidate. The election will be held from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. in the municipal hall over the town firehouse.

Capitol Heights Contests

Capitol Heights has no contest for mayor for the first time in its history. Mayor Thomas A. Shaw, sr., is unopposed but a dozen candidates have filed for six posts on the Town Council. Franklin E. Lampkin, treasurer, also is unopposed.

Candidate for council are William Rawlins, Roland Reno and Thomas Vendemia, incumbests; Carl E. Reed, Norris Simpson, Earl Burdette, Elvin L. Campbell, James Clark, jr., Harvey Ensis, William Hutson, Joseph LiCalzi and Joseph Mulitz. Voting will be from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. in the rear of the Seat Pleasant Bank branch building, 6111 Central ave.

District Heights will elect two members of the board of town commissioners. Three candidates have filed for the three-year term: Gustave Vedseldt, Leonard Harkness, the incumbent, and Philip M. Teater. For the two-year term, two candidates have filed, William J. McNamara, the incumbent, and Percy E. Clark. The third member of the board, Francis E. Gorley, has another year to serve. The election will be held from 1 p. m. to 1d p. m. in the District Heights Firehouse.

Edmonston and Cheverly

Edmonston has two town council candidates, both incumbents and unopposed. They are R. K. Small, first ward, and Henry Adams, second ward. Place of the election will be announced later.

Cheverly voters also expect a quiet day. Charles Kidwell is unopposed for the town council from the first ward and Morris A. Simone, is also unopposed in the fourth ward. Election will be held in the American Legion Hall basement from 11 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Cottage City has contests in two wards but in the second ward Carl Minnick, the incumbent, is the only candidate. Candidates for councilman from the third ward are Anton Jesneck, incumbent, and Henry Caspare, while three candidates are in the race for councilman from the fourth ward: Colin L. Ward, the incumbent, Thomas E. Hunt and Willard E. Morse. The election will be held in the town fire house from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Fairmount Heights

Fairmount Heights will elect three members of the town council but the filing date is Tuesday and no candidates have filed as yet. Voting will be in the town firehouse, 717 60th pl. from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.

North Brentwood also is expecting quiet election with incumbents unopposed. They are Wallace E. Williams, second ward, and Orlando C. Hobbs, third ward. Election will be in the town firehouse from 1 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Seat Pleasant will have a contest for mayor for the first time in a decade. Mayor Van Moreland will be oposed by W. C. Smith. Six candidates are seeking five council seats. They are Fred E. Godfrey, Joseph Gardella, and James M. Roberts, all incumbents, Robert L. Gwyn E. Gardner. Two incumbents, George Cleary and Clarence M. Mace, are not seeking reelection. J. Theodore Crown is unopposed for reelection as treasurer. Voting will be from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. in the town firehouse.

Wedding Row In D. C. Court Again Today

The phase of the Manning wedding reception which interested police will be continued in Municipal Court at 9:30 a. m. today.

In an appearance that will trim his honeymoon to a weekend, the bridegroom, James Anthony Manning, jr., 1518 Fort Davis st. se., is scheduled to answer to charges of assault with a dangerous weapon.

The court appearances are the outgrowth of a lively fight which broke out during the reception at American Legion clubhouse, 2437 15th st. nw., Saturday afternoon only a few hours after the nuptials at St. Stephen's Church.

Senate Hopes To Act Fast on Anti-Lynching

By the United Press

Senate leaders were hopeful yesterday that a strong anti-lynching bill will be on the Senate calendar by the end of this week, and they are ready to battle Southern opposition to pass it.

Chairman Ferguson (R., Mich.) told the United Press his Judiciary Subcommittee has written "just as strong a law as is possible under the Constitution." He hopes the full Judiciary Committee will approve it at a special meeting Thursday.

The Republican Policy Committee, headed by Senator Taft of Ohio, already has given the act a green light, with only national defense proposals deemed more urgent.

Unlike a measure pending in the House, Ferguson's bill does not limit lynchings to mob violence based in race hatred. Any group of two or more people who tried to take the law into their own hands would add up to a lynch mob.

"We tried to write an anti-lynching bill, not an antidiscrimination bill," Ferguson said. But he added that omission of reference to race, color and religion was not intended as a concession to the South.

Takoma Park Will Dedicate 'President's Tree'

Dedication of "The President's Tree," an American beech approximately 150 years old, near Sligo Parkway and Maple ave., Takoma Park, Md., will be held by the Takoma Historical Society today at 6:30 p. m.

Names of the Presidents of the United States from George Washington to Abraham Lincoln are carved on the tree, which will be dedicated as a living symbol to American war dead. The carving, according to society records, was done by Samuel M. Fenton at least 83 years ago.

Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant, 3d, chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission; Lieut. Col. E. Brooke Lee, vice chairman of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and Mrs. E. G. Salisbury of the historical society, will be principal speakers. John W. Coffman, sr., will be master of ceremonies.

Frederick Budget Hearing May 28

Winchester, Va., April 25 (Spl.).—Frederick County supervisors have set May 28 as the date for a public hearing on the proposed county budget for the fiscal year 1948-1949 and a proposal to increase the general county levy from 40 cents to 80 cents on each $100 assessed valuation.

No changes are proposed in the 41 county school levy and a 60-cent special school levy for construction of a new consolidated county high school.

Carved From Solid Turquoise

The Washington Post

A GIFT to the Smithsonian Institution, this head of an Arabian stallion, carved from solid turquoise by Oskar J. W. Hansen, noted Charlottesville, Va., sculptor, represents a primitive Indian legend of a phantom "Blue Horse." Mounted on a base of obsidian, gold, ebony and mahogany, and valued at several thousand dollars, it was given by George Gilmer, Charlottesville lawyer, and is on display in the Hall of Minerals of the National Museum. Hansen carved it without any previous modeling, from an unusually large chunk of Arizona turquoise, a stone highly prized by the Indians. Ruby Lee Coffman, 11, of Alexandria, Va., is shown admiring it

Mental Hygiene Group to Meet

Authorities on mental hygiene will participate in a public panel at the annual meeting of the Montgomery County Mental Hygiene Society Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Circuit Court room, Rockville, Md.

The meeting has been switched from Normandy Farms, where it was originally planned, to accommodate a greater attendance, Mrs. Dexter Bullard, president, said.

Panel participants include: T. Owen Knight of the Montgomery County Board of Education; Trial Magistrate Warren Browning, representing the county bar association; Juvenile Court Judge Alfred D. Noyes; Mrs. Linden S. Dodson, acting director of the Welfare Board; Mrs. Edith M. Stern, author and member of the State Board of Mental Hygiene, and Dr. William Welsh of the Montgomery County Medical Society.

Police Grill Another Foe Of Reuther

Detroit, April 25 (U.P.).—Police today grilled another union political opponent of Walter P. Reuther to determine what he knows about the shotgun shooting of the CIO United Auto Workers president.

Carl Bolton, 37, a former vice president of UAW Ford Local 400, was jailed in a continuing check of former union officials who lost their jobs after Reuther's victory over his left-wing foes. Inspector Joseph A. Krug said Bolton was being held while police checked his whereabouts on last Tuesday night, when an unknown assailant severely wounded the red-haired labor leader.

Has Minor Police Record

A union spokesman said Bolton, who has a minor police record, "never was a bitter foe of Reuther's," although he had lined up with the other side in union political matters.

Close personal friends of Reuther pointed out that the well laid plan was thwarted by a quirk of fate that undoubtedly saved Reuther's life. They said the gunman was lurking in bushes near the back door of Reuther's house, apparently waiting for him to use the rear entrance to the home.

Usually Used Rear Door

Reuther almost invariably entered his home through the back door, but on the night of the shooting he walked around to the front door after returning from a meeting of the union's executive board. Reuther himself does not know why he suddenly changed his habit.

The gunman then was forced to await his chance to shoot through a window. Finally he fired the shotgun charge at Reuther when he moved near a kitchen window.

Big Jap Beetle Influx Predicted

He based his warning on "favorable weather conditions" during the past two summers, and blankets of snow that protected beetle grubs during the winter.

Annexation Studied

Manassas, Va., April 25 (Spl.).—A joint committee of representatives of the Manassas Town Council and the Prince William County Chamber of Commerce is studying the advisability of annexation to extend the town limits. The town council committe appointed by Mayor Harry P. Davis includes G. Wallace Hook and W. E. Trusler. The chamber of commerce group is composed of R. Jackson Ratcliffe, Dr. George B. Cocke, Claude E. Hixson, Roy Helms and J. Carl Kincheloe.

Poorest in U. S. Seen Envy of Any in Soviet

Salisbury, Md., April 25 (A.P.).—House Speaker Martin today said the Nation is "bedeviled" by high prices, but declared that "the poorest family in America is better off than anybody in Russia."

Addressing a Negro fraternal gathering, the Massachusetts Republican said:

"Most of the Russian people live in mud hovels, log huts or else are crowded into quarters which would make even our crowded conditions in America highly luxurious. The people are slaves.

"Our taxes are too high, but in Russia just recently, they executed a 90 per cent capital levy. How would you feel if your Government here were to order you to take all of your dollars to the nearest bank and have the bank take 9 out of every 10 dollars and allow you to keep only 1?"

Martin said the Communists have established "important beachheads" in this country and have women" in leadership positions in the Government and in some labor unions.

Martin said high prices are "the result of years of reckless spending by the Government," and then declared:

"We can't serve the best interests of the country by a topheavy super-costly structure of inefficient governmental agencies. We must eliminate the unnecessary drain upon the taxpayers' money. We must continue to cut the cost of Government."

1500 Pilgrims Attend 341st Cape Henry Fete

Cape Henry, Va., April 25 (A.P.).—Some 1500 persons in the annual pilgrimage to Cape Henry were urged by Senator Alben W. Barkley (D., Ky.) today to uphold the heritage of America's forefathers.

"We are still pioneers," Barkley said in an address on the 341st anniversary of the landing of British colonists at Cape Henry. "The pioneering spirit will always actuate every liberty-loving people."

He urged those present to see to it that "not only our Government but all our social, intellectual, economic and moral relations exercise that originality and that fearlessness which drove our forefathers across the untried seas and into the unknown wilderness of physical and political development."

Attorney General Tom Clark said, "America has a destiny to save the nations from a Godless ideology."

Orange County Chamber To Hear Governor Tuck

Orange, Va., April 25 Spl.).—Gov. William M. Tuck will address a meeting and banquet of the Orange County Chamber of Commerce Wednesday at 7 p. m. in the DeVivi Club on the Gordonsville rd.

Welford A. Sherman, chamber president, will preside at the meeting. The Governor will be introduced by N. C. Bailey, member of the Virginia Assembly.

About 150 persons are expected to attend, including representatives of chambers in adjoining counties.

Shostakovich Joins Chorus Of Apologists

Moscow, April 25 (U.P.).—Dmitri Shostakovich added his voice tonight to the chorus of Russian composers who have apologized publicly to the Communist Party for striking the wrong political chords.

Shostakovich, one of Russia's "big three" composers, said now he is back on the right track after making the serious ideological mistakes of which the Communist Party accused him three months ago.

"I know that the party is right . . . and that I must look for and find concrete creative ways which will lead me to a realistic Soviet peoples art," he said.

Shostakovich spoke at the closing session of the All-Union Conference of Composers, which began last Monday. Composers Aram Khatchaturian, Vano Muradeli and Vissarien Shebalin gave their explanations earlier, but failed to satisfy their colleagues.

Cancer Drive to Begin

Fredericksburg, Va., April 25 (Spl.)—The anual drive for funds for the American Cancer Society will get underway in King George County Monday. Mrs. H. Irving Brock is chairman of the campaign.

Lana Will Wed Today in Film Glamor Setting

Hollywood, April 25 (A.P.).—Lana Turner and millionaire Henry J. (Bob) Topping will be married Monday with glamorous Hollywood trimmings — including ix-pound lobsters flown from Boston and carved-ice statues of birds kissing.

The ceremony will take place about 2 p. m. (PDST) in the flower-filled Bel-Air living room of William R. (Billy) Wilkerson. He, a film trade-paper publisher, discovered Lana at a drive-in sandwich stand 11 years ago.

The sweater girl will carry a bouquet of four large white orchids. In a gown of champagne-hued Chantilly lace, she'll descend a curving stairway on Wilkerson's arm while a string orchestra plays the wedding march.

It will be the fourth marriage for each.

Tinplate heir Topping was divorced Friday in Bridgeport, Conn., by actress Arline Judge.

At the champagne reception afterward, a buffet table will hold caviar, smoked salmon, roast pheasant (reassembled, with wings and tail feathers, to look alive, and roast beef, ham and turkey.

Wilkerson said Lana and Topping plan to fly to New York City for several days, sail for London May 5 on the Mauretania, and spend altogether about six months in Europe.

GWU Hillel House Dedication Set For Next Sunday

Hillel House at George Washington University will be dedicated next Sunday, Morris Gewirz, president of the Hillel Foundation Corp., said yesterday.

Hillel House, 2129 F st. nw., is one of 175 such foundations established on college campuses throughout the country for Jewish students. They are sponsored by the B'nai B'rith.

Open house will be held from 2 to 5 p. m., with brief ceremonies at 2:45 p. m. Mrs. Morris Gewirz is chairman. Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, president of the university, is expected to take part.

Student Congress Set At Randolph-Macon

Ashland, Va., April 25 (A.P.).—Student leaders at Virginia colleges will get together at Randolph Macon College Friday and Saturday for a student congress.

Each school in the State will send as delegates the chairman of the college's honor council, the student body president and the college paper editor.

Home Agent in New Post

Fredericksburg, Va., April 25 (Spl.)—Miss Daisy Howerton, home demonstration agent of Botecourt County since 1940, has become agent for Spotsylvania County. She succeeds Mrs. Lester Carver.

Rabbi Pleads Man's Need of Free Spirit

Humanity's need for spiritual freedom was emphasized yesterday by Rabbi Morris Pickholz, as Washington Jewry observed the second day of Passover.

Speaking at Washington Highlands Jewish Center, 100 Atlantic ave. se., Rabbi Pickholz said:

"The freedom that the Jews fought for was not only the overthrow of the physical yoke of bondage but it was predicated on higher spiritual values. It was a freedom based on the Bible; a struggle for justice and truth and the great moral universal laws. It was a war against the ideological pagan conceptions of the Egyptians.

"At the present time our own brethren in Palestine are still fighting that same battle. The nations of the world, by proclaiming freedom while using false diplomacy and legalistic interpretations, have proven that they do not as yet fully comprehend the message of Passover.

In his Passover message at Adas Israel Synagogue, 6th and I sts. nw., Rabbi Solomon H. Metz declared.

"The freedom that Passover celebrates goes beyond the borders of the political and economic, and transcends race and country. It is more than absence of oppression. Passover means that man must be free not only from the despotism of the taskmasters without, but also from the animalizing tyranny of the dark, chaos-born, life-destroying vanities, lusts and hates within."

For Reformed Jews, the Passover Feast will end Friday night, and for Orthodox Jews, Saturday at sundown.

12 to Be Named For Congress In Maryland

Baltimore, April 25 (A.P.).—Maryland voters a week from tomorrow will quietly make a dozen nominations for Congress, and then leave the matter of presidential nominees up to the convention delegates.

Because no candidate filed, there will be no presidential preference primary for either Democrats or Republicans.

There is every likelihood that both parties will send uninstructed delegations to the Democratic and Republican national conventions.

The lack of a presidential primary leaves the presidential question in Maryland up to the State conventions of the two parties.

Marylanders do not vote for delegates to the national convention. Each legislative district chooses State convention delegates up to the total number of its representation in the Maryland General Assembly. The State conventions then choose the delegates to the national metting.

The Republican State convention will be held in Baltimore May 20. The Democratic convention also will be held here but the date has not been set.

There has been a drive on for state convention delegates who would favor Gen. Douglas MacArthur for the Republican presidential nomination. The campaign has largely been centered in the city and how many MacArthur delegates might be elected to the state convention is problematical.

Republican leaders favor an uninstructed delegation to Philadelphia and there will be one if MacArthur supporters are unable to muster enough men to start a stampede.

The Republican convention will mark the retirement of State Chairman Galen Tait, who has held the post since 1914 except for an eight-year period between 1934 and 1942. State GOP Treasurer Henry Stockbridge also will resign.

While Maryland is affiliated with the Southern Conference of Governors, there has been no open revolt over President Truman's civil rights program such as there has been in other states. There are no Democratic favorite sons on the horizon, other than talk by some sources of Senator Millard Tydings as a vice presidential nominee.

Persons high in the state democratic party, therefore, say they expect to seen an instructed delegation go to Philadelphia.

Memorial Day Chairman

Manassas, Va., April 25 (Spl.).—Theodore Ritter has been named general chairman of a committee arranging for Memorial Day services here. The program will be jointly sponsored by the American Legion Post 158, the Francis Cannon Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the Ladies Memorial Association.

Group Picks Officers

Leesburg, Va., April 25 (Spl.).—B. H. Bratney of the Leesburg District has been elected president of the county-wide committee for Japanese beetle control. Other officers elected are: J. M. Hughes of Broad Run District, vice president, and D. C. Sands of Mercer District, secretary-treasurer.

Thank-You Notes

When grandma, uncles and aunts, or family friends sent children gifts on birthdays and other occasions, they appreciate "thank you" notes from the youngsters. But very often, Mary or Billy don't appreciate having to write. They don't know what to say, and besides, this writing business is pretty much of a job.

One simple way of avoiding the family fuss that this situation so commonly develops is for Mom or Pop to agree to act as secretary. Given a few ideas of what might be said, the youngster shouldn't find it difficult to thank the sender of the gift, give a bit of family news and perhaps even draw a simple picture at the end of the letter to entertain Grandma or Uncle Bill. As the mechanical process of writing becomes easier with age, children will take over more and more of their own letter writing and will have profited from the "secretarial" help they got during the earlier years.

Gosh, that's a good radio show on those records Uncle Ralph brought, isn't it, Mr. O'Malley?
TUNE IN AGAIN NEXT—
No.
Can't compare it with the program I recorded over at Jane's house . . . The disks look identical, but what's on them is what counts—
I'll play my program. You won't even consider these other records after this—Forget your Uncle Ralph's recordings. Sit back and—
You sat on them!

YES, FLOSSIE! THE BOY DIDN'T SHOW UP! CAN YOU IMAGINE A SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD KID NOT COMIN' HOME FOR HIS SUPPER?
NO, I CAN'T! BUT I GUESS A LOT OF KIDS OVER IN THAT SECTION COME AND GO AS THEY PLEASE, PHIL!
YEAH! AND THAT'S JUST WHY THEY GET INTO TROUBLE!
YOU'LL GO OVER AGAIN, THOUGH, WON'T YOU, PHILIP? THAT BOY'S MOTHER IS COUNTING ON YOU—SO MUCH!
OF COURSE I'LL GO OVER AGAIN! I WOULDN'T LET HER DOWN! BUT I'M AFRAID THE BOY IS TOO FAR GONE FOR EVEN ME TO CHANGE HIM!
YOU'RE GOING TO TALK TO THE KID YOURSELF, MICKEY?
YES, TOM—I'M AFRAID UNCLE PHIL MIGHT RUB HIM THE WRONG WAY—AND DO MORE HARM THAN GOOD!

Two of Our Squirrels Appear To Have Been Trapped

Several weeks ago I wrote an item about the 14 Squirrel Cage bachelors who face the perils of Leap Year with equanimity.

House Manager Al Mapou of 1841 Summit pl. nw. writes:

"We would like to express our appreciation for your accuracy in writing about us.

"However, you did fail to mention the handsomest and most popular bachelor in the Squirrel Cage, Michael M. McGillicudy.

"Mike has a wonderful disposition, a pleasant personality, and a congenial nature. In fact, he is one of the most intelligent canines we've ever encountered.

"He is the pride and joy of the house. Although he is slightly spoiled by having 14 masters, he is very democratic and permits us to use the living room, and even to eat at the table with him.

"But enough about Mike. What I started out to tell you was that, as a result of your item, a girl phoned us and offered to bet that she could get the 14 hardboiled bachelors to invite her to dinner at the Squirrel Cage.

"Mindful of the Leap Year dangers which beset bachelors at every turn, we assured her that she could not.

"That's about all there is to the story except that two nights later our caller and her girl friend enjoyed an excellent dinner prepared by our expert cook, Lucille, and a very pleasant evening was had by all."

So you had a pleasant evening, eh? That's all, brothers. You're beyond salvation now. The girls have a first down on your 1-yard line and you guys don't even realize what's happening to you.

Don't forget to send me an invitation to the wedding.

TODAY ON WINX: HERBLOCK

In discussing a Herblock cartoon on the air the other day, I said it would be a nice idea to coax the shy Mr. Block into making an appearance before the microphone.

Several listeners sent in postcards and letters, urging our cartoonist to be on the program. Sue Hamilton of Alexandria, Va., put it this way:

A chance to hear Block talk.
So let's get Herbert to the mike;
Please, Bill, don't let him balk.

That did it. Cartoonist Herblock will be on the program with me at noon today, to explain how a man can manage to look busy for eight hours a day while he's doing nothing more than turning out one sketch.

PIED TYPE DEPT.

C. S. Trimble of 1443 Holly st. nw. notes that our morning contemporary has uncovered the baseball story of the season.

In a recent National League contest between the Braves and the Phils, Sisti (according to the box score) played shortstop for both teams, and did rather well at it.

For Boston he batted eighth and got one hit in three trips to the plate; for Philadelphia he moved to the cleanup position and went two-for-four.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

You will soon receive a gushy poem about me. I hope you won't print junk like this, because if you do I'll be the laughing stock of our school.

The girl who is sending it is very mean, but luckily her sister told me she was sending it. So, Bill, if you're a human being, please don't print it.

Name Withheld.

Dear Sir:

As one man to another, son, you can depend on me not to embarrass you.

Besides, she didn't sign her name and address, so I just threw the poem in the wastebasket.

Bill.

MUSICAL EDITORIALS

Several readers have asked me to find out who produces those catchy "I'm-a-good-American" jingles which Howard Williams has been playing on his WINX Bandstand program.

They're known as "Little Songs on Big Subjects." The lyrics urge us to put our democratic principles to work in our daily lives.

The records are furnished free to hundreds of radio stations by the Institute for Democratic Education, Inc., 415 Lexington ave., New York, N. Y.

The singers call themselves the Jesters—and as far as I'm concerned, they're turning out the only singing commercials that aren't a pain in the neck.

FINE SUGGESTION

Jean Slater Appel of 532 20th st. nw. has a perfectly wonderful suggestion for our City Fathers. Jean says:

"Once again, the District of Columbia will get a large sum of money as its share of the John L. Lewis fine.

"I think we ought to use this money to establish a National Auditorium for symphony concerts, opera performances, and the use of civic organizations.

"The logical name for such an auditorium, of course, would be the 'Lewis Fine' Arts Hall."

LOGGERHEADS REVISITED

The other day Jerry Boin's poem wondered about the location of Loggerheads, the place at which management and labor so often find themselves.

I said that it was near the oft-bombed town of Random, but Alfred Friendly thinks otherwise:

It's very near High Dudgeon,
Not far from Deep Chagrin,
Which union men and bosses
Are wont to stalk off in.

It's also near Dead Center,
Where workingman and toff
Will cling despite all efforts
To get the matter off.

It borders on Own Counsel
Which both sides will declare,
In face of mounting pressure,
they

NEW YORK.—General Eisenhower's contract for the publication of his war memoirs contains a unique clause—unique in view of his announcements that he is unavailable as a candidate for political office. The General is not unmindful that he may be drafted for office—that he may be nominated despite his statements. The publication contract therefore provides that his manuscript is to be withheld in the event that he should be nominated for office.

Robert R. Young brought the Duke of Windsor to a board meeting of the Chesapeake & Ohio R. R. Before the Duke arrived, Young briefed the board members on protocol—the bow of the head, remembering to address him as "Your Royal Highness" or as "Sir," etc. . . . Robert Bowman, president of the C. & O., wasn't in the room during this briefing. When he entered and saw a stranger there, the affable American railroad man walked up to the Duke of Windsor, stuck out his hand, and said: "My name's Bowman. What's yours?"

Fifteen years ago Brooks Atkinson and Richard Watts, the drama critics, were at a party in N. Y. and, after they left, they discovered that they'd exchanged overcoats. Both coats had been purchased at the same place, and were exactly alike, except in size. . . . Last week Atkinson and Watts went to Fordham University to cover a performance of an O'Neill play. When they left they discovered that again they had exchanged overcoats. Furthermore, they were still wearing the same coats they wore 15 years ago.

At the Greenbrier Hotel last weekend, where 300 millionaires, stage and screen stars, socialites and business executives were the guests of the management, one of the visitors said, during the Diamond Ball: "This probably is the last of the great social events of a changing age. Civilization may be dancing at the brink of a precipice." . . . "Whenever civilization dances at the brink of a precipice," said bandleader Meyer Davis, "it's always to the music of Meyer Davis."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Lively Debate in GOP Caucus

By Drew Pearson

Notes from the secret Republican House caucus—Big debate over Federal aid to education, also salary raises for postal employes.

PEARSON

Speaker Joe Martin was opposed to both. So was GOP leader Halleck of Indiana . . . "Defense comes first," said the Speaker. "After we get that out of the way, there'll be plenty of time left to take up aid to education and postal pay raises." . . . Other Republicans didn't like this much . . . After whispering with Joe Martin, Halleck finally lectured his flock: "Neither the Speaker nor I have at any time indicated to anyone what he should or should not do. I reiterate that position now. Vote your convictions." . . . Meanwhile the teachers' pay bill remains tightly blocked in committee by Representative Fred Hartley of New Jersey. He rushed the Taft-Hartley Act out in a hurry but not pay for teachers.

How's That, Doc?

Loquacious Congressman Fred "Doc" Smith of Ohio fired a blast at the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill. "It's a Communist measure," sputtered Smith.

"Well, we're all entitled to our opinions," retorted Ohio's George Bender. "But this is the first time I knew that Bob Taft (sponsor of the bill) was a Communist."

GOP leader Charlie Halleck pleaded with colleagues not to force bills out of committee by signing discharge petitions. (He had reference to margarine.) . . . "These fellows who go around and promiscuously sign discharge petitions," moaned Halleck, "make it hard on the committees." . . . "I suppose the gentleman is hinting at me," interrupted Indiana's Ed Mitchell. He pleaded guilty to circulating the petition to get the margarine tax bill out of the Agriculture Committee. But, snapped Mitchell: "I notice the very people who hollered about it were the very ones who jumped the gun and signed a petition with the Democrats for boosting REA (Rural Electrification Administration) appropriations." . . . "Every member has the right to do what he pleases," soothed Halleck. "But I believe in party organization. I would never sign a discharge petition myself."

Discouraging Economy

August Andresen of Minnesota came in late. He had led the fight to keep margarine under tax bondage, but he started off right away, not knowing of Mitchell's remarks.

"Some of the Republicans are helping to put over repeal of the margarine taxes," he grumbled. "That will only help the Southern cotton boys. The Northern dairy boys have always been the Republicans' friends, and here you are cutting their throats."

Wisconsin's Frank Keefe made an appeal for economy, criticized colleagues who vote for local, special-interest projects at the expense of Republican economy.

"It's mighty discouraging in the Appropriations Committee," complained Keefe, "to go over a matter and spend time on it and do what you think is right, then have some Republicans come in and knock the props out."

There was a lively debate on the question of salary raises for postal employes. Congressman Charles Vursell of Illinois spoke out against the postal wage raise, contending that Government costs and expenses were too great at the present time to warrant raises for any one department . . . William H. Stevenson of Wisconsin replied blisteringly:

"It isn't our fault that the cost of living has gone up while the Democrats were in control during the last 16 years. But we must face the fact that costs have gone up, and unless we pay these experienced and loyal postal employes more money, we're going to lose them to private industry." . . . He reminded Vursell that he had voted for postal pay hikes himself.

Missouri's Bill Cole chimed in. . . . Soon a heated three-way battle was in full flare . . . "Regular order!" shouted some one, and the tempest calmed.

Warned Ross Rizley of Oklahoma: "We make a mistake when we wrangle. We just don't want to go apart at the seams. The Republican Party has the confidence of the people. I hope we won't get into any wrangles to upset that confidence."

Fence-Sitting

Connecticut's Horace Seely-Brown complained that the Grand Old Party was not making up its mind on policy.

Deserve Credit

Four men deserve chief credit for Senate passage of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill, which will provide low-cost public housing for an estimated 500,000 families in the next five years. They are: GOP Senators Charles Tobey of New Hampshire, coauthor Bob Taft of Ohio, Ralph Flanders of Vermont and Democrat John Sparkman of Alabama.

Only insiders know how tirelessly Tobey worked to get the housing measure out of the Banking and Currency Committee, which he heads. Almost equal credit belongs to Flanders who chairmanned the subcommittee, and who teamed with Taft in blocking last-minute efforts by the real estate lobby to gut the legislation.

Sparkman was a pillar of strength on the Democratic side. So was South Carolina's Burnet Maybank, who did yeoman service lining up Democratic support both in committee and on the floor.

Each day and night

Whenever I behold the sun . . . That lights another day . . . I think of you and all the things . . . That I would like to say . . . I find another cause for joy . . . Wherever I may look . . . To add to all the happiness . . . That fills my memory book . . . And when the daylight disappears . . . And shadows hold the night . . . I dream of you until at last . . . The stars are out of sight . . . Because you mean so much to me . . . And I adore you so . . . That you are always in my heart . . . No matter where I go . . . And just because there is no part . . . Of anything I do . . . That I consider worth my while . . . Unless it pleases you.

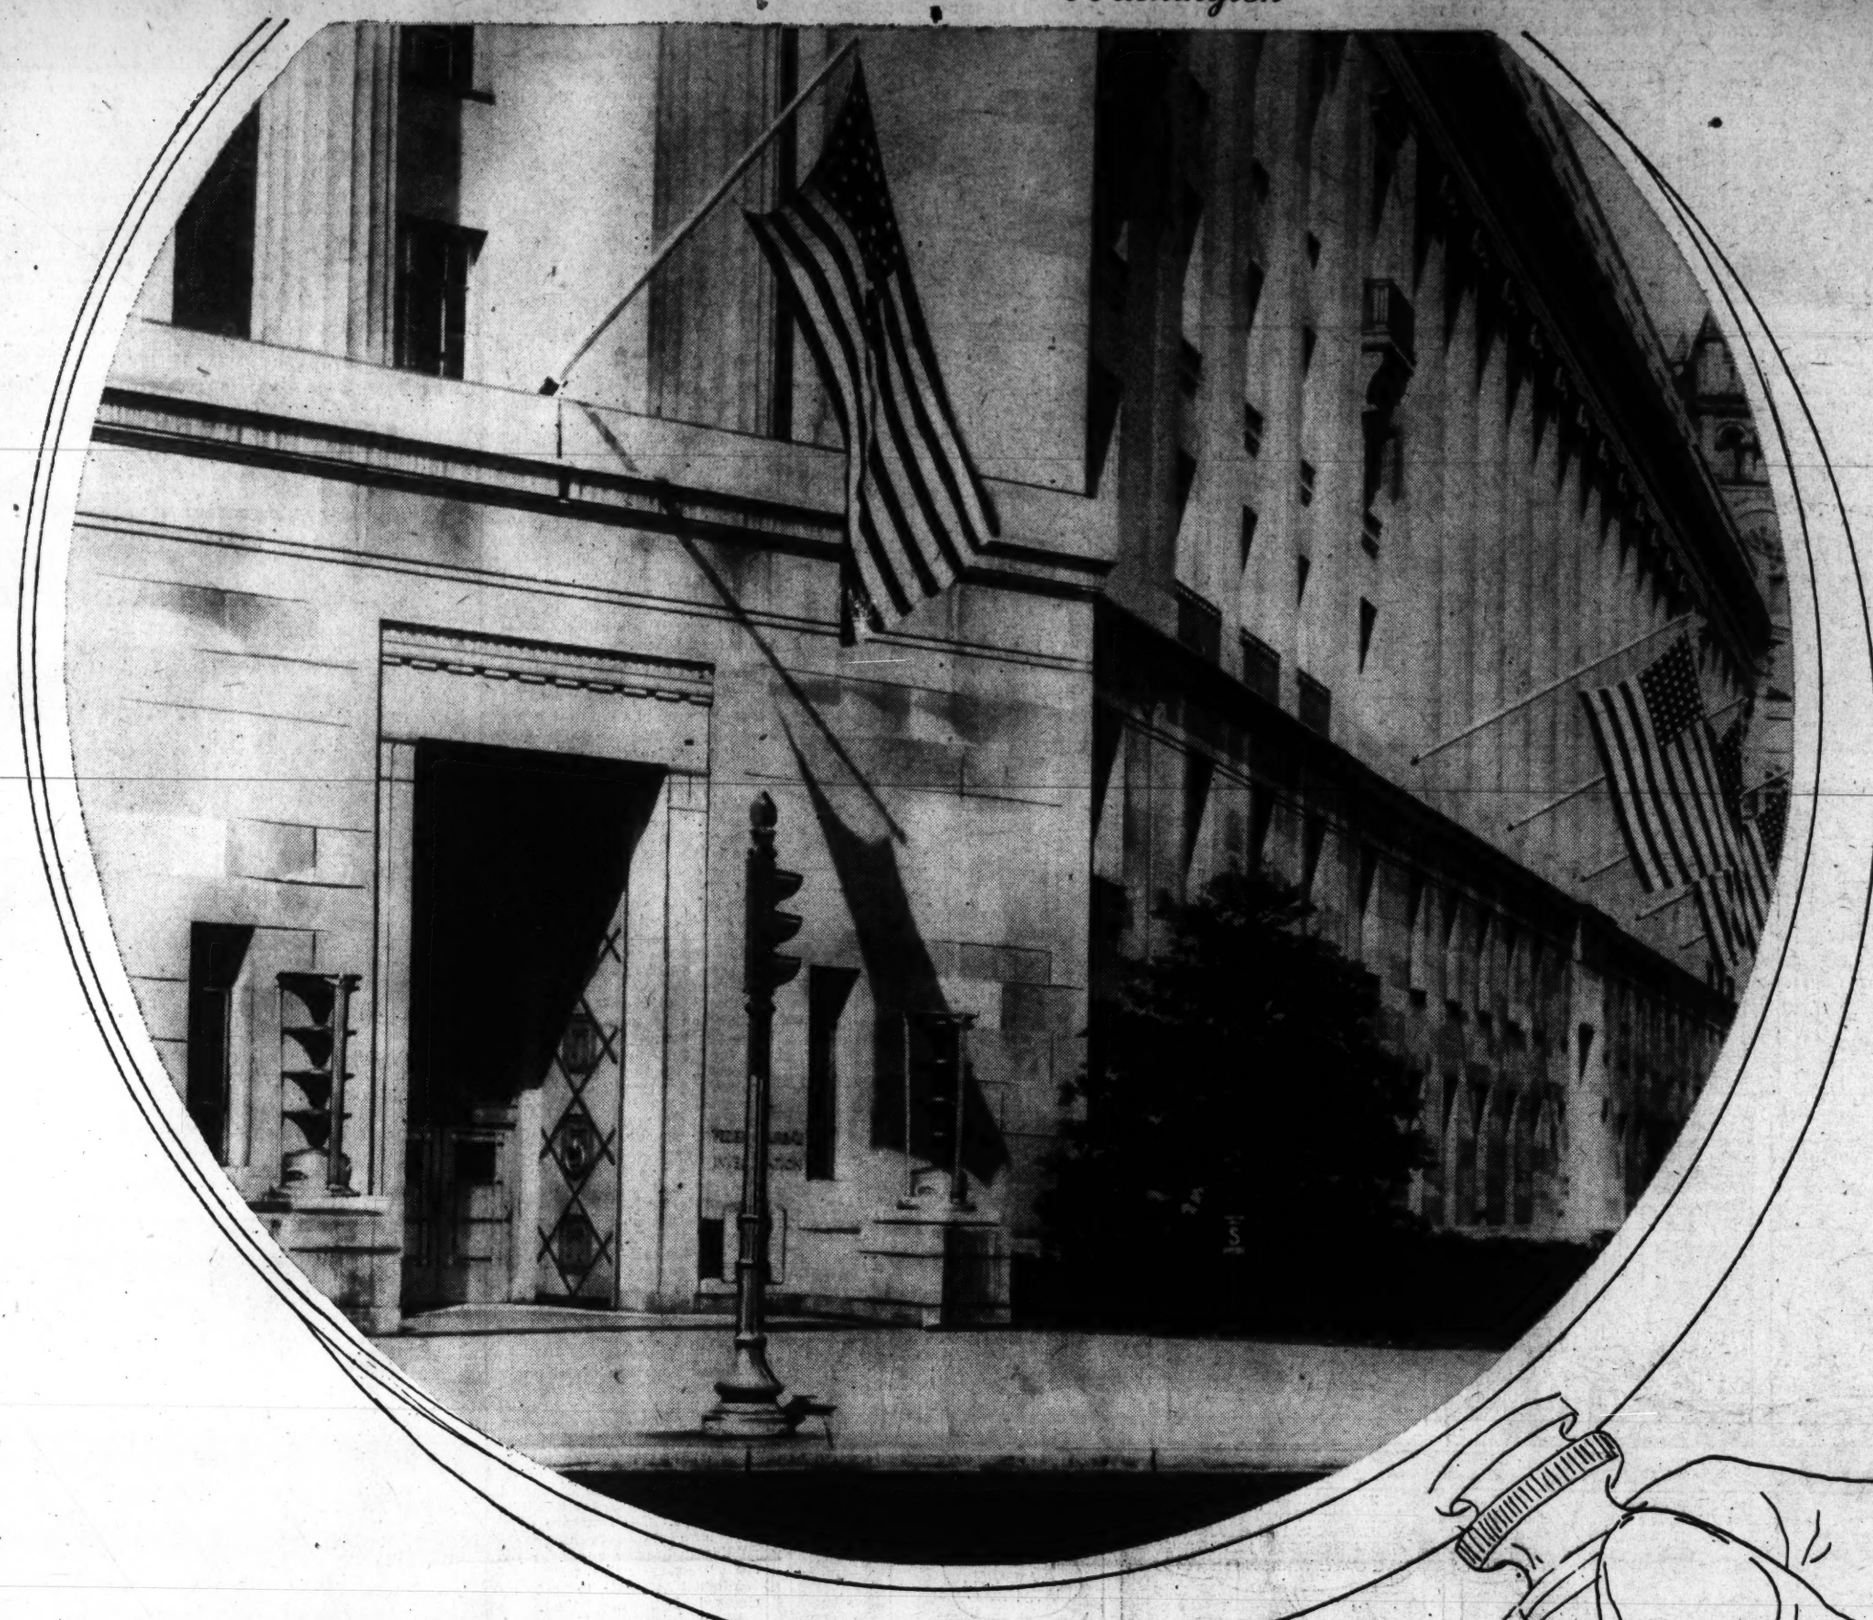
★ No. 4 IN A SERIES DEDICATED TO THE NATION'S CAPITAL, Washington . . . ITS INSTITUTIONS AND ITS PEOPLE ★



THIS WEEK . . . THE HECHT COMPANY SALUTES

The Federal Bureau of Investigation

And Its People Who Protect the Security of The United States

The F. B. I. . . . was established in 1908 . . . when the Attorney General directed that Department of Justice investigations be handled by a small group of specialists. In the following year the name "Bureau of Investigation" was given this group.

The F. B. I. . . . thoroughly screens applicants for the position of Special Agents . . . carefully searching their backgrounds for flaws in their character and ability. Successful applicants are then given extremely rigorous training in many fields of criminal investigation.

The F. B. I. . . . utilizes the latest in scientific knowledge in its relentless campaign to stamp out crime. Operating a modern fully-equipped laboratory, experts develop secret writing, identify handwriting and examine firearms, explosives, hairs, fibers, bloodstains and any other objects which are sent in for their analysis. By putting science to work, the F.B.I. has been able to speed up the detection of criminals and to reduce the possibility of error to a minimum.

The F. B. I. . . . is a self-sustaining organization . . . and annually recovers and collects far more money than is appropriated for its operation. The present budget totals thirty-five million dollars . . . a small price to pay for the maintenance of the security of our country.

The F. B. I. . . . began to build up its fingerprint files during the 1920s. It was aided by the consolidation of several collections of fingerprints in existence at the time . . . and through the years it has increased its collection . . . until today, over one hundred four million fingerprints are on file in Washington.

The F. B. I. . . . during the last war . . . operating against highly trained Axis sabotage rings . . . prevented the occurrence of a single act of enemy-directed sabotage in our country. And while faced with the tremendous job of maintaining the security of the country during the war, the F.B.I. also kept internal crime at a minimum.

The FBI . . . watchdog of American justice . . . labors unceasingly in its never-ending struggle against crime. Composed of thousands of highly-trained and patriotic citizens . . . who bring together a myriad of skills and talents . . . the Bureau, from its Headquarters in Washington, directs the many-sided activities of its agents who are distributed throughout the length and breadth of the land. A wealth of divorse work must go into the solution of a single case . . . and the workers of the FBI are fully aware of the teamwork necessary for the fulfillment of their mission. Fingerprint specialists, clerks, fiscal workers, laboratory technicians, lawyers, communications personnel, and many others, all play parts in the thousands of cases handled by the Bureau every year. The success of the FBI reflects the high morale of its workers. From the early 1930s, when gangsterism reigned unchecked . . . to the present day . . . the FBI's efforts to enforce the law have been crowned with success. Banished from the American scene are the Dillingers and the "Baby Face" Nelsons of the last decade. And during the recent war . . . as a direct result of FBI vigilance . . . there was not a single case of enemy-engineered sabotage. Today, as always, the FBI, under the very capable leadership of J. Edgar Hoover, stands prepared to protect the American way of life from those who would do it harm. We may rest assured that its personnel, imbued with the selfless spirit that is part and parcel of the Bureau, will continue in their role as protectors of our Democracy . . . our peace and our safety.
